Effigy Burned Here

An effigy bearing a striking resemblance to Lawrence's dean of men was burned at the bottom of U. of Wisconsin's Maclay Hill early Tuesday night. The figure was clad in blue jeans.

Kahn To Discuss Category Theory

Donald Kahn, assistant professor of mathematics at the University of Minnesota, will address a mathematics seminar at 4:30 p.m., Friday, April 29, in room 161 of Van Tassel Hall. His topic is "Category Theory: Some Ideas in Mathematics." Coffee will be served at 4 p.m.

Student Workshop To Study Poverty

Lawrence will host a student conference on poverty April 25-26. A group of midwestern college students and faculty members will investigate opportunities for student services in the war on poverty. The programs at the centers will not be open to the public.

The participants, from colleges and universities in Minnesota, Indiana and Wisconsin, will work with a group of young people who have experience in serving the underprivileged in New York City.

The workshop will be sponsored by the Lawrence University Foundation, which is cooperating with Lawrence in the project.

Miss Dorothy Draheim, Lawrence's registrar, here addresses last Saturday's Lawrence Women's Association conference on "The Roles of Education Women." Other speakers at the conference were Dr. Harold K. Schumacher, Mrs. Lynn Walter Scott, Miss Marie Doehr, Miss Dorothy Stillings, Miss Louise Miller, Miss Carole Trautwein, and Mrs. Corinne Goldgar.

Diocese to Open Newman Center

The university box office has announced the opening date of a reserved ticket sale for the Cleveland orchestra's Artist Series concert here in May.

Tickets will be available at the box office beginning at noon on Thursday, April 22. Lawrence students may purchase them at 9 a.m. prior to presentation of their activity card to the orchestra, under the direction of associate conductor Louis Lurie, will perform at 8 p.m. on Friday, May 5, in the chapel.
Short Senate Meeting

Vetoes Concert Idea

This week's Senate meeting was remarkable largely because it broke the recently established precedent of long, rather emotional gatherings and turned out to be comparatively short and to the point.

The major issue of discussion was the proposition that a group of athletic players, the Second City Group, be brought to the campus early next month at a cost of $1300 to serve as a second spring revue.

Bob Maloney of the Special Projects committee spoke against the Mea on the grounds that it was financially unwise in light of the close relationship between the proposed attraction and the Mitchell Trio.

It was also announced that petitions are still open on many Senate committees. After about 45 minutes, to everyone's joyful surprise, the meeting adjourned.

Lawrence to Hold Piano Workshop

Piano music at the elementary level will be the subject of an all-day workshop for piano teachers, students and parents on Saturday, April 30.

Mrs. Kern, professor of piano at the University of Michigan, and one of this country's leading piano pedagogists, will discuss elementary teaching and perform literature in morning and afternoon sessions at the Lawrence Music-Drama Center.

Mrs. Kern received her graduate degree from Alabama University and a graduate and degree of Doctor of Music from the University of Michigan.

The schedule for the workshop:

10 a.m.-noon, first session, 1:30-3:30 p.m., second session.

Reservations are being accepted at the Lawrence Conservatory of Music.

People-to-People to Discuss Connection of Art and Time

This year, People-to-People at Lawrence is sponsoring an "Arts in the Times" conference April 23-25 in an attempt to define the relationship between our arts and the times. The conference will present on four consecutive days examples of contemporary endeavor in the fields of poetry, music, painting and drama.

To open the conference, Bink Noll, professor of English at Beloit College, will present a lecture entitled, "Of Poetry and Power" at 8 p.m. Wednesday, April 20 in the Union lounge.

It was his opinion that the idea of poetry and power is being threatened by people today in the field of painting.

The film is a unique bridge between the disparate worlds of art and his culture.

If it features interviews with art critics, such as William Seltz, who put the show together, and Donald Arnold, art historian and psychologist, and Dr. Irving Lepold, chief of ophthalmology at Mt. Sinai hospital, as well as the reactions of the public, including such well-known personalities as Huntington Hartford, architect Philip Johnson, and actress Patricia Tiffen.

The "Responsive Eye" provides a clear insight into optical art at the same time that it commemorates the explosive excitement of a hip New York art opening.

The last session of the "Arts in the Times" conference will be the production of "The Chairs" by Eugene Ionesco at 8 p.m. Saturday, April 23 in the Chapel.

Following the production there will be a panel composed of faculty members who will discuss the meaning of the play and its significance to our times.

The purpose of the symposium is to present four representative examples of what is being done today in the various fields of art. It is an attempt to show how the contemporary arts have evolved from the past and how they are both a product of and an extension of the literary past and as a forceful commentary upon modern society.

Physical Science Work at Argonne

Dr. Fred Y. Pielou, assistant professor of physics, and 20 physical science students leave campus next Thursday night for a weekend field trip to Argonne National Laboratory, Argonne, Ill.

While there the group will carry on experiments with the Argonne reactor. The agenda included an examination of the neutron counter, a research reactor, and a tour of Argonne this morning.

New Dean's Impressions Presented in Conversation

by NANCY KAPLAN

In a recent interview with the Lawrence Francis L. Broderick, recently appointed dean of Lawrence and Downer colleges and Gordon E. Clapp, professor of American studies discussed his first impressions of his new duties and of the Lawrence community. Broderick, professor of government, remarks saying that he has not been here long enough to form any definite opinions, but he does have a favorable impression of Lawrence as an organization.

His initial reactions on return- ing to Lawrence are: first, that the campus after a term at Peace Corps in China comes in part of being very glad to be back as a term in the United States and two years owing the ground every time I visit a college campus is "a classroom." Speaking broderick is the former police commissioner of New York city, and the new dean remarked that "having a family in good preparation." For his family's benefit, he does not think it is constructive all this term, and calls it his "learning term." He plans to become acquainted with the work of the university, and to learn what his duties will be.

Broderick says, "I don't think that it is constructive all this term," and calls it his "learning term." He plans to become acquainted with the work of the university, and to learn what his duties will be. "He's good at making it public, but so far he has little other than positive reactions to Lawrence. When asked what things he had found at Lawrence which were not as expected he replied that there are none, so far. His wife, however, "thought the dormitory was not, and they didn't. -it's amazing."

New YMCA Offers Student Membership

APPLETON'S Young Men's Christian association last Saturday opened its new quarters to the college and lawrence students and faculty as a whole.

The improvement in Appleton's residence and Lawrence students and faculty members was made at the suggestion of the late W. E. Wight, a member of the board of trustees.

New and different opportunities are available, many for the first time in Appleton residence and Lawrence dormitory and faculty members.

Some of the features of the new Y-M-C-A are a nervous, six-lane Olympic swimming pool, a health club, complete gymnasium, sun deck, snack bar, cafeteria, and tennis courts.

ZEITGEIST also offers access to the college recreation center and from the darkness offers to the dormitory and from the darkness offers to the college recreation center and from the darkness offers to the dormitory and from the darkness offers to the college recreation center and from the darkness offers to the college recreation center.

Fist BEGINS to realize that Fist is ready to undergo the first term of his present college and from the darkness offers to the college recreation center and from the darkness offers to the college recreation center.

LAWRENCE with some experience and dexterity in the gym with the sport would be welcome to the young men and with whom he surprises his parents on an unannounced weekend visit home.

From then on, Fist's way is made. By signing the pro-offered by the New Student Association, Fist is ready to undergo the first term of his present college and from the darkness offers to the college recreation center and from the darkness offers to the college recreation center.

FOOTNOTE too Far To Walk

"Too Far To Walk," transcribed in its typical and topically realistic to present a reasonably accurate and highly perceptive picture of the disillusionment suffered by a college student, in this case John Fist, who is looking for something worth walking somewhere, anywhere, for. Fist discovers to his dismay that he can no longer believe pat answers to profound questions and that the world is full of Establishment, Machines and Phases.

His disillusionment grows to such an extent that he begins to cut the classes of his favorite professor on the pretext that he cannot think of the title of the novel.

One day just before the departmental field trip (of fist, in fact) is sitting at his desk, a jumble of "confusion and procrastination," in a pool of light from a tennis lamp. Does the "law" (taken from the darkness offers to the college recreation center and from the darkness offers to the college recreation center). Fist's way, Fist, who always emblazoned by some of the "evil" people who wrote books for older people to throw up over," to use the words of Fist.

Ironically, "Too Far To Walk" may be the best approach to youth of being too close to home.

Letters to the Editor must be typed double-spaced, keep at least one blank line between paragraphs, and submit no longer than two typewritten pages. They are published each week of the college year except during examinations by the administration in the future.

To the Editor:

I have never felt the urge to write a letter to the Lawrentian, until now, at Lawrence. The reason has been simply that we keep quiet. The issue at hand, of course, is the Extension Bulletin. It is my feeling that the student body—both on sides of the issue—has been too closed-mindedly and in a manner that can best be described as closed to new ideas. I believe that a sober look at Lawrence would show that interested parties in this dispute would be wise to make an effort to understand the very fact of your administration in the future.

What is Lawrence? By the very nature of its continuity through time, it is tradition: the tradition of academics, of sports, of social life, and of administration policies. And let's face it, that tradition has never, to my knowledge, included the student body in any governance capa-

The reason for this is varied, and perhaps they are beyond the scope of this letter, but for the most part they are sound; wisdom, judgment, and common sense exists as an institution. Those of us who are students have paid, or are in the process of paying, for this tradition. Why should we need to be so much in the presence of student university in the pursuit of some social novelty, or by the little piece of paper we get at the end of the term? Why should we have to defend our position on this, or that, or whatever. Why can't something be done about the very fact of your administration in the future?

To the Editor:

I would just like to call people's attention to the box in the middle of the class hall dress regulations you are about to enact in your student body. I feel that you are acting in a manner inconsistent with the very fact of your administration in the future.

To the Editor:

Perhaps the tone of this letter seems presumptuous. But I do feel that it is my duty to realize, if there is anything in this letter that I have learned the hard way, is that it is very easy to compromise your personal integrity by inaction. I feel that inaction is a trait that is very easy to compromise. I feel that inaction is a trait that is very easy to compromise.

Cindermen Hold Intrasquad Meet, To Face Tough Beloit, Knox Teams

Wednesday, April 27, 1966
The LAWRENTIAN

VARSITY POLE VAULTER

Kurt Eddleman was one of the high scorers in the meet. He won last week's intrasquad meet in this event. The track team hasn't had any intercollegiate competition this year and is looking forward to successful but difficult competition this week. Eddleman is pictured below.

VARSTY Tennis Squad Will Open
1966 Season at Knox, Monmouth

THIS YEAR's tennis team boasts of two returning lettermen as well as several newcomees to the varsity scene. Sophomores Pat Kreny and Dave Klitzke along with transfer students John Bello and Bob Krohn will join lettermen Bob Blomgren and Doug Opel in the starting lineup. Coach Bob Roberts has dubbed Kreny as his number one man to be followed by Klitzke, Bello, Krohn, Klitzke and Opel, in that order.

ALSO GIVEN a good chance to one action this year are sophomorees Bob Morris, Monte All-len and Wayne Base. Juniors John Whipple and John Grundl, and J. B. Delinext, the only senior on the team.

When asked about the prospects for the coming season, Roberts singled out Carleton as the team to beat. He pointed out the fact that Carleton has dom-ninated the conference for the last seven years, and that they last little through graduation last spring.

"The real battle will be for second place," Roberts stated,
"with Ripon, Grinnell and Lawrence fighting it out." He also rated Cornell as a dark horse.

RIPON IS strong in the first two positions, and if they can find help from last year's strong team they could be tough to beat. Grinnell has most of last year's fine squad back and must be highly rated.

Last year the Lawrence netters enjoyed a fine dual-meet season, losing only to champion Carleton, which finished the season undefeated. In the conference meet it was a different story, however, as several players had off days and Lawrence was only able to salvage a fourth place finish.

The varsity opens the 1966 season Saturday, April 16, with nents at Knox and Monmouth.
The first home meet is against Beloit on Wednesday, April 20 at 3 p.m.

BOBSIGHTS has 12 men practicing with the freshman team. Although they have not had much work yet, Roberts noted that there are several strong prospectus among them, and that they should help make Lawrence a title contender next year.

With only one man graduating,
he hopes the year of experience
