Marijuana-Possessing Soph Aided
By Lawrence Official After Arrest

A LAWRENCE sophomore, Robert Uhe, was arraigned Friday afternoon in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 on a charge of illegal possession of marijuana, which, if upheld, could lead to a sentence of not more than ten nor less than two years imprisonment.

Uhe, appearing in court with Kenneth R. Erdman, a fellow student, and an attorney appointed by the university for the stu-tent's convenience, requested a preliminary examination which is scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 11.

With university assistance, the sophomore posted bond of $1,000, set by County Judge Gustave J. Keller.

Appleton detectives were led to the marijuana by Uhe late Thursday after a search warrant had been made out and university officials were contacted. The marijuana had been in Uhe fraternity room desk drawer, since he obtained it from Dennis Erdman, formerly from Lawtence, on the night of Friday, Sept. 22.

Erdman was arraigned in County Court on a charge of selling marijuana after his arrest late Tuesday. He is a freshman and is acknowledged by authorities to be a marijuana smoker. He is being held in the county jail until he posts bond of $250.

Erdman's apprehension was the culmination of a 10-day investigation of an Appleton drug dealer. Erdman allegedly bought two marijuana cigarettes from him earlier in the week.

Erdman will appear before County Court Branch 2 at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, being granted a

James A. Pike Will Speak
Thursday At Convocation

cese of California and central figure in a theological controversy in recent weeks, will speak at a convocation at 10:40 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 13 in the Memorial Chapel.

Pike was ordained as deacon in 1946, as a priest in 1948, and consecrated bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of California in 1956. His most controversial action has been the reorganization of the Church of England's ecumenical body, the Anglican Consultative Council. Pike has served as dean of the General Theological Seminary in New York City, as chancellor of New York University, and as bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of California from 1958 to 1966.

Pike has been a leader in the movement towards ecumenism and has been a vocal proponent of the importance of dialogue between different religious traditions. His views on topics such as the role of women in the church and the question of the ordination of women have been controversial and have led to several oppositions within the Episcopal Church.

Pike is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Episcopal Diocese of California and has served as a trustee of several other educational institutions, including the University of California at Berkeley.

Pike is also known for his work on the law and the church, having served as a member of the Yale Law School's National Judicial Conference and as a trustee of the Episcopal Diocese of California's General Theological Seminary.

Pike is the author of several books, including "The Faith to Doubt," which was published in 1964. He has also contributed to various academic journals and has given lectures on the relationship between law and religion.

Pike is a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley and holds a degree in law from the University of California at Los Angeles.

He is married to the former Anna May McFarland and has two children, John and Jennifer.

Pike is a member of the Episcopal Diocese of California, and has represented the diocese at several national and international conferences on the church's role in society.

LWA To Host Discussions Involving Women's Groups

ON FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, October 14 and 15, Lawrence Women's Association will sponsor a conference dealing with the problems concerning schools of a size such as Lawrence. The conference will involve thirty visiting representatives and Deans of women from 14 of Lawrence's planning colleague conferences.

The theme for the conference is the orientation of new students to Lawrence's student government and the college. A third topic to be discussed by another visiting representative will study the opportunities for Women's Associations to initiate and develop programs which can contribute to the growth of the individual. There will be opportunity for the audience to ask questions after these talks.

A coffee break at 10:30 a.m. will precede separate discussion groups comprised of presidents, judiciary vice presidents and a social chairman from the various participating colleges.

These separate discussion sessions will begin at 11:30 and are limited to direct members of the conference.

At noon the members will take tours of Lawrence campus and have lunch at Colman. At 2 p.m. a general session for members and anyone interested will be held; at this time a hypothetical case study involving a disciplinary problem will be presented by Miss Mary Morton, dean of women at Lawrence. Various solutions and methods of handling the situation will be discussed.

A closing tea will take place at 3 and the conference will be adjourned at 4.

LWA estimates that about 30 visitors will be on campus for the conference. They will be students from the ACM colleges: Carleton, Grinnell, St. Olaf, Monmouth, Knox, Beloit, Cornell, Colman and Ripon.

Most of the discussions in this conference are open to any interested students.

Below Will Feature Bach and Beethoven

Two of the most popular works in the piano repertoire, the Beethoven Sonata in F minor, Op. 37 ("Appassionata"); and the Italian Concerto, by J. & B. Bach, mark the recital of pianist Robert Beal on Aug. 6, Sunday, Oct. 9, at Lawrence University's Harper Hall.

The afternoon recital time is a correction of the evening hour announced earlier in the University public events calendar. Below, assistant professor of music, is in his third year on the Lawrence Conservatory faculty. Below's program, the first by a faculty member this season, is one of 14 planned by members of the Conservatory staff throughout the year.

FREE FOOD

Music Board would like to call students' attention to the possibilities of joining faculty members to lunch in the residence halls. As in the past, there is no charge for a faculty and lunch.

NORMAN ANNIVERSARY

Even House and North House would like to remind all students and faculty that Lawrence's observation of the 900th anniversary of the Norman Conquest of England will begin officially at 9:00 a.m., Friday, October 14, and continue through Sunday midnight. The Anglo-Saxon's Non-Violent Coordinating Committee is asked to refrain from wild protest demonstrations and instead to join friends over a cup of coffee and tell sad stories of the death of kings.

The planning committee for the conference has taken this gathering the first of an annual series which will provide the opportunity for obtaining new answers to continuing mutual problems, for starting new programs which have been successful in other campuses and for exchanging ideas which relate specifically to the social and academic life at a school such as Lawrence.

Committee in Charge

The co-chairmen of the committee are Sally De Vaney and Hope Harron, others involved are Bunny Butler, Nera Bailey, Ruth Charlton, Marcia Wilson, Sue Shumway and Joan Gillispie. Miss Heisoecke is the faculty advisor for the group.

The conference will feature dinner meetings, talks and discussion groups; many of these are open to any Lawrence students. On Friday evening, Oct. 14, there will be registration and a supper in the Union for the visiting participants.

Afterwards, at 8 p.m. Miss Carrie Trautwein, assistant dean of women at Lawrence, will open the opening session in the Terrace Room of the Memorial Union. Her talk is entitled "Some Ideas to Challenge You."

Between 9 and 11 p.m. there will be an open house in the Colman Hall sorority wing. Everyone is invited to attend the opening talk and open house.

Morning Session Planned

On Saturday morning, the delegates will have breakfast in the Colman Hall sorority wing. ... FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, October 14 and 15, Lawrence Women's Association will sponsor a conference dealing with the problems concerning schools of a size such as Lawrence.

improved calendar?

To the Editor:

The editors of the Lawrence University weekly, the Lawrentian, have recently been publishing an improved calendar of events. This is a welcome change from the old calendar, which was often out of date and difficult to read.

The new calendar is easier to read and more up-to-date. It is also more organized, with events listed by day and time. This makes it easier to find what you're looking for.

The improved calendar is a great improvement and we look forward to seeing it continue in the future.

Sincerely,
John Schade
Lawrence St., southwest of Prange's. The Cavaliers are expected to furnish the rest of the entertainment, and for this reason are encouraged to bring guitars and voices.

The Cavern, called The Cavern recently opened in Appleton and seems to be a wonderful place for students to go for entertainment, company and inexpensive food. The Cavern is located in the renovated basement of St. Joseph's school house at 404 W. Lawrence St., and is open from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. Wednesday through Sunday, with paid entertainers.

The consensus of the 100 Lawrenceans who visited The Cavern last Tuesday evening is that Father Costello has inspired the establishment of an enjoyable and attractive place.

The Cavern was reconstructed by students and adults during their free time over the last eight months out of "a basement no one knew existed," said John Hubers at The Cavern, 739 N. College Ave. The Cavern was opened during a lot of work and a lot of time and a lot of money. The Cavern was open last night for the first time.

The main room has a dance floor and has a plush carpet on the floor. The main room has a large round table covered with what seems to be a smoked mirror, where the onlooker may reflect. A wide hallway has a "partly smashed old redwood" to provide theme, and leads on one side to what will be a separate bathing room. In the hall there is a plaque to Corp. Michael Lenz, a Marine from Appleton who died in Vietnam.

There is a room called, for lack of anything else, the "ante room to the johns," is decorated with rocks, a sea captain's chest, a pool and a cloth drawing of a peacock looking out onto water. This drawing took Bruce Binder, the Cavern's artistic mainstay, over 300 hours and is done in ballpoint pen.

Gus May Reflect

The Captain's Room gives an overall effect of being done in orange although the walls are wooden, and it has pillows around the floor and a large round table covered with what seems to be a smoked mirror, where the onlooker may reflect. A wide hallway has a "partly smashed old redwood" to provide theme, and leads on one side to what will be a separate bathing room. In the hall there is a plaque to Corp. Michael Lenz, a Marine from Appleton who died in Vietnam.

Program Notes

Pirandello Drama Will Be First Theatre Production

By NEIL HILLER

Time: 1947 Place: the stage of a theatre in Italy. Action: the company is rehearsing "Making It Up," a comedy by one Luigi Maltese. Enter: a man, his wife, and four children who announce that they wish to perform the drama within them. This 1947 novel of artwork will be presented November 1948 in Stambaugh Theatre by the Lawrence University Theatre. It is called "Six Characters in Search of an Author." was, incidentally, written by Pirandello, and will be directed by F. Theodore Chou.

Pirandello, who was awarded the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1934, was the author of numerous poems, novels, and short stories in addition to 40 plays. His best two plays are considered to be "Henry IV" and "Six Characters in Search of an Author." He called the latter work "a conflict of theatrical elements": the Characters versus the Actors and the Actor-Manage.

Characteristic of Pirandello's dramas, "Six Characters" is both self-conscious and self-possessed—much in the manner of the introspective and self-aware person who is so aware of his actions that it seems to him that he can both perform and step back to watch the performances, thus for a time existing in two different realities.

Pirandello finds his drama process probed with this conflict between reality and illusion. Perhaps his principal concern is better expressed, in so far as it is possible to fix an artist in a formulated phrase, by the words of Aurelia Weiss: "The distinguishing mark of the fictilian playwright is that he did not slide off the different facets of human personality, he showed them as an uninterrupted stream, forever changing, but essentially one."

A modern dress version of Mal- teiro's "Les Femmes Savantes" will be presented Saturday, November 5 in Stambaugh Theatre by Le Tresor de France Theater Company.

The 17th century comedy, which will be performed in French, will be presented here as part of the company's current tour of northeast campuses.
