The controversy over the proposed extension of the dormitory visitation rules and regulations continues. Last week the Grinnell College student council met in response to the current proposals by the administration to expand open dorm visitation. The student council, with one abstention, that they would deny jurisdiction to the IFC. The dispute comes as the administration seeks to extend open dorm visitation to the residence halls. The administration's proposal, which had been deferred earlier in the year, was revived in response to student demands for more open dorm policy. The student council's decision is significant because it is the only body at Grinnell that has been granted authority to make decisions on such matters. The council is comprised of elected representatives of the student body, and its decisions are binding on the administration. The administration's proposal, however, is expected to face significant opposition from the student community. The council's decision is likely to be a major factor in the ongoing debate over the future of dorm visitation at Grinnell. The controversy over the proposed extension of the dormitory visitation rules and regulations continues. Last week the Grinnell College student council met in response to the current proposals by the administration to expand open dorm visitation. The student council, with one abstention, that they would deny jurisdiction to the IFC. The dispute comes as the administration seeks to extend open dorm visitation to the residence halls. The administration's proposal, which had been deferred earlier in the year, was revived in response to student demands for more open dorm policy. The student council's decision is significant because it is the only body at Grinnell that has been granted authority to make decisions on such matters. The council is comprised of elected representatives of the student body, and its decisions are binding on the administration. The administration's proposal, however, is expected to face significant opposition from the student community. The council's decision is likely to be a major factor in the ongoing debate over the future of dorm visitation at Grinnell. The controversy over the proposed extension of the dormitory visitation rules and regulations continues. Last week the Grinnell College student council met in response to the current proposals by the administration to expand open dorm visitation. The student council, with one abstention, that they would deny jurisdiction to the IFC. The dispute comes as the administration seeks to extend open dorm visitation to the residence halls. The administration's proposal, which had been deferred earlier in the year, was revived in response to student demands for more open dorm policy. The student council's decision is significant because it is the only body at Grinnell that has been granted authority to make decisions on such matters. The council is comprised of elected representatives of the student body, and its decisions are binding on the administration. The administration's proposal, however, is expected to face significant opposition from the student community. The council's decision is likely to be a major factor in the ongoing debate over the future of dorm visitation at Grinnell. The controversy over the proposed extension of the dormitory visitation rules and regulations continues. Last week the Grinnell College student council met in response to the current proposals by the administration to expand open dorm visitation. The student council, with one abstention, that they would deny jurisdiction to the IFC. The dispute comes as the administration seeks to extend open dorm visitation to the residence halls. The administration's proposal, which had been deferred earlier in the year, was revived in response to student demands for more open dorm policy. The student council's decision is significant because it is the only body at Grinnell that has been granted authority to make decisions on such matters. The council is comprised of elected representatives of the student body, and its decisions are binding on the administration. The administration's proposal, however, is expected to face significant opposition from the student community. The council's decision is likely to be a major factor in the ongoing debate over the future of dorm visitation at Grinnell. The controversy over the proposed extension of the dormitory visitation rules and regulations continues. Last week the Grinnell College student council met in response to the current proposals by the administration to expand open dorm visitation. The student council, with one abstention, that they would deny jurisdiction to the IFC. The dispute comes as the administration seeks to extend open dorm visitation to the residence halls. The administration's proposal, which had been deferred earlier in the year, was revived in response to student demands for more open dorm policy. The student council's decision is significant because it is the only body at Grinnell that has been granted authority to make decisions on such matters. The council is comprised of elected representatives of the student body, and its decisions are binding on the administration. The administration's proposal, however, is expected to face significant opposition from the student community. The council's decision is likely to be a major factor in the ongoing debate over the future of dorm visitation at Grinnell. The controversy over the proposed extension of the dormitory visitation rules and regulations continues. Last week the Grinnell College student council met in response to the current proposals by the administration to expand open dorm visitation. The student council, with one abstention, that they would deny jurisdiction to the IFC. The dispute comes as the administration seeks to extend open dorm visitation to the residence halls. The administration's proposal, which had been deferred earlier in the year, was revived in response to student demands for more open dorm policy. The student council's decision is significant because it is the only body at Grinnell that has been granted authority to make decisions on such matters. The council is comprised of elected representatives of the student body, and its decisions are binding on the administration. The administration's proposal, however, is expected to face significant opposition from the student community. The council's decision is likely to be a major factor in the ongoing debate over the future of dorm visitation at Grinnell. The controversy over the proposed extension of the dormitory visitation rules and regulations continues. Last week the Grinnell College student council met in response to the current proposals by the administration to expand open dorm visitation. The student council, with one abstention, that they would deny jurisdiction to the IFC. The dispute comes as the administration seeks to extend open dorm visitation to the residence halls. The administration's proposal, which had been deferred earlier in the year, was revived in response to student demands for more open dorm policy. The student council's decision is significant because it is the only body at Grinnell that has been granted authority to make decisions on such matters. The council is comprised of elected representatives of the student body, and its decisions are binding on the administration. The administration's proposal, however, is expected to face significant opposition from the student community. The council's decision is likely to be a major factor in the ongoing debate over the future of dorm visitation at Grinnell. The controversy over the proposed extension of the dormitory visitation rules and regulations continues. Last week the Grinnell College student council met in response to the current proposals by the administration to expand open dorm visitation. The student council, with one abstention, that they would deny jurisdiction to the IFC. The dispute comes as the administration seeks to extend open dorm visitation to the residence halls. The administration's proposal, which had been deferred earlier in the year, was revived in response to student demands for more open dorm policy. The student council's decision is significant because it is the only body at Grinnell that has been granted authority to make decisions on such matters. The council is comprised of elected representatives of the student body, and its decisions are binding on the administration. The administration's proposal, however, is expected to face significant opposition from the student community. The council's decision is likely to be a major factor in the ongoing debate over the future of dorm visitation at Grinnell. The controversy over the proposed extension of the dormitory visitation rules and regulations continues. Last week the Grinnell College student council met in response to the current proposals by the administration to expand open dorm visitation. The student council, with one abstention, that they would deny jurisdiction to the IFC. The dispute comes as the administration seeks to extend open dorm visitation to the residence halls. The administration's proposal, which had been deferred earlier in the year, was revived in response to student demands for more open dorm policy. The student council's decision is significant because it is the only body at Grinnell that has been granted authority to make decisions on such matters. The council is comprised of elected representatives of the student body, and its decisions are binding on the administration. The administration's proposal, however, is expected to face significant opposition from the student community. The council's decision is likely to be a major factor in the ongoing debate over the future of dorm visitation at Grinnell. The controversy over the proposed extension of the dormitory visitation rules and regulations continues. Last week the Grinnell College student council met in response to the current proposals by the administration to expand open dorm visitation. The student council, with one abstention, that they would deny jurisdiction to the IFC. The dispute comes as the administration seeks to extend open dorm visitation to the residence halls. The administration's proposal, which had been deferred earlier in the year, was revived in response to student demands for more open dorm policy. The student council's decision is significant because it is the only body at Grinnell that has been granted authority to make decisions on such matters. The council is comprised of elected representatives of the student body, and its decisions are binding on the administration. The administration's proposal, however, is expected to face significant opposition from the student community. The council's decision is likely to be a major factor in the ongoing debate over the future of dorm visitation at Grinnell. The controversy over the proposed extension of the dormitory visitation rules and regulations continues. Last week the Grinnell College student council met in response to the current proposals by the administration to expand open dorm visitation. The student council, with one abstention, that they would deny jurisdiction to the IFC. The dispute comes as the administration seeks to extend open dorm visitation to the residence halls. The administration's proposal, which had been deferred earlier in the year, was revived in response to student demands for more open dorm policy. The student council's decision is significant because it is the only body at Grinnell that has been granted authority to make decisions on such matters. The council is comprised of elected representatives of the student body, and its decisions are binding on the administration. The administration's proposal, however, is expected to face significant opposition from the student community. The council's decision is likely to be a major factor in the ongoing debate over the future of dorm visitation at Grinnell. The controversy over the proposed extension of the dormitory visitation rules and regulations continues. Last week the Grinnell College student council met in response to the current proposals by the administration to expand open dorm visitation. The student council, with one abstention, that they would deny jurisdiction to the IFC. The dispute comes as the administration seeks to extend open dorm visitation to the residence halls. The administration's proposal, which had been deferred earlier in the year, was revived in response to student demands for more open dorm policy. The student council's decision is significant because it is the only body at Grinnell that has been granted authority to make decisions on such matters. The council is comprised of elected representatives of the student body, and its decisions are binding on the administration. The administration's proposal, however, is expected to face significant opposition from the student community. The council's decision is likely to be a major factor in the ongoing debate over the future of dorm visitation at Grinnell. The controversy over the proposed extension of the dormitory visitation rules and regulations continues. Last week the Grinnell College student council met in response to the current proposals by the administration to expand open dorm visitation. The student council, with one abstention, that they would deny jurisdiction to the IFC. The dispute comes as the administration seeks to extend open dorm visitation to the residence halls. The administration's proposal, which had been deferred earlier in the year, was revived in response to student demands for more open dorm policy. The student council's decision is significant because it is the only body at Grinnell that has been granted authority to make decisions on such matters. The council is comprised of elected representatives of the student body, and its decisions are binding on the administration. The administration's proposal, however, is expected to face significant opposition from the student community. The council's decision is likely to be a major factor in the ongoing debate over the future of dorm visitation at Grinnell. The controversy over the proposed extension of the dormitory visitation rules and regulations continues. Last week the Grinnell College student council met in response to the current proposals by the administration to expand open dorm visitation. The student council, with one abstention, that they would deny jurisdiction to the IFC. The dispute comes as the administration seeks to extend open dorm visitation to the residence halls. The administration's proposal, which had been deferred earlier in the year, was revived in response to student demands for more open dorm policy. The student council's decision is significant because it is the only body at Grinnell that has been granted authority to make decisions on such matters. The council is comprised of elected representatives of the student body, and its decisions are binding on the administration. The administration's proposal, however, is expected to face significant opposition from the student community. The council's decision is likely to be a major factor in the ongoing debate over the future of dorm visitation at Grinnell.
This week would be an appropriate time for the faculty to take a stand on the file. The students are anxious to see the file improved. There are only 10% courses, out of a possible 139, represented in the test file, and the students have merely forgotten to send in their responses. The blame can only be placed on the faculty for not following through. It's time to act and now is the time to do it. There could be no better example of mature self-government than the swift and complete endorsement of the proposed rule changes by LWA and the women of Lawrence.

Test File Inadequate

The present test file in the library is a pathetic state. There are only 18 courses, out of a possible 139, represented for this term and the outlook for the other terms is equally bad. The blame can only be placed on the faculty for not sending exams to the library.

For the most part the problem seems to be that teachers have merely forgotten to send in exams. Students find the tests helpful in testing the methods of a particular teacher's exam, and give the students practice in answering exam questions.

Some fraternities and sororities have test files which are completely filled and freshen not to have a test file available to them.

Although it is not required that faculty submit exams for the file, the students are anxious to see the file improved. This week would be an appropriate time for the faculty to start.

Letters to the Editor...

A REVOLUTION?

To the Editor:

"The Lawrence Revolution," by Dr. Chaney's terms, is at hand. It is perhaps the first attempt to utilize the revolution of Dr. Chaney anticipated or hoped for, but because it comes so much of the energies of the revolution of Dr. Chaney, and administration of the University it must be dealt with, and considered as, a new point of activity at this time. While the ideas expressed are not new, and have been expressed with intensity with which they are being presented.

The revolution is a Lawrence Revolution rather than a social revolution because the things being said and done about proposed changes in the car, rule, open dorm, drink, and the like are a part of the total intellectual climate of the institution. A revolution, however, either subtle or overt, implies changes other than those of intensity of interest. Steps have been taken toward that sort of changes in the above-mentioned rules, but the restraints which may be adopted and the revolution termed a "test" by Dr. Chaney. Yet it also seems apparent that students are less willing at this juncture to be appeased before, and that Lawrence's growing pains must eventually result in some tangible alterations in policy. In all periods of revolution, various offshoots of the revolution are subjects of concern. Some proposed student action, for example, could be termed irresponsible. We do not think it necessary at this time to demonstrate, explain, or theorize. No liable avenues of communication are in this writer's mind free and available. The Student Faculty Committee has given much consideration and its endorsement to several proposals, and LWA's rules committee has given a well thought-out and organized program of revisions which will soon be presented with both students and Miss Morton. A survey analysis indicates we are making progress using the normal procedures.

On the other hand, recent interviews with Dr. Tarr and Miss Morton indicate an unanswerable reaction to student proposals. Dean Tarr Student Council has expressed concern over the "we-they" dichotomy perceived by the students as an accusation of Lawrence proposers, and LWA's rules committee has presented a well thought-out and organized program of revisions which will soon be presented with both students and Miss Morton. A survey analysis indicates we are making progress using the normal procedures.

While we can appreciate the administration concern as we understand it, we can affirm that the logic of their negative propositions and conclusions is and feel there is a definite, immediate need for a systematic exposition of their viewpoint. Most urgent is a possible modification of the policy against extending visiting hours in dormitories. The administration's attitude is a matter of some conjecture. It seems possible that our efforts should be allowed to develop to this point only to be held at the point of resolution, and yet this is evidently the possibility.

We realize that a college, like a family, is not set up as a demoralized society where the administration "right" but as THE REPUBLIC where majority rules and the minority holds us to the "truth which brings us victory." The administration, students, and faculty have a common goal here, the formation of an awareness of a problem of a world outside Lawrence. In our daily discussion, a critical analysis, and consensus are considered the appropriate vehicles for obtaining goals. The practical considerations of our proposals must not be unduly discussed, criticized, and condemned. We are interested in the action of which both the administration and the students partake. It may be based, but final point of action with which we are concerned has not joined us in discussion. We try to do it.

The "we-they" dichotomy can be eliminated only if we are engaged in a complimentary effort of understanding. We have been beaten to death that we must not learn merely by accepting, but we must seek for which we find and for clearer and more articulate ones when they do not exist.

We feel, in short, that the administration needs to acknowledge its position in detail, particularly on the moral considerations it has equated with open dorm proposals. Debate is impossible without a thoughtful and explicit statement on both sides of the question.

MORTAR BOARD ORDA

Bruce Neff
Diane Rabinth
Hope Harris
Chris Kanzirim
Lynn Rabe
Annas Mac
Marlys Ropers
Sue Zimmerman

OPPORTUNITY FOR PRIVACY

To the Editor:

We feel that we must point out a fact that apparently has not yet been considered in discussions on the open dorm question. The problem s right to an open dorm is not the only or the most important for women. There is also the opportunity for men and women to possess an open and unrestricted privacy on four days in the week; the so-called privacy rooms in the college presented this opportunity. A security member may sign up to use her group's room for privately entertaining a guest from 6 p.m. on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday and noon on Sunday until dorms closing time.

The proposed changes for the open dorm program provide the opportunity to entertain guests for three hours on Wednesday in women's dorms and for three hours on Fridays in men's dorms, in addition to the three hours now permitted on Sunday afternoons. The women's dorm policy seems to be a direct grant to the student the privacy of her room, which is often something which Pan-Hel regulations uniformly include. If this new program would give to all Lawrence the kind of privacy already available to a restricted number of students.

Charlene Sanna
Suzanne Munro
Ann Motter

HER GRATITUDE

To the Editor:

I wish to take this opportunity to express in words my gratitude to the Lawrence University administration for the growth and development they have offered me. Of all the liberal arts, I found the law to be interesting.

I learned that not only were we born in original sin, but that this initial set of desires and inclinations torment us in everything we do. Because we have come to realize that sex is dirty and evil I may experience the perversion of looking on the mind and life that all of us must acquire as a part of the total intellectual climate of the institution. I have the exception all the time only the Philippines, the Philippines and all nations and in all peoples. My stables in all the things is the knowledge that in the world and its inhabitants there is no purity, no goodness, no beauty, and that

I must therefore punish myself continuously by longing for love of life's every action.

I was encouraged by my inclusive education, I feel totally confident and unashamed to be a part of the school that I am taught, reality.

From Ajper

ABNORMAL SITUATION

To the Editor:

The Lawrence of December 20th appears to be a case in point of the example of the abnormal situation at Lawrence and the application of the ideas of student administration to even consider a change.

Arguments of both Doctor Carr and Miss Morton, as shown elsewhere, are hopelessly inadequate to turn the campus from that of a closed door, something we think seems to think that open dorms cannot confer a spot and privacy. We assume he refer to roommates of students with guests, for which reason and best solved by the creation of the Motion Club.

First, with regard to inconveniences, there is a clear-cut and convincing reason that leading to adjust to inconveniences is an important part of the learning experience and that there are no such inconveniences of dormitory life which exist similar to those of dormitory life. It is possible that a poll of dormitory residence would show that the dormitories have been taken to discover how many students would object to the inconvenience of the present dorm policy and how many students would object to the survey. This is in consideration.

As to the argument that dating rooms are an effective solution to the problem, the people we consider the basic attitudes behind them. We refer specifically to the LWA and the women of Lawrence.

One Day Service S.25 . SUITS $1.25 Plain DRESSES 65c Plain SKIRTS

Clark's Cleaners 311 East College Avenue JUST A BLOCK UP THE AVENUE

NEW IN APPLETON Con-way MOTOR HOTEL

Telephone: REGENT 41201 WATACODE 411

Instant Confirmation of Reservations

See MARY PROCTOR, our Campus Representative, at call the race cans at 4.2611

The LAURENTIAN is published each week of the college year except during vacations by the Lawrence University. Second class postage has been paid at Appleton, Wisconsin. [LAWRENTIAN] is published by the The Timmings Printing Co., at Appleton. Subscriptions: $4 per year. Telephone RE 9-3681, extension 252. From the Editorial Board Prevent A Standoff

This week brought a pointed realization of the deep split between the attitudes of the students and the administration toward the open dorm system. The issue shows signs of becoming even more bitterly debated than it was three years ago.

The sharp and broad-based response of the students toward the above-mentioned rules has been greater than ever before. The administration has taken the responsibility to co-operate in reaching a compromise which will avoid creating a needless and lasting rift of bitterness between the students and the administration of Lawrence University.

Women's Responsibility

The proposed rule revisions which came out of last week's LWA meeting could be the greatest step taken recently toward establishing realistic regulations for women students. The minor practical problems of implementing some of the new rules should present no obstacle to their swift passage. Each section of the proposed revisions should be put into effect individually as soon as possible.

It is up to the women of Lawrence to improve their own situation. It is up to them to realize and know that now is the time to do it. There could be no better example of mature self-government than the swift and complete endorsement of the proposed rule changes by LWA and the women of Lawrence.

The arguments of both Doctor Carr and Miss Morton, as shown elsewhere, are hopelessly inadequate to turn the campus from that of a closed door, something we think seems to think that open dorms cannot confer a spot and privacy. We assume he refer to roommates of students with guests, for which reason and best solved by the creation of the Motion Club.
The meeting terminated with the defeat of a motion for Senate endorsement of the pre-war dorms pencilling on last Wednesday.

Broderick Optimistic On Car Rule Change

In an interview with the Lawrence this week, Francis L. Broderick, dean of the college, and member of the Senate, denied that the students were denied the chance of changing the car rule at any time as long as women were of legal age, and spoke of plans for programs at Lawrence in the coming year.

The dean said the car rule was not up for discussion with the Senate at this time, and that he expected to see a change in the policy in the near future.

The only possible difficulty, he said, was the establishment of parking regulations. He said that effective parking rules could be adjusted to accommodate all students and to prevent any inconvenience.

He said that the car rule was intended to be temporary and that it would be reviewed periodically. He added that the rule was intended to prevent any inconvenience to the students.

Two Classics Majors Will Study in Rome

Classics majors at Lawrence will now have an opportunity to live and study in Rome under a program arranged by the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies. The program will enable students to participate in various aspects of classical studies, including lectures, seminars, and field trips.

The program will be open to students who have completed at least one year of Latin and are interested in studying classical literature. Students will be able to earn academic credit for their participation in the program.

The program is funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities, and is administered by the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies. Students interested in participating are encouraged to contact the Classics Department for more information.
The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!

By BONNIE BRYANT

The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!

By BONNIE BRYANT

The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!

By BONNIE BRYANT

The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!

By BONNIE BRYANT

The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!

By BONNIE BRYANT

The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!

By BONNIE BRYANT

The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!

By BONNIE BRYANT

The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!

By BONNIE BRYANT

The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!

By BONNIE BRYANT

The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!

By BONNIE BRYANT

The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!

By BONNIE BRYANT

The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!

By BONNIE BRYANT

The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!

By BONNIE BRYANT

The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!

By BONNIE BRYANT

The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!

By BONNIE BRYANT

The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!

By BONNIE BRYANT

The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!

By BONNIE BRYANT

The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!

By BONNIE BRYANT

The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!

By BONNIE BRYANT

The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!

By BONNIE BRYANT

The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!

By BONNIE BRYANT

The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!

By BONNIE BRYANT

The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!

By BONNIE BRYANT

The Interfraternity Council of Lawrence has prepared "Pills 'n Things" to assist students with the mental health problems that they might face during their college years. This initiative is aimed at reducing stress and providing students with resources and support to help them navigate the challenges of college life.

Guided Miceland

Halloooodo Fodisch!
The Lawrence Drug Story: What Is Really Happening

During the past week, The Lawrencean, in a series of interviews, has been examining the degree to which illegal drugs are used in Lawrence University campuses. The interviews have been revealing, sometimes ex-

Most persons interviewed were apparently frank about their use of drugs, and were willing to talk about specific incidents involving illegal drugs on campus; and the few who were not frank about their use of drugs.

But these were isolated cases, and there were no reports of the presence on campus of LSD and other illegal drugs at Lawrence University this year. Of these 100, only a small number of the small residence halls use drugs on campus, but that their use is relatively limited to marijuana, and that there were no reports of the presence of LSD on campus.

Another major source of marijana seems to be the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasional presence of the occasion
SIDELINE HIGHLIGHTS

By ROD CLARK

In recent weeks, there has been a growing criticism of the lack of interest and support on the part of the Quad for campus activities. The criticism is no doubt valid, but I maintain there is cause and a cure.

The large majority of the fraternity men on this campus have never been exposed to the problems and the methods needed to solve the problems which plague this campus. There is, as I have mentioned, a cure.

I think the Interfraternity Council should take it upon itself to introduce Interfraternity Swimming as an all-quad sport. It has long been known that IFL sports are the only way to reach the majority of the Quad. This would be no exception.

The competition would be held on a sealed down version of the real thing. Instead of using tugs, the fraternities would compete against each other, with whom they are more familiar. The competition would be held once per year in the spring term, to prevent interference with rush.

The athletes chosen would have a meeting at which each house would draw lots for the house they are to pick. Then, three days later, they would field a ten-man pickup team. Each team would consist of four sign carriers, two slogan shouters, two agitators, and one incendiary and one homosexual to lend some bit of realism to it all.

The judges would be chosen, one from each house at the meeting of the Athletic Chairmen. Each team would be allowed ten minutes for a demonstration making the competition one hour long. They would be allowed to use their time in any manner they wish, as long as certain basic points are covered. Judging will be on neatness, originality of content, color, and effectiveness of presentation.

Besides the obvious advantage of bringing the Quad in with the mainstream of the campus, there would be other benefits. This would provide an outlet for aggression second only to snowball fights, it would provide some measure of security for those houses who think it is unfair because the jocks are running away with IF sports, and think of that trophy during rush...

Swim Team Sets Record In Breast Stroke Relay

The Lawrence Swim team, under the direction of coach Gene Davis, is fresh from a recording setting of the Kansas Relays last weekend. In that meet, five records were broken, including one by Lawrence and Monmouth, and two each by Knox and Cornell.

In the 200-yard breast stroke relay, Knox swimmers Joe Boone, Pete House and Ken Metrick won the event in 2:49 and 11/20. The individual medley relay, however, proved to be the most interesting event of the day.

This event was run in heats, with the winner to be decided by a 10-man panel of judges. Knox, Lawrence, with Tim Mitchel, John Sanders and Pete House swimming, again won its heat with a time of 3:47.0 breaking the old mark of 3:48.5.

Vikas Third

In the next heat, however, both Knox and Bradley also broke the record with times of 3:47.2 and 3:47.4, respectively. Thus the Viks, despite winning their heat, placed third in the event.

Coach Davis also points to strong individual varsity efforts by sophomore Curt Liefeld, who swam in the 200 and 400-yard relays, and John Sanders in the individual medley.

On the freshman level, swimmers Rich Greenwood, John Allis, Steve Steenrod and John Peace broke a Lawrence freshman record in the 400-yard relay with a time of 3:46.1, 1/2 second faster than the time set last year by Mitchel, Mitchel, Dick Haak and Steve Graham.

The freshman also earned a second place tie in the 800-yard freestyle relay.

For the whole, the meet was very well for the Viks. The meet is designed for those fraternities providing tough pre-season competition and with awards to those schools which excel in competition this early in the year.

The swimmers are now pre-

---

VIKE WRESTLER

Jerry Nightingale conference champ last year in 137 pound division, defeated his opponents at the Carthage Quadrangular Wrestling Meet last week. He was wrestling in the 145-pound class this year.

Betas, Phi Dels, Delts Top Interfraternity Swim Meet

The Betas splashed to a victory in the annual interfraternity swimming meet last Tuesday, racking up 14 points to 6.5 for the second place Phi Dels and 41 for the Delts.

Paced by Ron Nicholson, Art Keppelman, and Terry Brewer, the Betas took first place in five of the 10 events to head off a lively charge by the Phi's who garnered three firsts.

Meet records were set by Knox in the 25-yard freestyle, Jerry Clifford in the 50-yard backstroke, and the Phi Delt medley relay team.

Matmen Finish Second in Meet

Vike matmen opened their season last Saturday by finishing second to North Park in the Carthage Quadrangular Wrestling Me-

Final Volleyball Standings

- Beta: 4 \(\frac{1}{2}\)
- Phi Delt: 6\(\frac{1}{2}\)
- Delt: 3

Individual Results

- 25 yard freestyle: Brewer (B)
- 25 yard butterfly: Nicholson (B)
- 50 yard freestyle: Keppelman (B)

---

Hear... PROGRAM

JIM CHOUDOIR

Monday 7 to 9 on WHYB 1230 on Every Dial

---

STUDENT SPECIAL

- 1/2 Golden-Fried Butter Crust Chicken
  (Includes 4 pieces of pre-cooked, breaded, and despfried elbow lickers) $1.35 reg. $1.50

1/4 lb. CHOPPED SIRLOIN

Char-grilled steak on bun with french fries and cole slow $1

We Serve from 5 to 10-30

CAMPUS BARBER SHOP

For Appointment Dial 9-1805

231 E. College Ave.

---

LAWRENTIANS

COMPREHENSIVE CLEANING AND DRY CLEANING SERVICE

SPECIAL STUDENT RATES ON LAUNDRY

HALF-BLOCK OFF CAMPUS

10% DISCOUNT for DRY CLEANING Pick Up or Store

---

Peerless-Uneeda

Phone 3-4428