Deficit Foreseen For '69-'70 Year

University President Marvin W. Estes told today that a tax bill recently enacted by the Wisconsin legislature will force the university to face students' parents four per cent of the board portion of the annual comprehensive fee. Board costs per student were set at $515.

Estes explained that the tax bill is a part of the state government's $281.8 million, will be divided into three segments to fund the university's tri-year budgeting system. The tax bill, as of September 1, allows colleges and universities to continue to purchase goods and services as a tax exempt institution, but can not "sell" commodities without imposing the tax.

Estes said that both elementary and secondary education is directly affected by the new law, but that all college and university students in the state, both public and private, are.

A special session of the legislature is scheduled for the end of the year to try to "collect" every effort would be required to recover the new tax law.

Regarding other aspects of the university's financial picture, Estes said that all in probability Lawrence will continue to face a deficit for the school year '68-'69. Although exact figures are not yet available, Estes states that last year's final report will be similar to that of the school year 1967-'68. At a final date of approximately $13,690 was realized.

Although income for last year was at the highest in Lawrence history, maintenance and repair of old buildings and utilitarian buildings were down. Because of the large number of freshmen who left the family funds

Frosh Number 394; Coed Enrollment Up

By TOM WARRINGTON

Lawrence's 132nd freshman class arrived on campus Tuesday for the beginning of the New Student Orientation Week activities. The incoming class of 73 members 394 students, of which 41 are enrolled while 23 are women. There was no increase in numbers of women students. With 194 women and 300 men, the class is a much more even distribution than in recent years.

One particularly significant characteristic of the new freshman class is the increased number of Warren students. With 194 women and 300 men, the class is a much more even distribution than in recent years. According to Admission Director Richard M. Canterbury, the major reason for the increase in coed enrollment is that the admission process for women is more competitive than for men, and thus the class could be filled with women students while adhering to the admission requirements of the new freshman class.

Academically, the new class compares favorably with the class of 1970. Although the SAT scores, verbal 610 and math 614, are both down slightly from last year, Canterbury explained that the drop was not significant in view of a standard deviation of 10 points. The percentage of students in the top 25 per cent of their high school classes increases to 68 per cent of the women and 64 per cent of the men, up from last year's 65 per cent for the women and 62 per cent for the men.

The geographic distribution of the class of 1971 is also similar to that of previous years. There is a slight increase in the number of students from midwestern states—15 per cent compared to 15 per cent last year. This freshman class also has slightly fewer members from eastern preparatory school, an occurrence which is due at least in part to the new admission policy which requires late applicants to visit the Lawrence campus for an interview. However, of those late applicants who did visit the campus and whose applications were approved by the committee on admission, 80 per cent have entered Lawrence this fall.

Although all the new students have not yet arrived on campus, Canterbury estimated that there will be a total of 25 black students, of whom 18 will enter as freshmen.

Smith Greets Class of '73

In his first official act as president of Lawrence University, Dr. Thomas S. Smith told freshman students, "We are embarking on an adventure together; let's learn together."

Smith, who was appointed to the presidency in June, spoke to incoming students and their parents at a convocation in the Chapel.

He said of Lawrence: "It's a great university and you'll come to make it so by your interest and participation in its affairs.

He noted that both the university and new students played a role in the decision to policy, and added that from the school's viewpoint, "... we think you can make it here and can contribute something worthwhile to Lawrence.

Smith urged students to set priorities for their time. He said that where many of them had been under strict competition her high schools, competition here would be more difficult. He suggested that they be willing to investi-

It’s Your Baby

THE BIRTH of a new academic year is traditionally heralded with words of welcome and promises for an exciting and challenging year. We too extend a greeting to the class of 1923. We hope that your association with Lawrence will be a rewarding one.

YOUR RESPONSIBILITIES as students are varied and far reaching. Some of them may already have become apparent, others are sure to unfold during the months and years still ahead of you. You have an obvious obligation to scholarship, for Lawrence is foremost an institution of learning. You also have an obligation to all the other parts that constitute the university organism; to strengthen and challenge your fellow students and teachers this fall. This total does not include thousands of school superintendents, principals, and other instructional staff members, or members of school boards and boards of trustees.

The enrollment of degree-credit students in colleges and universities is expected to rise from 6.8 million in 1960 to 7.1 million this fall, a gain of 3.9 percent. The figures for both years exclude approximately 600,000 undergraduates enrolled in occupational or general studies programs, which are not generally creditable towards a bachelor’s degree.

An instructional staff of more than $30,000 is expected in colleges and universities, an increase of 1.5 percent over the $230,000 who were engaged in college teaching last fall.

Higher education spending of $27.2 billion is looked for during the coming year, compared with $23.5 during the year just ended.

Federal grants for education have more than tripled in the past five fiscal years. The increase was from $2.4 billion in 1961 to $7.6 billion in the fiscal year which has just ended.

NEW Expects 7.1 Million

Universities’ Enrollment Hits High, But Increase Smallest In Years

Enrollment in nation’s schools and colleges this fall is expected to rise for the 25th consecutive year and reach an all-time high, but the increase promises to be the smallest since 1945, the U.S. Office of Education reported today.

The expected total enrollment of 36.4 million in public and private educational institutions represents an increase of 1.2 percent over the 35.9 million enrolled last fall. The largest percentage increase is looked for at the college level and the smallest in the elementary schools kindergarten through grade 6. The small increase at the elementary school level reflects the gradual decline in the number of children born annually since 1961.

Monmouth Nips Lawrence, 20-18
In Expanded Grid Season Opener

BY GREG O'MEARA
Sports Editor

In the opening game of the nine-game 1969 season last Saturday, Lawrence was barely beaten by Monmouth 20-18, a pre-season pick to take top honors in the Midwest Conference.

Monmouth scored 20 points in the first minutes of the game and then was held scoreless for three-quarters as the Vikes scored 18 points.

PAT'S Crucial

In the end it was the points-after-touchdown that determined the winner. Monmouth attempted three PAT's from placement and made two, while Lawrence tried a placement after the first touchdown and went for two points after the next two scores and all failed.

Monmouth scored its first touchdown six minutes into the game as it drove from the Vikes' 40 yard line in nine plays. The Vikes then fumbled the kickoff and Monmouth recovered on the Lawrence 20. Fifty-eight seconds after the first touchdown the Scots had another six points to put the score at 13-0.

Monmouth's third score followed the same pattern, as the Vikes fumbled and the Scots recovered on the Lawrence 25 and drove for the score in two plays to make the score 20-0.

Lawrence broke into the scoring column in the second period as Tim Young recovered a Scot fumble on the Monmouth 27. In seven plays and a pass interference call the Vikes scored. Quarterback John Van De Hey threw a five-yard pass to Bill Davis in the right corner of the end zone. The kick for the extra point failed.

Vikes Dominate II

The second half was a different story as the Vikes held Monmouth scoreless and scored twice themselves. With sophomore Ed Kust leading the charge the Vikes blocked Monmouth's punt after the first series of downs and the Vikes Look over on the Scot 26, but failed to score as Monmouth put on a classic goal line stand at the one-yard mark.

With the ball on Monmouth's 20, the Vikes blocked their second punt and all-conference linebacker Lance Alwin recovered the ball on the five yard line and went in to score. The point after attempt failed, making the score 20-12.

Snap Fumbled

On their third punt attempt, this time from their 24, the Monmouth punter lost control of the snap and was downed by Rust on the 14.

On the next play, Steve Rechner went over the right side of the Scot line and scored making the score 20-18. A five yard delay of game penalty hampered the PAT attempt as Van De Hey's pass was knocked down.

The game ended with an interception that halted the Vikes attempt to pull the game out. After taking over on their own 23 with 51 seconds left, the Vikes covered 59 yards in 40 seconds. Van De Hey's pass from the 18 yard line was intercepted and the score remained at 20-18 in favor of Monmouth.

Monmouth had 14 first downs compared to Lawrence's 11 and 206 yards gained to their 119, but Monmouth's three pass interceptions and two fumble recoveries allowed them to outscore Lawrence 20-18.

Tomorrow the team faces Coe in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Coe is rated as a challenger for the MWC membership.
