Stuart Spencer writes award winning play

A dramatic reading of "The Golden Rose" will be presented at the 4th Annual University of Minnesota Theta Chi Fraternity's Annual Theatre Festival this weekend. The play, written by the University's own Stuart Spencer, is a romantic comedy about the adventures of the golden rose as it is passed from person to person through the years.

Stuart Spencer came to Brokaw in the fall of his junior year as a transfer student. He is an accomplished pianist and singer and has been active in the university's drama society. Spencer plans to write and direct a musical comedy next year.

Broken Promise to Brokaw?

In Mike Edwards and Allen Sturrock, the president of the group, a Broken Promise to Brokaw has been charged by the administration with a lack of due process in the selection of the residence hall dormitory.

In particular, the Broken Promise to Brokaw group is asking the administration to allow them to purchase the residence hall dormitory on the Bierman campus.

The group has already raised $65,000 to purchase the dormitory, and is planning to raise an additional $100,000 over the next year.

However, the administration has refused to allow the group to purchase the dormitory.

The group is considering legal action to force the administration to allow them to purchase the dormitory.

In Paul Conkaid, a former school book manager, the group of Brokaw residents feels they have been treated unfairly and that their integrity has been questioned.

Reevaluation

An academic planning committee has been convened by the administration to study the student questionnaire used by Lawrence to evaluate the academic effectiveness of courses.

The committee was headed by Vice-President for Business Affairs Marvin Wrolstad, who believes that the questionnaire is not working as it should.

The committee is considering changes to the questionnaire to make it more effective.

S. Smith, who was asked to comment on the questionnaire, stated that the students who use the questionnaire have not been very satisfied with its content.

Smith stated: "I'm not going to make administrative pronouncements. I'm just going to respond to the letter that he added." He also stated that the questionnaire had been pretested by the students and that the results have been evaluated.

However, the committee has decided to make some changes to the questionnaire.

The changes will include the addition of questions to measure student satisfaction with the course content and teaching effectiveness.

The changes will also include the elimination of questions that are not relevant to the course content.

The committee plans to implement the changes as soon as possible.

What do government majors like John Martin think they'll do after they graduate from Lawrence? Go on to graduate school, if they decide to postpone their search for a job for as long as they can mark in the real world, then what?

They certainly don't find jobs in government, as Lawrence administrator by last fall. So, what? Settle for a job as a civil service insurance man selling life insurance policies? Not good to the state?

The creation of an executive position in 1978 is discussed in the text. The executive position was created to manage the affairs of the University. How committed is the physical plant to initial administrative cutbacks ordered and withdrawn last week makes it seem as though some student opinion is needed at Lawrence and what constitutes nice, but articulate people who can play a larger role in shaping and directing the course of events such as Homecoming, Winter Carnival, Celebrate, and Biddles Weekend. This individual will work with other departments in preparing the budget for each event. They also recruit individuals to plan and organize events for the specific activities for which they are needed.

Are there three openings on the newly established Program Coordination Committee? The Recreation Program Coordinator will be charged with organizing and scheduling all athletic and recreational activities such as intramurals. The coordinator will meet with the faculty and students to determine the need for each program. Finally, applications are sent to the Office of Dean of Campus Activities to interview potential candidates for each of the campus activities. The committee shall be hard and very time consuming that may require the individual to be available for work and meetings during the summer.

This year since 1972, evaluation forms evolved rather interestingly. Many were set up for course purposes rather than foci. In 1976, a creative group of students decided to rival books and similar guides on campus. The 1979 first edition is the final product and similar guides were written for other courses. Students sent out surveys to students, entered various tasks, tabulated results, and produced a guide of different aspects of Lawrence. It later became known as the "Evaluation Guide" and was used to make tenure decisions. The guide is currently used by faculty and students. The form is a good tool for evaluation purposes. It has been made available to instructors for personal self-evaluation. This year's evaluation committee will attempt to determine if the form is a good tool for evaluation of teaching assistants as it now stands, but not how well the administration uses the results to make tenure decisions. Student input is necessary for an effective review and revision of the form. A revival of the "Student Evaluation Guide" would also be a valuable contribution. How about bringing the form back to life? We Deliver Fighting increased in Cambodia around the port of Rompong bond, as the Cambodian government claimed its forces were in control in all of Cambodia, but Khmer rouge reports of fighting in the far north and around the southern port of Kempong Som. Cambodian forces loyal to the ousted Pol Pot claimed that they had begun guerilla style operations against Vietnam, with a troop strength of about 8,000.

Monica Regan met with United States envoy Alfred Atherton in Jerusalem to start working to revive Egyptian-Israeli peace talks. They discussed the bratan situation, which will determine Secretary of State James Baker's visit to Israel. Baker's cabinet failed to agree on US peace proposals. Israel had to accept Cairo's demand that the treaty be reviewed again in 5 years, but finally accepted it.

Abu Hassan, Palestinian guerrilla and reputed planner of the Lockerbie crash, was released from prison in Jordan. He claims the explosion in his country's capital was caused by US military action, which killed 18 people. His car was found burned and exploded. He had also served as top security advisor for the PLO.

Over 110,000 workers are now on strike in England. Analysts warn that the number could reach "four or five times" that much very soon. Negotiations between striking truck drivers and industry officials have collapsed, and ambulance drivers, garbage collectors, and hospital workers have also gone on strike. Prime Minister Callaghan refused to declare a state of emergency in London despite the mass disruptions. The labor part said that it couldn't end the truckers' strike without breaking the 5 percent inflation guideline in wage boosts.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission has already given its final approval for the construction of a new nuclear power plant in Texas. The chief of the agency, which has approved a number of similar plants in recent years, welcomed the decision and said it would be a "major step forward for nuclear power in the United States." The new plant will be built in Limerick, Pennsylvania, and is expected to go online in 1981. It will have a capacity of 800 megawatts.

President Carter projects a $29 billion deficit for 1980, which is $11 billion more than he had estimated just two weeks ago. He said the deficit would be "the result of a fiscal policy that has been at work for six years." The president also warned that "the economic problems we face today are serious, and they will not go away quickly." The deficit is expected to continue to rise in the coming years.

It had been a pretty tough week. I poured another glass of Whiskey and looked down at the streets below. Except for the drag races, Fridays nights in Appleton are usually quiet. I appreciated the chance to unwind after the Scratch and Smiley fight. They both get up; Scratch has started to write book and Smiley's playing forward on the pro-am basketball tour. No work had been done on the over-the-hill private dick with a limp.

I phoned round and out loud. The husband of a pro-registered mail woman was at the airport. I started to ask Edward six months ago. I had no idea of the man's true identity. Ryu on women in Korea

by Carol Rees

The late 19th century and early 20th century were a time of great change in Korea. The country was transformed from a feudal society to a modern one, and women played a significant role in this process. In her book "A History of Korea," Carol Rees explores the lives of women in Korea during this period.

Rees notes that women in Korea were not treated as equals to men. They were often subjected to gender-based discrimination and had limited opportunities for education and career advancement. However, there were also some women who were able to overcome these barriers and achieve success in their own right.

One of the most notable women in Korean history was Ryu Kyung-sil, who was active in the early 20th century. She was a writer and social activist who helped to promote women's rights and education in Korea.

Another woman who made a significant impact on Korean society was a scholar named Park Seon-yi. She was known for her work in modernizing the Korean language and promoting literacy among women.

While progress was being made in some areas, Rees also notes that there were still many challenges for women in Korea. Despite the progress that had been made, gender-based discrimination and limited opportunities remained a reality for many women.

Rees's book provides a detailed look at the lives of women in Korea during this period, and highlights the important role that women played in the country's modernization.

Costly nuclear power

by Ralph Helfferich

Whenever discussing the merits of nuclear power in the Fox Valley it is wise to remember that as much as 40 percent of the electrical energy we use during those cold winter months comes from nuclear power plants. By comparison, other electric utilities in Wisconsin use wind power, hydroelectric power, and natural gas to produce the electricity we use in our lives.

Even though many people areenchant with the economics of nuclear power generation, as is the case of those who favor it, there are some who are concerned with the safety of nuclear power plants. They believe that the safety of nuclear power plants is not adequate and that the risks associated with nuclear power are too high.

There are also those who are concerned with the cost of nuclear power. They argue that the cost of nuclear power is too high relative to the benefits that it provides. Some argue that the cost of nuclear power is too high relative to the benefits that it provides.

It is clear that there is no easy answer to the question of whether nuclear power is a good or bad choice. However, it is important to consider the costs and benefits of nuclear power before making a decision about whether or not to use it.

Discovering Japan's way

There will be an important informational meeting for all students interested in the The Japan Study program. Washington Semester Programs will be held on Tuesday, March 1 at 10 a.m. in the Ormsby Lounge. Ten Lawrence students recently returned from Washington (Paul Lansing, Ken Ashley, Andy Cauthen, Steve LaLonde, Ruhl Johnson, Ray Johnson, Larry Longley, the Camp Director, by then. Students selected must have a strong academic record and a strong interest in Japan. His work culminated "J " program. The Washington Semester Programs are offered by the Combined Great Lakes Colleges of the Midwest program. The program is divided into three parts.

The Japan Study program is an on-campus opportunity that features study abroad through the International Division that offers a wide range of courses in English. Students will attend a FALL AND WINTER TERM at Waseda University in Tokyo. Each term will be provided with a Japanese language class of their choice. By the end of each term each student will be required to have finished an independent study project. Those without previous course work in economics or business administration are also encouraged to apply. All work placements are in commercial, administrative, and professional positions, and are available in many different sizes and types of organizations.

In addition to the internship, each student chooses one graduate-level course from among the Keller School's regularly scheduled offerings in accounting, finance, marketing, personnel management, information management, and all will participate in a "Women in Management" seminar dealing with the problems and opportunities of management careers. Employee Contributions and Foundation grants pay all tuition and housing costs, and each intern receives a $200 stipend for the summer. Program dates for summer 1979 are June 1 - August 31, for further information see Terri Johnson, Career Counselor.

There are many descriptions of off-campus programs. Lawrence can send you to study in London, Paris, Madrid, Munich, Cost Rica, Mexico, Chicago, and D.C. Through ACM and other programs you can live in Africa, Yugoslavia, India, China, Japan and other places.

Some professors believe that students should not attempt to escape the Lawrence campus by going on an overseas or urban program. They stress the unique value of classroom courses. But I suggest that knowledge gained through off-campus experiences is essential to a full life at Lawrence.

Students who stay in Appleton for four straight years may really miss something. Learning by visiting museums, cathedrals, galleries, attending concerts, plays, ballets and lectures is different than learning about these same things in class. Traveling overseas makes you speak and think in different languages, budget time and money, sacrifice, make quick decisions, go without room and board (or walk ten miles to find it), and protect yourself. It tests your patience and capacity to absorb a foreign culture, and personal tolerance for indifferent, hostile, or ignorant attitudes directed at students and Americans.

You may also learn that the American lifestyles and priorities are not necessarily superior. Nor can success always be measured by the traditional academic and professional success. Priorities are not necessarily superior. Nor can success always be measured by the traditional academic and professional success. Priorities are not necessarily superior. Living in the big city means you will learn from a different perspective. Off-campus experiences provide a contrast to life in Appleton. So go out and test your abilities, apply your skills, and wish to explore the possibility of a management career. Those without previous course work in economics or business administration are also encouraged to apply. Lawrence upsets favored Beloit

The LU basketball team played well this past week but could only manage to win one game in three. The solo victory came last Saturday night at Alexander Gym against Beloit College. The Bucs came into Appleton with an impressive 8-4 record and were selected as one of the top teams in the conference. They managed to win one game in three.

Bucaneers came into Appleton with an impressive 8-4 record and Lawrence basketball to score 47 points for the game as the Knights won by sixteen.

The game, though, was a big one for myself as I became the seventh player in the history of Lawrence basketball to score 1,000 career points. Monday night witnessed a defensive battle between St. Norberts of DePere and Lawrence. LU could only manage to score 47 points for the game as the Knights won by sixteen.

This week's game brings the Ripon Redmen into town for a conference play contest. The Vikings upset Beloit last week and are looking for another upset this week. The game versus arch-rival Ripon is at 7:30 Saturday at our own fine facilities 'cross the river. "I'm may bear all the play-by-play on WLPF, 91.1.

Women hoopers split; plan revenge

by Virginia and Theodore

The women's basketball split two games last week to attain an impressive 9-4 record overall. On January 17, the squad traveled to Milwaukee to battle Mt. Mary. The Mt. Mary team proved to be tricky, but the Lawrence bench ended the game with a decisive victory, 56-28. The Vikings were led by Vicki Corbeil's 16 points and 16 rebounds, as well as Janet Salzwedel's 32 points and Doby Jaryszak's 13 rebounds.

The game ended with the Vikings converted on their free-throws (86 percent for the game), and when Beloit missed their shots, the Vikings came up with the rebounds. The score ended up 27-9, letting Lawrence have the lead all the way through.

Lawrence almost does it again

by Howard K. Cowaters

LAWST was at it again. Last Monday the Lawrence University swim team travelled to the far and distant waters of the Ripon pool. There they met the cygnet-equipped Ripon Redmen. Fighting tenaciously, the small but talented LU swimmers were finally edged out, 34-36, only to give the Ripon divers well Londa, after all, he was All-American. Spared on by the generally great captain Dave Bums, the team showed spirit if not quality. Coach Dave Bums, the team showed spirit if not quality.

The swimmers gave their best effort this year for the Lawrence team.

Last Thursday night LU hosted the Carthage College and Carthage game. The game, though, was a big one for myself as I became the seventh player in the history of Lawrence basketball to score 1,000 career points. Monday night witnessed a defensive battle between St. Norberts of DePere and Lawrence. LU could only manage to score 47 points for the game as the Knights won by sixteen.

The second half opened with a big assist from the Ripon divers (well Linda Kastner wisely advised his team to concentrate on all aspects of his game, and not think of himself as an exceptional scorer. Infamous teammate Jerry Jeff Whalen adds, "Mike's a total ballplayer. Someday I hope to be just like him. He plays tough defense, rebounds and passes well, besides being a great 30% shooter. If you don't believe me, just ask him.

In spite of numerous injuries to Teddybear's players (i.e. Corbeil's broken schnozzola, Ferk's mangled face, and Jaryzsa's active furaria) the Lawrence women returned to Appleton on today, enjoying a 3-0 record but also enjoying a miraculous "butter bomb" made by Debbie Frenze. However, on Monday when the Vikings battered St. Norberts, it was a different story. From the beginning tipoff it was clear that the Vikings were not going to be the Vikings of old. The first half ended disastrously with Teddybear leading the women off the court by a score of 27-9. The Vikings refused to die in the second stanza, but could not get back into the game. They came back to concentrate top-ranked St. Norbert's for the perfect record of my life. However, that was not enough, as the Vikings played with 30% effort.

"If we'd have had 40% effort, we would have had a better chance of winning," Coach Dave Bums reflected. "It would have been a lot easier for us, we would have been a lot easier to play with. I think we had Norbert's worst nightmare. We were trapped in the game, in the water, with no way out onto the court Thursday night."

In the first half the scores were Lawrence 27 and Ripon 9. In the second half the scores were Lawrence 20 and Ripon 20.

Lawrence's Women's basketball team is looking for revenge this week when they face the Ripon Redmen.
