Wisconsin for its news and WLFM so that WPR could became clear that WPR was according to Thompson, "It led up to the deal between needed to Invest more responsible for program - its broadcast day to 4 p.m., Lawrence about expanding Lawrence about expanding its broadcast day to 4 p.m. according to Thompson. "It became clear that WPR was prepared to invest money in WLFM so that WPR could have an outlet in Northeast Wisconsin for its news and the license, but WPR will be responsible for programm - equipment and fundraising. "It seemed that some diff - successful program over struggling one, the Dean of the Faculty, has ac-cepted a recommendation by the Anthropology De-partment to drop its sociology component. The process leading to the decision began last spring with 170 applicants which finally focused on seven candidates who were brought to campus. "It was more the usual situation of candidates brought to campus." Saunders made job offers to three candidates with all declining the offer. With the future, the

Sociology major discontinued

By Gordon A. Martinez

In effort to accentuate a successful program over a struggling one, the Dean of the Faculty, has ac-cepted a recommendation by the Anthropology De-partment to drop its soci-ology component. The process leading to the decision began last spring with a nationwide search for candidates was begun to fill two sociology positions. According to Anthropology Department Chair George Saunders, the search began with 170 applicants which finally focused on seven candidates who were brought to campus. "It was more the usual situation of candidates brought to campus." Saunders made job offers to three candidates with all declining the offer. With the future, the

Sociology major discontinued

By Gordon A. Martinez

In effort to accentuate a successful program over a struggling one, the Dean of the Faculty, has ac-cepted a recommendation by the Anthropology De-partment to drop its soci-ology component. The process leading to the decision began last spring with a nationwide search for candidates was begun to fill two sociology positions. According to Anthropology Department Chair George Saunders, the search began with 170 applicants which finally focused on seven candidates who were brought to campus. "It was more the usual situation of candidates brought to campus." Saunders made job offers to three candidates with all declining the offer. With the future, the

Sociology major discontinued

By Gordon A. Martinez

In effort to accentuate a successful program over a struggling one, the Dean of the Faculty, has ac-cepted a recommendation by the Anthropology De-partment to drop its soci-ology component. The process leading to the decision began last spring with a nationwide search for candidates was begun to fill two sociology positions. According to Anthropology Department Chair George Saunders, the search began with 170 applicants which finally focused on seven candidates who were brought to campus. "It was more the usual situation of candidates brought to campus." Saunders made job offers to three candidates with all declining the offer. With the future, the

Sociology major discontinued

By Gordon A. Martinez

In effort to accentuate a successful program over a struggling one, the Dean of the Faculty, has ac-cepted a recommendation by the Anthropology De-partment to drop its soci-ology component. The process leading to the decision began last spring with a nationwide search for candidates was begun to fill two sociology positions. According to Anthropology Department Chair George Saunders, the search began with 170 applicants which finally focused on seven candidates who were brought to campus. "It was more the usual situation of candidates brought to campus." Saunders made job offers to three candidates with all declining the offer. With the future, the

Sociology major discontinued

By Gordon A. Martinez

In effort to accentuate a successful program over a struggling one, the Dean of the Faculty, has ac-cepted a recommendation by the Anthropology De-partment to drop its soci-ology component. The process leading to the decision began last spring with a nationwide search for candidates was begun to fill two sociology positions. According to Anthropology Department Chair George Saunders, the search began with 170 applicants which finally focused on seven candidates who were brought to campus. "It was more the usual situation of candidates brought to campus." Saunders made job offers to three candidates with all declining the offer. With the future, the

Sociology major discontinued

By Gordon A. Martinez

In effort to accentuate a successful program over a struggling one, the Dean of the Faculty, has ac-cepted a recommendation by the Anthropology De-partment to drop its soci-ology component. The process leading to the decision began last spring with a nationwide search for candidates was begun to fill two sociology positions. According to Anthropology Department Chair George Saunders, the search began with 170 applicants which finally focused on seven candidates who were brought to campus. "It was more the usual situation of candidates brought to campus." Saunders made job offers to three candidates with all declining the offer. With the future, the
Opinion

From The Editor's Desk

Fall brings changes

Greetings! Welcome to the 1990-91 edition of The Lawrentian. As with any new year, changes abound and the campus newspaper is no exception.

Tom Zoelner, who was appointed editor-in-chief of the newspaper this third term of last year, has off campus this term undertaking journalism studies and an internship under the auspices of the American University Journalism Semester Program.

In his absence, I will serve as editor-in-chief for The Lawrentian first term. Allow me to explain my journalistic credentials.

I served as editor-in-chief of my high school paper in Los Lunas, N. Mex., was news editor for The Lawrentian last spring and have served two summers as a general assignment reporter for the Valencia County News Bulletin, a 5,000 circulation, bi-weekly paper published in Belen, N. Mex.

My background, with varied experiences, has hopefully served me well as I step into this new challenge.

This job presents the challenge of informing the campus of what is going on in a clear and concise manner.

My approach will be one in which the campus is not only invited, but urged, to help the newspaper staff in this task.

I expect the readers of this newspaper to let me know what the paper's strengths and weaknesses are. Story ideas and suggestions are welcome for possible use in this campus newspaper.

Letters to the editor serve this purpose well. Within the word guidelines, consider this the place to make a statement about what is and should be going on in Lawrence.

In addition, the staff and I will try some different things in terms of newswriting production, layout and overall look which will hopefully serve this campus well.

Let's work together to make this term a productive one.

- Gordon A. Martinez

Letters to the Editor/Open Forum

IFC to operate food booth at fair

To The Editor:

On Saturday, October 6 the Interfraternity Council is operating a food booth during Appleton's local Oktoberfest celebration.

Editorial policy spelled out again

The following is a set of 14 policies and guidelines the staff of The Lawrentian will use in gathering the news we use every week.

As always, we encourage comment through the Letter to the Editor or by calling us at 6768.

1. The Lawrentian's main credo is to report the news as accurately and as responsibly as possible.
2. There are two or more sides to every story. The Lawrentian will make every attempt to present the news in an unbiased manner.
3. After a Lawrentian staffer has properly identified him or herself as a reporter to the subject of an interview, everything the source says may be considered "on the record."
4. Anything said in the context of an open meeting is considered "on the record."
5. If the source requests, a telephone call should be made to the reporter beforehand that he/she is about to receive an "off the record" statement.

All of the proceeds from the Food Booth will go to the IFC Disaster Relief Fund.

The Dean of Students selected recipients lacking necessities such as clothes and academic materials.

Money left over from the Trever Hall Fire emergency was returned to the disaster relief fund.

The IFC Disaster Relief Fund is the first line of aid for many victims in the case of emergency. We would sincerely appreciate your support.

Thank You,

Jim Maloney, '92, IFC member

10. The Lawrentian follows the Associated Press stylebook in most matters of style.
11. The weekly "From the Editor's Desk" represents the viewpoint of the editor, not necessarily the Lawrentian staff as a whole.
12. The Lawrentian is a free newspaper and independent student newspaper. Although partly funded by university money, the Lawrentian will strive to represent the student body as a whole, and not any one particular organization, university department, or campus group.
13. Confidential sources will remain that way. No reporter will reveal an anonymous source.
14. A reporter's notes are his or her private property, and not open to review by anyone.
15. Unethical or unlawful means will not be used to research a story.
16. Advertising is offered at a discount to campus groups. However, no free ads can be given, not even to Lawrentian staffers.
17. Any interested individual is welcome to submit the weekly criticism/planning sessions, generally held at 6 p.m. Friday evenings in Downer C Dining Room.
Did Mike Welbel discriminate?

By Mike Royko

You play the jury and decide. Does Mike Welbel discriminate in his hiring practices? Welbel owns a small business, the Daniel Lamp Co. on Chicago's Southwest Side.

He buys lamp parts that are made elsewhere, and his workers assemble them in his plant. The lamps are shipped to furniture stores. He has 26 employees. The jobs require little skill or education so the pay is low. But a job is a job. Welbel says that of his 26 workers, 21 are Hispanic and five are black.

At this point, some of you might say: Yes, Welbel discriminates because he doesn't have any non-Hispanic white employees. Overruled. Welbel's business is in the heart of the Southwest Side's Hispanic community. So most of the people he hires are from the neighborhood. It's doubtful that anyone would want to travel a considerable distance to work in the lamp shop.

But yes, Welbel does discriminate. You might not think so, and I don't think so. That doesn't matter. Federal bureaucrats say he does. And so do I. Because I don't think so. That doesn't matter. Federal bureaucrats say he does. And so, and I don't think so. That doesn't matter.

It seems that a black woman applied for a job about 18 months ago. She wasn't hired. Welbel says he doesn't know why.

"I didn't interview her. Maybe the plant supervisor did. He's not here anymore. I don't know why she didn't get hired. Maybe we didn't need anyone. I just don't know."

But he does know that the woman filed a complaint with the Chicago office of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, the federal agency that is supposed to guard against discriminatory hiring practices. She complained that she wasn't hired because she is black.

And one spring day last year, two investigators came to his plant.

"I told them, 'Here's the records. Help yourselves. You can see everything.' What did I have to hide? I figured that if everybody who works for me is Hispanic or black, how could I be discriminating?"

You see, when I started the business nine years ago, I used to deal with the state Department of Labor or place help wanted ads.

Then I got to know these Hispanic organizations - the Spanish Coalition and Latino Youth in Chicago - and we could call and say we needed a couple of people, and they'd say 'no problem,' and send someone in.

So that's how I've done most of my hiring the last few years. When there's an opening, I call them and they refer people and we hire the ones that are best suited for the work."

That's why Welbel wasn't concerned when the federal bureaucrats came snooping. With an all-minority work force, why should he worry? "I didn't even get a lawyer."

Now he knows why he should have worried. "Dealing with those government people is frightening. They do all the talking. They tell you how it's going to be. You just sit and listen. I've never even met the woman who filed the complaint."

The bureaucrats have told him how it's going to be. First, they say he must pay the woman $304.01 in wages she lost by not being hired.

Welbel says: "Fine. I'll be glad to pay her that just to get rid of the headache."

But that's just for starters. Sort of a small ante in the pot.

The bureaucrats have also demanded that Welbel pay $123,991 in back pay.

Back pay to whom? Good question. The money is to be divided up by six other blacks who weren't hired and whose names were found in Welbel's files. And by any other blacks who might have applied in 1988 and 1989.

And who are these others? Welbel doesn't know. Nor do the bureaucrats.

So the feds want Welbel to spend about $10,000 on newspaper advertising to find black people who say they applied and weren't hired. Then they can come in and get they're share of the $123,991.

"They've told me that I should have had 8,45 black employees in 1988 and 1989. They said that within a three-mile radius of my plant, companies that have 100 workers or more average 31.1 percent black. So I should have a 31.1 percent black work force. And that's how they came up with what I owe people who didn't work for me."

And they want me to spend $10,000 an advertising to find people who didn't work for me so I can pay them $123,991 for not working for me."

Is Welbel going to do it? "I can't. I don't have the money. To tell the truth, the whole company isn't worth that much. That's why I came to this neighborhood. I got the building cheap. Nobody wanted it. I have a nonskilled work labor pool nearby."

"No, I can't pay that money. I'll have to close down, go out of business."

"This is incredible. I'm a small operation. I've got 26 minority people working for me. And here's this federal agency on my back with some mathematical formula that I never heard of."

I called the EEOC for their side of it, but they wouldn't discuss the case. I can understand that. If I did something that loony, I wouldn't want to talk about it either.

So if the EEOC doesn't back off, Welbel might have to go out of business. And that will eliminate 26 jobs held by minorities. They won't have incomes, they won't pay taxes, and maybe some of them will have to go on welfare, which means someone else's taxes will be used to support them.

I wonder: Among all the other things the Japanese have acquired, do you think they might have bought the EEOC?

Greek system plans week of activities

This year, Greek Week promises to be an exciting week, with events that will help Greek organizations better understand the Greek community at Lawrence. The week begins with the Pizza Cookout in the Interfraternity Council and the Panhellenic Council residence hall with a representative from every Greek organization.

The week's events will include: Pizza will be served and Colman Hall will be open for open wing at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Stansbury The Greek cookout in the Friday Quadrangle. On Monday, study group sessions will be held in each Greek organization. A Greek Turkey will be on display in the Panhellenic Council.

So the EEOC doesn't back off. Welbel might have to go out of business. And that will eliminate 26 jobs held by minorities. They won't have incomes, they won't pay taxes, and maybe some of them will have to go on welfare, which means someone else's taxes will be used to support them.

I wonder: Among all the other things the Japanese have acquired, do you think they might have bought the EEOC?

Opinion

Friday Oct. 5, 1990 Page 3

Did Mike Welbel discriminate?

By Mike Royko

"This is incredible. I'm a small operation. I've got 26 minority people working for me. And here's this federal agency on my back with some mathematical formula that I never heard of."

Mike Welbel

Greek system plans week of activities

This year, Greek Week promises to be a fun week, with events that will help Greek residents get to know each other better.

Greeks will have activities and events that will help them get to know each other better. This year, Greek Week promises to be a fun week, with events that will help Greek residents get to know each other better.

On Monday, study group sessions will be held in each Greek organization. A Greek Turkey will be on display in the Panhellenic Council.

The Archives

The Archives
Fiedler selected to be next Scarff professor

By Kelly Ritland

Edgar R. Fiedler, vice president and economic counselor at the Conference Board in New York, is Lawrence University’s second recipient of the Stephen Edward Scarff Distinguished Professorship.

During the 1990-91 academic year, Fiedler will conduct classes in economics at Lawrence where he will draw upon his extensive experience both as a government and private economist.

The Stephen Edward Scarff Distinguished Professorship is endowed by a budget of $1 million, given to Lawrence in memory of Stephen Scarff, who graduated from the University in 1975 and died in an automobile accident in 1983.

The professorship was established to bring to the Lawrence campus public servants, professionals, leaders and scholars to provide broad perspectives on the central issues of our time. The idea behind the professorship is to bring experience from various professions to Lawrence students.

McGeorge Bundy, national security advisor to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, was the 1989-90 Scarff distinguished professor at Lawrence.

According to Fiedler, his objective this term is to “bring experience in business and government, that not all professors have been fortunate to have.”

A native of Milwaukee, Fiedler received a bachelor of business administration degree in 1951 from the University of Wisconsin, and a master of business administration degree in 1956 from the University of Michigan. He earned his Ph.D. in economics from the New York University Graduate School of Business Administration in 1970.

His first government appointment was in 1970 when he became deputy assistant secretary of economic affairs in the U.S. Department of Commerce.

A year later, Fiedler was appointed deputy director for the Cost of Living Council, Executive Office of the President. From 1971-1975, he was Assistant Secretary of the Treasury for Economic Policy under Secretaries John Connally, George Schultz and William Simon.

Fiedler currently is adjunct professor of economics at Columbia University.

In addition, Alan Schultz, 90, the chapter’s immediate past president, was selected to be a member of the national headquarters staff as a chapter leadership consultant.

Job fair coming soon

By Fleming Elsberry

On Friday, November 2, Lawrence University, Beloit College, and Ripon College will join together to hold the first Wiscon­sin Liberal Arts Career Fair, which will be held at the Pfister Hotel in downtown Milwaukee.

The career fair is to provide the opportunity for students to access good student employers for the purpose of meeting and building relationships and possible contacts that are hard for a small liberal arts college to achieve.

One hundred students from the participating schools are expected to attend.

The directors of Career Development at the three respective schools joined forces in a cooperative effort to provide, said Carol Lampe, Director of Career Planning and Development, said, “Equal access for their seniors to compete with peers at larger universities.”

Lampe said the career fair “represents a broad range of career fields and not just businesses.”

Dee Massey in Career Planning said “The career fair will provide a specific Lawrence students could have a Wednesday that begins with an unplanned cool shower.

According to a memo from John Moder, Assistant Director of Physical Plant, steam lines campus wide will be shut down Oct. 10 for routine repairs and maintenance.

During this time, according to the memo, laundry and no hot water will be available.

“Was it just sittin’ there in my mailbox. Yours come yet?”

L.U. students, O’Moroux Saloon has something only for you. We’re offering 20% off everything from precision cuts to hair painting and perms.

Watch your mail. It’s better than money from home!

A special Lawrence University 20% discount card will show up in your mail any day now. You can use it all year long for any service at O’Moroux. If you don’t get one, bring in your student I.D. and we’ll fix you up.

DOWNTOWN • APPLETON 730-9131
Perkins looks to define diversity

By Gordon A. Martinez

Multicultural Dean Herb Perkins sees himself as one who can adapt to a situation and one who has a knack for teaching.

Good traits for a job such as this, Perkins, who received his PhD at Notre Dame and University of California at Santa Cruz, has settled into a job that will call for him to advise international students and help attain a consensus from members of the department whilst the term diversity means.

"I haven't had any great surprises, I am pleased at the number of international students with the unity and support they are showing," Perkins, however, has been charged with the duty of guiding the campus in multicultural relations.

"I'm working on plans to start discussions with faculty and students on the subject of cultural diversity."

"What is it? What isn't? What do we want to do? We need to define for our needs at Lawrence without outside interference."

The way Perkins is trying to do this is by trying to meet people.

"I want them to get to know me so I know what I can do for them can be done better based on their personality." In his short time, Perkins has learned a lot about people's' opinions on the subject of diversity. We are developing a common understanding of diversity and we do within the community.

"From what I learned there is great variation into the meaning of cultural diversity."

Perkins said, "Some look at cultural diversity with apprehension meaning lowering standards and loss of quality."

"However, we need a consensus (about cultural diversity) and the direction we want to take."

In California, Perkins said that the "New Majority" of formerly minority peoples are making the "Old Majority" whites reevaluate their position in society.

In California, the question is how do we deal with an already changed situation.

"How do we come to terms asking those types of questions."

"What do we want it to be? What it isn't? What it is? We are making the "Old Major-"

SAUNDERS... Mr. Saunders and Mr. Lawrence.

"We shall work to find that state this is at least five years away from even finding out what cultural diversity it is."

"I found that I could explain things to fellow students in ways that aided their understanding."

"I displayed interpersonal skills that attracted me to teaching a class in the Anthropology department." Perkins has known for a long time that teaching was his point of view.

"I have a desire and enthusiasm for learning. I'm a student in terms of someone who is interested in learning."

Multicultural Dean Herb Perkins

Perkins believes that at Lawrence most students are at least in high school, especially, I have a desire and enthusiasm for learning. The "Old Majority" of formerly minority peoples are making the "Old Majority" whites reevaluate their position in society. Perkins has known for a long time that teaching was his point of view.

"I have a desire and enthusiasm for learning. I'm a student in terms of someone who is interested in learning." Perkins looks to define diversity and knowledge itself.

What do we want it to be? What it isn't? What it is? We are making the "Old Majority" whites reevaluate their position in society. Perkins will teach an occasional class in the Anthropology department. Perkins has known for a long time that teaching was his point of view.

"I have a desire and enthusiasm for learning. I'm a student in terms of someone who is interested in learning." Perkins looks to define diversity and knowledge itself.

Sociology...

continued from page 1

department saw no choice but to drop the sociology component. Saunders acknowledges it was a tough decision.

"We're ambivalent about this decision. It's not a perfect one, but its the best for us and Lawrence."

In a prepared statement, Thompson said, "Last May..."

Mr. Saunders and Mr. Mason made a recommendation to the Dean of the Faculty to remove Sociology from the curriculum.

"They made the decision reluctantly, but definitely."

After consultation with the Greek Week...

continued from page 3

these programs. On Thursday there will be a faculty reception from 11:00 to 2:00 in the Union.

Friday will feature an all-campus cookout in the Amphitheatre.

There will be also be special halftime activities for the children involved in the PALs program at Saturday's football game.

WLFM...

continued from page 1...cal, jazz, international and rock -- will be heard on weekends.

"We have been assured that intercollegiate athletics can be broadcast and that the annual "trivia contest" will be held."

As for the new arrangement, Dean Thompson said, "The human animal doesn't always change."

Perkins looks to define diversity and knowledge itself.

"I am confident, however, that this is change to the good. It's a win-win situation."
Those of you care deeply about America’s future will be alarmed by the continuing efforts of high-level Republicans to recruit me as an influential national leader.

The method they’re using is direct mail. As you may recall, several months ago I reported that I had received a letter from U.S. Sen. Bob Dole, inviting me to join the Republican Senatorial Inner Circle, a prestigious group open only to those Americans who meet the rigorous entrance requirement of forking over $1,000.

Needless to say, I was severely tempted, because when high-level Republicans get together, they definitely know how to “party down” to their favorite “rap” tunes:

“I’m from the G-O-P, and I know how to DANCE, I do the bunny hop in my lime-green PANTS, I know how to boogy, I know how to JIVE, I got a statue of a jockey at the end of my DRIVE.

(CHOIR)

Feelin’ so good, momma, feelin’ so right; That’s how I fold my S&L today.

Unfortunately, I was busy with various other obligations, such as washing my dog, and I never got around to joining the Republican Senatorial Inner Circle. So you can imagine my surprise when, several weeks later, I got a letter from ANOTHER Republican U.S. senator, Don Nickles. (True anecdote: President George Bush publicly referred to Sen. Nickles as “Don Rickles.” This caused much amusement because of course Don RICKLES is not a senator. He’s our ambassador to Iraq.)

Sen. Nickles’ letter invited me to join an even more exclusive club called the Presidential Roundtable, which is “made up of men and women, just like yourself, who have tremendous faith in the future of our nation and years of experience to share with our leaders.”

This came as news to me, because almost all my years of experience involve trying to make up new booger jokes. It’s hard to picture our leaders wanting me to share this with them, or even necessarily to shake hands.

But as Sen. Nickles says, “I wouldn’t extend this invitation to you if I did not feel you were qualified to become a member.”

What they are looking for, in the way of qualifications, is five grand. But it sounds like a heck of a deal. As Sen. Nickles explains: “...the Presidential Roundtable operates much like a private club -- a club whose members meet, talk and dine with some of the most important people in the world... Presidents, U.S. Senators, Cabinet Officers, White House Officials, and some of the most important people in America today.”

For example, they’re planning a golf outing with former President Gerald ‘Look OUT!’ Ford, a possible appearance by former President Dick ‘Dick’ Nixon, and (I swear I am not making this up) “an elegant dinner at the Watergate Hotel.”

Quite frankly, this sounds like more fun than I would be able to stand without the aid of prescription drugs. But I was giving it some serious thought when I got a letter from another Republican U.S. senator, John Heinz, urging me to act quickly on Sen. Nickles’ offer. “I hope you are making plans to join us,” he says.

By this point I was beginning to wonder whether these senators had anything to do in Washington aside from try to get me to be in exclusive clubs with them. I was halfway expecting them to start sending me sweepsakes-style letters with pictures of Ed McMahon telling me that I might already have won a Valuable Prize, such as a five-function LCD wristwatch or a working Stealth bomber.

How desperate are they? I was asking myself. “How low are they going to sink?”

This is when I got the letter from Vice President Quayle. I am still not making this up, “Dear Mr. Barry,” the Vice President begins, “it gives me great pleasure to inform you that at the last meeting of the membership committee of the Republican Senatorial Inner Circle, your name was placed in nomination for membership.”

The Vice President also states that “Arnold Schwarzenegger, George Schultz, Sam Walton, and other distinguished Americans have already joined the Inner Circle.”

“I urge you to respond as soon as possible,” he says.

Now I am really concerned. I am wondering:

-- Does this mean I owe them money?
-- Can high-level federal officials FORCE me to be in one of their club?
-- Could I be appointed to the CABINET via direct mail?

If I don’t respond to them, will I hear from an even HIGHER official, in fact the most powerful Republican on the planet?

-- Namely Arnold Schwarzenegger?

These are some of the questions I’m pondering as I await their next letter. Meanwhile, I’ve started reading the non-comics sections of the newspaper so I’ll be prepared in case I wind up in charge of foreign policy.

Also I’m in the market for some lime-green pants.
Chanticleer to perform

The Lawrence University Arts Sampler Series opens a season of diverse musical offerings with the 12-member all-male group Chanticleer, at 7:30 p.m. this evening.

Based in San Francisco, the ensemble is the only full-time professional a cappella choir in the country. Chanticleer's reputation for interpretation of vocal literature from Renaissance to contemporary, from gospel to pop, has been rewarded for the past four years with the National Endowment of the Arts' largest grant ever. Music critics throughout the U.S. and Europe describe the group's performance as "daring and intelligent," with a stage presence "suave to the point of perfection."

With the six recordings already released, the ensemble has recently completed a new Christmas album due to be released this fall. Chanticleer's Lawrence performance will include "Ave Regina cælestium" by Giovanni de Palestrina, excerpts from the madrigal comedy "Festino Nella Sera Del Ciocciolo Grasso Avanti Sena" by Adriano Banchieri. Also, "Ave Maria" by Franz Biebl, "Without a Song" by Stephen Foster and "Let's Do It" by Cole Porter.

Tickets to performance are available at the Lawrence Box Office at Brokaw Hall until 5 p.m.

Lawrence University Arts Academy Faculty Recital
Friday, October 12, 1990, 7:30 p.m. in Harper Hall
Admission is free and open to the public

The Friday Crossword

DETECTING DETECTIVES
By Harold B. Counts

ACROSS
1 Figurative
39 Frellas
10 Frozen
13 Taj Mahal site
20 Commemorative
21 Grandmarie jar
22 Bega
29 Birthing pilot
36 Examine
37 Van Exem
46 Metallic cloth
49 Alluring
51 Preparatory labor
53 Ralph
57 Osenoni
61 Middle East
65 Swiss town
66 Sign of the zodiac
67 Shrewd
74 Up in the air
78 Red flag
83 Former London depot: abbr.
85 Yellow flower
86 — Beach, FL
87 Spools of film direction
88 Harsh
89 Seine feeder
91 Eng. river
93 Moby Dick's
95 Hollywood
96 Misers
97 Fastened in
99 Avoid
100 Gang of thieves
102 Piscine water
103 Dance
104 Syrian city
105 Tripod
106 Bag of sand
107 Mel in Bonn
108 Concept of sorrow
109 Musical
110 — Park, CO
111 Beelder

DOWN
2 Chills and fever
3 Maritime bird
4 Booby trap
5 Cache
6 Cult
7 Wapiti
8 Wapiti
9 Glass used in mosaic work
11 Ersatz butter
12 Melancholy
15 Carolina river
16 Ersatz butter
17 Occupation
18 Miss Emerson
19 Taj Mahal site
20 Commemorative
21 Grandmarie jar
22 Bega
23 Bega
24 Birthing pilot
25 Strong poker
26 Below
27 Most rundown
28 Boutique compound
30 Ravels
31 Coordinate
32 Dealers in 60
33 General's helper
34 Seasoning plants
35 Pile up
36 Examine
37 Young herring
38 Examine
39 Frellas
40 Host
41 Sweethearts
42 Have — to
43 Pounding tool
44 Molding angle
45 Cockney abode
46 Metallic cloth
47 Coffee server (aroused)
48 Metallic cloth
49 Alluring
50 Intuitive letters
51 Fr. holy women: 75 Most concise
52 Throws off
53 Ralph
54 Seasoning plants
55 As — (attentive)
56 Mirth
57 Organic
58 One who quotes
59 A Gorbachev
60 Shrewd
61 Middle East
62 Fish feature
63 One who quotes
64 Washbowls
65 Swiss town
66 Signs pursuer
67 Evergreens
68 Heath
69 A Gorbachev
70 I A town prey
71 Twines dweller
72 Holistic rice
73 Tea leaf
74 Up in the air
75 Most concise
76 Red flag
77 Wallet item
78 Gumshoe at squirter
79 Chin
80 Captured
81 FL city
82 — Beach, FL
83 Former London depot: abbr.
84 — Beach, FL
85 Yellow flower
86 — Beach, FL
87 Spools of film direction
88 Harsh
89 Seine feeder
91 Eng. river
92 Small bird of
93 Moby Dick's
95 Hollywood
96 Misers
97 Fastened in
99 Avoid
100 Gang of thieves
102 Piscine water
103 Dance
104 Syrian city
105 Tripod
106 Bag of sand
107 Mel in Bonn
108 Concept of sorrow
109 Musical
110 — Park, CO
111 Beelder

If you smoke, please consider stopping.
Among many young women, smoking is viewed as stylish.
It is not. Smoking is deadly.
If you smoke, please consider stopping.
For help, information and support, please contact your local American Cancer Society.
After further review, the play stands

Two players go up for the football in this past week’s intramural battles occurring at three fields adjacent to Alexander Gymnasium most afternoons. To join a team, contact Noel Phillips or your hall or organizational representative.

Football even season record

Having doubled last year's total wins, the Viking football team is looking to be a serious contender in the Midwest Conference race. Last Saturday's 20-14 win over Knox places the Vikings at 2-2 on the season. After trailing Knox in the first quarter 7-0, Lawrence took advantage of another Knox fumble to score a spectacular 44 yard touchdown from Scott to Lamm with 10:32 on the third quarter clock.

Cross Country team runs successful meet

The Lawrence Men's and Women's cross country teams had a very successful meet at the Beloit Invitational last weekend. The men's team placed first out of the 23 teams running. Chris Naumann, Tom Cook, Frank Sprtel, and Dan Sheridan placed 5th, 12th, 17th and 18th respectively. The women's team placed 3rd out of 11 teams with only 8 seconds between them.

Soccer teams head opposite directions

Lawrence's Women's Soccer team is in the midst of the most successful season in women's soccer history at L.U., while the equally talented men's team is struggling with some frustrating losses.

The women's soccer team has shut out 4 of their last 5 games, scoring 14 goals and only allowing 2. The conference record of 4-2 boasts the most conference wins ever in women's soccer history, with two conference games left to play.

"This year's team is the most unified team I have played at Lawrence, which is evident in our winning record," said Judy Hayes.

Lawrence beat Ripon twice (9-0, 3-0) and Beloit twice (1-0, 1-0) with close losses to Lake Forest and St. Norbert. "Not only can we be proud of our wins, but we also played well against St. Norbert," said Anna Hexter. The team is lead by Hayes with 6 goals and 3 assists and Clare McCarthy with 5 goals and 1 assist. Goal keeper Crystal Makayenkos has only allowed 12 goals in 109 shots faced.

On the other hand the men's soccer team has faced a very frustrating season. With a 1-2 conference record and a 3-5 record overall, the team is a little let down.

"There is a lot of talent on the team, it is just a matter of putting it together," said Greg Beyer.

Lawrence has won 2 of their last 5 games, beating Ripon 5-1 and UW-Platteville 3-2 in overtime, but lost close games to conference teams Lake Forest (3-0) and St. Norbert (2-0). "I don't think the scores dictated the way the team played," said Mark Hengerer.

Lead scorers are Brian Gaschler with 6 goals and 2 assists, Quito Zuba with 4 goals. Goal keeper Mark Hengerer has faced 105 shots, only allowing 17 goals. "It was really disappointing to lose to St. Norbert when we tied them last year with a less talented team, but we look splendid in our new uniforms," said John Nelson.