Next week marks the first meeting of the Committee on the Residential Nature of College, set up last year under Charles Lauter, Dean of Student Affairs.

The Committee concerns itself with questions on the value of maintaining a residential college, and, next importantly, on the prospect of establishing on-campus living units. This Committee grew out of last year’s ad hoc committee which studied and made recommendations for the renovation of Sage and Ormsby and the raising of Brokaw.

Lauter feels that "the committee never addressed itself to the residential nature of the living unit problem." As a result this new Committee was formed to focus "by design rather than by default" on the problem of the residential nature, stated Lauter.

According to Lauter, a residential college is a "good thing," but that a great percentage of students reside off-campus and must commute. Thus decisions must be made concerning construction of new dormitories and the relocation of more off-campus living.

The value of coeducational living, the mechanisms of such living units and the possibility of experimental living units must be worked out by the committee of Keeneth Blasing (trustee), Mrs. Richard Cather (trustee), Richard Stow (associate professor of French), Nicholas Manouso (associate professor of botany), Miss Lorna Blake (associate director of dormitories), Miss Christine McQuitty (student), Walter North (student), and chairman Lauter.

This Committee grew out of last year under Charles Lauter, which studied and made recommendations for the renovation of Sage and Ormsby and the raising of Brokaw.

The added admittees swelled the class of 1974 to the largest in Lawrence’s history at 444. Admissions director Richard Cantinghury described the new class as very similar statistically to those of recent years, although there are a few more from the midwest, board test scores are slightly, but insignificantly, higher, and fewer men but more women coming from the top ten missions director Richard Cantinghury described the new class as very similar statistically to those of recent years, although there are a few more from the midwest, board test scores are slightly, but insignificantly, higher, and fewer men but more women coming from the top ten

As in the past, the best represented states are Wisconsin, Illinois, and Minnesota. A few more students from the west coast and Hawaii decided to test the rigors of the Appleton winter. About 7% of those applying were accepted, of which about half go to other schools. Cantinghury described the new class as very similar statistically to those of recent years, although there are a few more from the midwest, board test scores are slightly, but insignificantly, higher, and fewer men but more women coming from the top ten.

The female proportion of the class is slightly lower.

As in the past, the best represented states are Wisconsin, Illinois, and Minnesota. A few more students from the west coast and Hawaii decided to test the rigors of the Appleton winter. About 7% of those applying were accepted, of which about half go to other schools. Cantinghury described the new class as very similar statistically to those of recent years, although there are a few more from the midwest, board test scores are slightly, but insignificantly, higher, and fewer men but more women coming from the top ten.

The female proportion of the class is slightly lower.

As in the past, the best represented states are Wisconsin, Illinois, and Minnesota. A few more students from the west coast and Hawaii decided to test the rigors of the Appleton winter. About 7% of those applying were accepted, of which about half go to other schools. Cantinghury described the new class as very similar statistically to those of recent years, although there are a few more from the midwest, board test scores are slightly, but insignificantly, higher, and fewer men but more women coming from the top ten.

The female proportion of the class is slightly lower.

As in the past, the best represented states are Wisconsin, Illinois, and Minnesota. A few more students from the west coast and Hawaii decided to test the rigors of the Appleton winter. About 7% of those applying were accepted, of which about half go to other schools. Cantinghury described the new class as very similar statistically to those of recent years, although there are a few more from the midwest, board test scores are slightly, but insignificantly, higher, and fewer men but more women coming from the top ten.

The female proportion of the class is slightly lower.

As in the past, the best represented states are Wisconsin, Illinois, and Minnesota. A few more students from the west coast and Hawaii decided to test the rigors of the Appleton winter. About 7% of those applying were accepted, of which about half go to other schools. Cantinghury described the new class as very similar statistically to those of recent years, although there are a few more from the midwest, board test scores are slightly, but insignificantly, higher, and fewer men but more women coming from the top ten.

The female proportion of the class is slightly lower.

As in the past, the best represented states are Wisconsin, Illinois, and Minnesota. A few more students from the west coast and Hawaii decided to test the rigors of the Appleton winter. About 7% of those applying were accepted, of which about half go to other schools. Cantinghury described the new class as very similar statistically to those of recent years, although there are a few more from the midwest, board test scores are slightly, but insignificantly, higher, and fewer men but more women coming from the top ten.
Black panthers lead radicals toward socialist constitution

by Kitty Caparella and Floyd Norris

PHILADELPHIA—(CP)—The Revolutionary People's Constitutional Convention, called by the Black Panther Party, has re- sumed until November 4, when it will meet in Washington to reach formal agreement on what is intended to be a new constitution for the United States.

At the first round held here over Labor Day weekend, over 100 delegates, more than half of them black, agreed on general principles for a socialist America, but disagreed on some particular points. The convention avoided the divisive open split that characterized last sum- mer's United Front Against Fascism conference in Oakland, the last attempt by the Panthers to unify the radical left.

By concentrating on the kind of society radicals want after a revolution, the Panthers hoped to avoid the friction over means of bringing about a revolution which has characterized previous meetings of radical groups. In large measure, the tactic suc- ceeded, although Michael Tabor, one of the New York Panther 31, issued a broadside calling the Progressing Labor Party "men of the people" for attempting to organize a march to City Hall which the Panthers feared would bring the Philadelphia police down on the New York community.

By tying in the new constitution with the old, and by emphasizing the Determination of Inde- pendence's guarantee of "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happen- ness," the Panthers attempted to make the basically socialist- program seem more in keeping with American traditions.

The proposals presented to the plenary session by the discussion groups included:

 Plans to end American imperialism
 Discussion groups for the immediate withdrawal of all U.S. forces from around the world and for the abolishment of the standing army to be replaced by a system of people's militias, with all people in the militia holding other jobs and working only part-time in the militia.

The U.S. with 1 per cent of the world's people, currently con- sums 60 per cent of the world's resources, and the delegates re- garded the ending of imperialism would necessitate a some- what lower standard of living.

—Communist control of police
 The police would be under the supervision of community-elected boards, which would be able to fire policemen. Non-armed police would be prohibited, and the combined budget for police and the military would be less than 10 per cent of the national budget.

—Land reform
 Control of land will be vested in the community, with the entire nation determin- ing a general policy for land use, and the communities han- dling local problems.

—Basic rights for all people
 The right to food, shelter, em- ployment, medical care, education, birth control, and abortion would be guaranteed.

—An end to oppression of wo- men
 Discussion groups for free child care centers, free child delivery, free abortion, and in 10 per cent of all leadership positions to be held by women.

—The end of the nuclear fam- ily
 This proposal presented a considerable disagreement, with one discussion group saying the nuclear family might operate effec- tively under socialism and the other groups on women's and gay lib- eration opposing it.

The general meetings were held in the new multi-million dollar Temple University gym, which sits arrogantly in the middle of the North Philadelphia ghetto. Security was tight, especially for a speech by Huey Newton, and commercial press reporters who did not want to cover a thing.

Until you see the new clothes from....

Apparel Arts

109 East College Avenue • Appleton

Special Notice
Candidates for teaching certificates may apply for the examination if they meet the requirements by February 15, 1971.

The Chicago Board of Education Application Form (Ex5) and information about the National Teacher Examination may be obtained from Educational Testing Service.
Baer outlines LUCC goals, presents financial situation

Opening its 1979-80 season under the pinch of last year’s operational deficit, LUCC faces operating within a $23,000 budget, a reduction from last year’s total. President Bill Baer cited rectifying the economic situation of the organization as a major goal. Under the present system, LUCC receives $22 dollars per student, a figure that has remained constant for the past three years despite a jump in the comprehensive fee to students from $1721 to $1800. Baer would like to see LUCC receive “a more equitable share of the university’s budget in future years.”

An aid in reducing the financial situation on LUCC this year could lie in the newly formed Special Events Committee. Baer explained that funds previously used by Special Projects and Social Committee will now be handled through the single group. Individuals or groups may present plans for social events to the committee for approval and the distribution of funds.

Baer admitted that the length of time required for organizing an event would be increased, but he predicted that activities would be better planned and of higher quality by working through the key committee.

Living units will be encouraged to play a more active role in the social life on the campus. Baer also said that efforts will be made to work with the athletic department, possibly by forming a joint student and athletic department committee, to expand club and intramural opportunities.

Developing centrally located recreational facilities, such as basketball and volleyball courts, was also suggested by Baer as a project for an athletic committee to undertake.

Along with an effort to arrange some needed housing on campus, LUCC will also become involved in determining a better system of filling dorms and redefining what constitutes a full dorm or fraternity house, said Baer.

Focusing attention on LUCC itself, Baer emphasized the need to increase the legitimacy of the governing body. “The community must have rules that everyone respects and is willing to enforce, and this can be accomplished only if the legislature is legitimate,” he said.

The existence of powerful bodies including trustees and alumni that remain completely outside of the LUCC governing process make true compromises impossible to reach. Baer suggested that an Alumnus carrying more currency than those in attendance would aid in increasing communication, but he added that a burden rests on the administration to keep the lines of communication open.

Baer also listed three references that will come before students this year. The first would concern a change in the number of LUCC members from 12 to 11, and the addition of a faculty member’s vote from two to one.

Passage of the second referendum would allow a two-thirds vote of the total faculty and the total student body to override a presidential vote of LUCC legislation.

Students will also be asked to consider the addition of $1 surcharge to the comprehensive fee to cover LUCC expenses. Such a move would be subject to trustee approval as well.

Heidrick assumes office as v.p. of academic affairs

With a low degree from Yale, he worked in private practice until 1967 when he assumed the position of assistant dean of the Stanford Law School. He comes to Lawrence with a strong belief in the value of an undergraduate education at a small liberal arts college. As one of the four new vice-presidential positions in the “new organization—administrational chart” of President Smith’s he will overlook the two decades of the college, the dean of the conservatory, the Library, the Computer Center, and the Physical Education department. His duties will also include being chairman of the university committees of academic and instruction.

“The most difficult job of an administrator is to translate the needs of the students and the faculty, and the institution must provide the necessary conditions for that process. It is vital that in this process the individuals are involved both in the intellectual world and the real world.”

Ariel jeopardized by lack of money

Although no final decision has been reached by the Ariel Board of Control, this year’s student yearbook may not be published. The Ariel Control Board is plagued by problems including inadequate funding and unqualified editorial candidates.

Since less finances have been allotted by the University for LUCC, the organization which normally has funded publication of the Ariel and other literature such as The Lawrenceian and Topics, has been forced to establish a list of priority groups. Lowest on this list is the Ariel, which is in the process of an underfunding crisis, said President Smith.

The first few months of the current funding year have been reached by the Ariel Board of Control, said Baer, but the problem is the financial resources available to the Ariel. Since it has not been receiving its normal percentage from year to year, the cost of living goes up and the Ariel finds itself confronted with large deficits each year. In order to get by, the Ariel yearbook, according to Bill Baer, president of LUCC, is to function any number of ways. “We will not be cut back or maintained by the interest of the students.”

The Ariel yearbook, according to Baer, has been cut drastically because of financial problems. Although no final decision has been reached by the Ariel Board of Control, this year’s student yearbook may not be published.

Ariel jeopardized by lack of money

Although no final decision has been reached by the Ariel Board of Control, this year’s student yearbook may not be published. The Ariel Control Board is plagued by problems including inadequate funding and unqualified editorial candidates.

Since less finances have been allotted by the University for LUCC, the organization which normally has funded publication of the Ariel and other literature such as The Lawrenceian and Topics, has been forced to establish a list of priority groups. Lowest on this list is the Ariel which is in the process of an underfunding crisis said President Smith.

The first few months of the current funding year have been reached by the Ariel Board of Control, said Baer but the problem is the financial resources available to the Ariel. Since it has not been receiving its normal percentage from year to year, the cost of living goes up and the Ariel finds itself confronted with large deficits each year. In order to get by, the Ariel yearbook according to Bill Baer, president of LUCC is to function any number of ways. "We will not be cut back or maintained by the interest of the students."

The Ariel yearbook according to Baer, has been cut drastically because of financial problems. Although no final decision has been reached by the Ariel Board of Control, this year’s student yearbook may not be published.
being overly critical and disrespectful of the integrity of life in any of the living units on campus. We assume that the guest rooms, libraries, etc. now being inhabited by some will eventually be vacated.

CONCERNING THE FINANCIAL condition of the university, it seems students are once again being asked to bail out the college financially through a lowering of the quality of student activity funds in general. As with the housing shortage, the larger difficulty of student activity funds in general.

The Lawrentian is published each week of the college year except during vacations by the Lawrentian, Appleton, Wisconsin. 54911. The Lawrentian is printed by Towers Printing Company of Appleton.

The Lawrentian is published each week of the college year except during vacations by the Lawrentian. Second-class postage has been paid at Appleton, Wisconsin, 54911. The Lawrentian is printed by Towers Printing Company of Appleton.

The Lawrentian is published each week of the college year except during vacations by the Lawrentian. Second-class postage has been paid at Appleton, Wisconsin, 54911. The Lawrentian is printed by Towers Printing Company of Appleton.

The Lawrentian is published each week of the college year except during vacations by the Lawrentian. Second-class postage has been paid at Appleton, Wisconsin, 54911. The Lawrentian is printed by Towers Printing Company of Appleton.

Welcome

Welcome to the editorial board.

The Lawrentian wishes to welcome all the new faces on campus, and to welcome back all the old ones.

We expect the upcoming nine months to be exceptional ones both for the college and The Lawrentian. We hope to expand our horizons and invite the new faces of the community as possible, and extend an invitation to all factions of the campus to take advantage of this newspaper as a medium of expression through articles submitted to the editorial board, and letters to the editor.

The Lawrentian is published each week of the college year except during vacations by the Lawrentian. Second-class postage has been paid at Appleton, Wisconsin, 54911. The Lawrentian is printed by Towers Printing Company of Appleton.

Welcome Back Lawrence Students

Welcome Back Lawrence Students

Nisson named aid director, assistant dean

John Nissen, 26-year old assistant director from Lawrence Academy, was appointed late last month by President Colby to the position of assistant director for all Laundry and Cleaning.

Carole Leonardi

Carole Leonardi

Letters to the Editor...

Letters to the Editor are typed double-spaced, submitted as few as possible, and submitted to the Lawrentian office no later than 3 pm Wednesdays. They will be printed in the following order of appearance. All letters must be signed and may be edited for length.

Nixon letter refusing visit

Dear Dr. Smith:

This is in acknowledgment for the President's letter inviting you to visit Appleton this May.

Sincerely,

Robert E. Sloman
Staff Assistant

President

To the editor:

Only five months ago the national atmosphere seemed to be one of hope and possibility. Many Americans believed that a great turning point had been made—towards national unity and possibly American history. With the new departure of a new administration came many promises in the fields of law and order, peace and war, and civil rights. Yet now there have been a few days of confusion and possibly the end of any hope for a better world. We all must realize that there is no substitute for freedom and democracy. As Robert Kennedy once said, "The only way to keep Americanism alive is to keep the American dream alive." We must work together to make sure that our country remains strong and free.

The Lawrentian

Come see us at the Service Center where we will welcome you to our new facility.

Welcome Back Lawrence Students

To stop in and pick up your discount card for All Dry Cleaning and Laundry

Half-Block off campus

Radio Control Delivery Service

Phone 733-6428

Deerless

LADENSS+ CLEANERS
Graduating seniors offered fellowships, scholarships

By BEN MANN

Graduating Seniors, take note of the fact that six fellowships and scholarships — Danforth, Fulbright, Marshall, Rhodes, Watson and Wilson—are offered to you this year.

The Danforth Fellowship is awarded for graduate study in any field which is normally offered in an undergraduate liberal arts college. This stipulation implies that the recipient is expected to go on teaching at the college level. Not only must the applicant be outstanding in his field but he must also be able to demonstrate a religious and/or humanitarian concern. Persons interested should contact Mr. E. Graham Wearing immediately, because graduate exams for applicants must be taken in the October session on October 2.

The Fulbright Fellowship is awarded to students of three different kinds of grants. The first is a full grant to "provide round trip transportation, languages or orientation course, tuition, books, maintenance for one academic year in one country, and health and accident insurance." The field of study is for the most part unrestricted. The second grant serves for travel to pay only for "round trip transportation to the country in which the student will pursue his studies for the academic year." The final grant is offered by foreign countries, universities, and private donors through the United States to help finance qualified nationals who plan to teach at the college level. Booklets further explaining the programs can be had from all department chairmen, at the Union, or from Dean Lauter.

Applications can be picked up from Lauter starting Monday, September 21 and are due no later than November 1.

In the last ten years two Lawrenceans have been chosen as Marshall scholars. Only twenty-four are issued each year throughout the entire nation and are given for a duration of two academic years of study at a British university towards a degree. At least 250 pounds total is assigned to a student with an increase of 200 pounds total for married. Applications will be due September 21 from Dean Lauter and must be filed by October 22 to the Regional Center. The renewed Rhodes scholarship, under the direction of Mr. William Chaney, is given for study at Oxford University in England. Procedurally Mr. Chaney invites individual students to confer with him, but he advises that no one having less than a 2.5 cumulative average apply for any of the fellowships offered.

For the third year in a row Lawrence has been invited to participate in the Watson Scholarship, which offers 9000 for unmarried and 8000 for married qualities. This is perhaps the most flexible grant as the winner may use the money to engage in any independent study, provided it is educational and pertains outside the United States.

For the past two years two out of four Lawrencean nominees have been accepted this year, notably last year were Chris Young and Anthony Vaughn. Applications are available from Monday, September 28 to Dean Lauter's office and must be returned by October 13.

Mr. Chaney is also in charge of the Wilson scholarship designed for graduate study in the United States. Residents must be nominated by faculty members, so prospective seniors must contact Mr. Chaney as soon as possible for applications and further information.

Dean Lauter urges all potential candidates for these fellowships to act immediately, as application due dates are no less than two weeks away.

A Guide to Campus Stereotypes

EDUCATION ENOUGH

Whether bride to become the pleasure of dining and conviviality at least once a week is welcome to bring his lady to the Union every Monday at 9:15. Students normally eating at College should attend.

BERMAN BY HERZLICH EINGELADEN!

FILM BOARD PETITIONS

Petitions for new membership are due Tuesday, September 19 to the Film Board (Trever, ext. 84). Petitions must include the following: name, class, campus address, preference of cinema, and a sentence or two explaining why this is desirable. Petitions should be in the hands of Al Lauter.

The renowned Rhodes scholar, under the direction of Mr. William Chaney, is given for study at Oxford University in England. Procedurally Mr. Chaney invites individual student to confer with him, but he advises that no one having less than a 2.5 cumulative average apply for any of the fellowships offered.

For the third year in a row Lawrence has been invited to participate in the Watson Scholarship, which offers 9000 for unmarried and 8000 for married qualities. This is perhaps the most flexible grant as the winner may use the money to engage in any independent study, provided it is educational and pertains outside the United States.

For the past two years two out of four Lawrencean nominees have been accepted this year, notably last year were Chris Young and Anthony Vaughn. Applications are available from Monday, September 28 to Dean Lauter's office and must be returned by October 13.

Mr. Chaney is also in charge of the Wilson scholarship designed for graduate study in the United States. Residents must be nominated by faculty members, so prospective seniors must contact Mr. Chaney as soon as possible for applications and further information.

Dean Lauter urges all potential candidates for these fellowships to act immediately, as application due dates are no less than two weeks away.
Welcome Back Students

Thank You for

Last Year’s Patronage

CLARK’S CLEANERS

“ONE DAY SERVICE”

311 East College Avenue

Welcome Lawrence Students

Specials

JUMBO STEAK
FRENCH FRIES, LARGE LEMONADE
regular $1.20

only $1.05

COLLEGE TWIN BURGER
FRENCH FRIES, LARGE LEMONADE
regular $1.05

only 90¢

SUPER FISH SANDWICH
FRENCH FRIES, LARGE LEMONADE
regular 90¢

only 75¢

Above prices good only with this coupon

DAMROW’S RESTAURANT

“Do you miss mom’s home cooking? Come to Damrow’s and feel right at home.”

Good Until November 1st, 1970

STEAK — CHOPS — HAM — CHICKEN — SEAFOOD

121 E. College Ave.
Oles crush Vikes 14-0, Knox at Bowl tomorrow

Lawrence University's football team made an impressive 1979 debut in Northfield, Minnesota, as they lost to defending champ St. Olaf 14-4 Saturday, September 19. The contest pitted two of the nation's leading rushers last year, took a pickup and raced in from the seven.

Lawrence made their only real offensive threat midway through the first half, as the Vikes' Clancy Rixter, returned the kickoff to the St. Olaf 45, within one yard of breaking it all the way. On the first offensive play, fullback Lance Alvin lined up as a tailback in a "shockgun" formation but lost a direct pass and raced 38 yards to the Olaf seven. St. Olaf's Russell, at Alvin was stopped at the two on fourth down. It was the only opportunity the Vikes would have to get inside St. Olaf's 30, as the Lawrence defense never got started to the entire afternoon.

St. Olaf took advantage of the mental breakdown the Vikes' offense suffered after the goal line stood by marching 88 yards to their second touchdowns. Quarterback Doug Johnson kept Lawrence off balance with fine passing. A successful extra point gave St. Olaf a 14-6 lead, with four minutes still remaining in the first quarter.

The Vikes' second touchdown was to be their last ventures inside the Lawrence 30, as the Vikes' defense gradually asserted itself. By the fourth quarter, St. Olaf had difficulty moving at all, as it gained a total on nine yards during that stanza, as compared to 233 yards in the first quarter.

The closest the Olaf came to another score was late in the first half, when Montgomery, wide open in the end zone, juggled and dropped a perfect pass from quarterback Johnson.

The Lawrence defense topped only eight first downs and just 150 yards in total offense. The Vikes' ground attack, one of the league's strongest, could muster only 130 yards. Lawrence held junior tailback Bert Stueve to an argile on offense as it tried to move the ball against an inspired St. Olaf defense.

The closest Lawrence got to the end zone after the first drive was to the Oles' 35 just before the final gun, where a drive stalled.

St. Olaf, one of the nation's leading offensive teams in 1979, showed little offensive punch after their explosive first period, tallying 171 yards rushing, and 27 passing. Johnson finished 4 for 11 in passing for 35 yards, while Floyd was 1 for 1 in 27. Lawrence quarterback Mark Oebel, throwing short most of the day, was 9 for 15 for 35 yards.

In the battle of the all-conference running backs, both Lance Alvin (17 for 77) and Steve Reicher (15 for 54) of Lawrence proved more than ole Gundersen of St. Olaf (11 for 42), but fullback Gary Jacobson of the Oles walked off with running honors, with 81 yards in 21 carries.

Lawrence University will try to get on the winning track as they entertain Knox in their home opener. Knox, although home to Ripon 28-14 in its opener last Saturday, appears to be a different team, with 20 of 22 starters returning. Kickoff is 1:30 p.m.

Grades improve to a 2.0 average

Lawrence women and men again improved their grade point averages in the third term compared to the first two terms in the past school year. Despite spring fever and turmoil that hit campuses in the nation, LU students managed to bring their grades up to better than a 2.0 average.

Promotions for seven members of the Lawrence faculty have been announced by President Thomas S. Smith.

Promoted from associate professor to full professor were Bruce W. Craver, Jr., of the French department, Samuel Berman of the biology department, Ron B. Schneider of the English department, and Jules N. A. Tholen of the art department.

Promoted from assistant professor to associate professor were Mary F. Himel of the physical education department, John J. Nallbocke of the economics department, and Marvin R. Reed of the French department.

Each of the promotions, effective Sept. 1, were approved by the Board of Trustees.

Professor Croochdorn, chairman of the French department, has been a member of the Lawrence faculty since 1953. He received his bachelor of arts degree from Yale College in 1939, and his master's degree from the same institution in 1945. He was awarded his Ph.D. degree in Romance Language from Yale University in 1953, the year he joined the Lawrence faculty as an instructor.

Professor Croochdorn has been on the Lawrence faculty as an instructor since 1953. He received his Ph.D. degree in 1953, the year he received his master's degree in Romance Language from Yale University.

Seven L.U. faculty promoted by trustees

Seven L.U. faculty members were promoted by trustees of the Milwaukee Downer College Board of Trustees at its meeting Thursday, May 3, 1984.

Peter M. H. Fraisse was promoted from associate professor to professor of French. The promotion, effective Sept. 1, was approved by the Board of Trustees.

Professor Fraisse, who has been a member of the Lawrence faculty since 1953, was promoted from associate professor to professor of French.

Each of the promotions, effective Sept. 1, were approved by the Board of Trustees.

Promoted from assistant professor to associate professor were Mary F. Himel of the physical education department, John J. Nallbocke of the economics department, and Marvin R. Reed of the French department.

Promoted from associate professor to full professor were Bruce W. Craver, Jr., of the French department, Samuel Berman of the biology department, Ron B. Schneider of the English department, and Jules N. A. Tholen of the art department.

Promoted from associate professor to professor were Bruce W. Craver, Jr., of the French department, Samuel Berman of the biology department, Ron B. Schneider of the English department, and Jules N. A. Tholen of the art department.

Promoted from assistant professor to associate professor were Mary F. Himel of the physical education department, John J. Nallbocke of the economics department, and Marvin R. Reed of the French department.
L.U. film board announces new prices, special films

The Lawrence Film Board, which has just become an official committee of LUCC, is in the process of introducing what may be some exciting innovations.

Rick Rothschild, who heads the board along with Diane Kessler and Jane Dickerson, told The Lawrenceian Wednesday of plans to initiate price reductions for season tickets this year, in hopes of making it possible for more people to attend a greater number of films.

The season ticket price has been reduced this year from $4.25 to $3.50 for 10 films. According to Rothschild, this new procedure is "an experiment," which will hopefully draw larger crowds, both from the Lawrence and the Appleton communities to the film classics. If the experiment succeeds, Rothschild hopes to effect an additional decrease in the price of the tickets next term.

Although there will only be one film shown each weekend, the film board hopes to supplement its programs during the next two terms with special films, such as kinetic movies, student films, and possibly a special program of Bergman films to be shown on week day evenings beginning next term.

by Cindy Henney

At present Film Classics has a $2600 debt with Lawrence, which will be repaid gradually, with fifty per cent of all profits. The remaining fifty per cent will be channeled into the film board for supplementary programs, and twenty per cent will be used to begin a fund toward financing cinematography instruction and equipment.

Students have been expressing increasing interest in cinematography during the past few years. However, at this time Lawrence is unable to finance such an experiment. Therefore, if a sizable amount of money can be accumulated from Film Classics profits, it may be possible to organize a cinematography course independently. The Student Affairs Office has agreed to supply from five to eight hundred dollars per year for the project.

Another innovation this year is the recent purchase of a new 16 mm projector, which will be in use for Film Classics.

Rothschild stated that his philosophy in directing the film board is to "supply entertainment to the greatest number of people for the lowest price."

Information regarding the films for winter and spring terms is not as yet available, but hopefully there will be at least a few from a wider range of foreign countries than is found on the Term One program, as well as a few from the roster of traditional American classics, such as W. C. Fields, Charlie Chaplin, Buster Keaton, Garbo, Dietrich, etc.

However, Lawrence presents more films per term than any other school of its size, according to Rothschild, and there are excellent films on the first term programs which are not to be missed.

An increase of approximately 33 per cent in film classics attendance was shown between the fall terms of 1968 and 1969. It is to be hoped that, due to the reduction in prices, the high quality of the films shown and upcoming special programs, the Lawrence community will support film classics.

Film classics is just one example of the fact that Lawrence can be more than the academic grind of Main Hall or the not so stately "pleasure dome" the union basement has become. The film classics program invites and deserves support.

THERE'S a special reason why you look slimmer, feel trimmer in a pair of SECUROSILAX. It happens on the inside. Unique triple-tension elastic waistband flexes and adjusts to your natural body action. Select a pair (or two) from newest colors and fabrics.

SCHNANAWAWA LEATHER PANTS - JACKETS - VESTS - PURSES - BELTS - SKIRTS - ETC. - ETC. - ETC.

109 South Appleton St. (upstairs)