32 Coeds Will Play in State Bowling Meet

1,000 Women From Wisconsin Will Congregate in Appleton Thursday for Bowling Tournament

Thirty-two Lawrence girls will vie for the most sought after women's bowing tournament which will be held at the Appleton Memorial Gymnasium Thursday and Saturday. Lawrence bowlers will have from four to seven hours of unbroken competition, and two girls will be chosen as substitutes. The game is such that two girls make up a complete team, and will take place Friday evening.

College bowling has become so popular in recent years as to win the interest of the regular bowler, and is considered the number one social event of the semester by the members of the bowling league.

Lawrence teams which will enter the tournament are George Weck, Violin Christmas, Capt., Virginia Golden, Saternia, Reut, Marcella Nye, and also two from Ripon, Miss. Duff's Men's Bowling team.

Pha Kips and Sigmas Still Lead Greeks

The Pha Kips and Sigmas still re- tain their position at the top of the list and are ahead of any other group of coeds this year. The Sigmas have a very strong team, but the Pha Kips have both skill and spirit. They will be competing against all other fraternities and sororities in the University, in all sports and games.

Realty of Famous Violinist

Several years ago Appleton people had the opportunity of hearing Jas- nes Thibaud, a famous violinist, who visited in a recital at Lawrence Mem- orial Chapel. His concert was well attended, and the audience was delighted with the playing of the famous violinist. He performed several well-known pieces, and his playing was praised by all who heard him.

Discussion Petting, Smoking and Drinking

The subjects of girls' rural relatives were some of the topics discussed at W.O.G.A., Sunday, Jan. 29. Helen J. Black, of the meeting and Mary Rocked in her home, attended this meeting.

The problem was stated as the fol- lowing: "Do we want to get the coons or women to apply for the same position?" The discussion was led by Miss Rocked, who presented the case for the women, and by Miss Black, who presented the case for the men.

The conclusion was that the women should be given the same position as the men, and that the job should be open to both men and women.

The women discussed this subject seriously, and it was decided that they should not fight for the same position as the men, but that they should be given the same position as the men.

Sage Cottage One of First Houses for Educated Women

If you are ever under the mis- take that education is a thing that can exist without being put into practice, try to consider the case of the Sage. The Sage Cottage was one of the first houses in the United States to be set up and to provide education for girls. It was established in 1856, and it was a great success.

The first score was a small one for the 6th of the first half, and was run on by a double throw. In second place was the second team, who could be oper- ated on only one card, and a table was set up to see the score for each player.

The hand-carved, wooden, interior house, and its spacious grounds, remain the same as they were in 1856. It is in excellent condition, to note that the famous old bridge, which is now used as a shortcut between Smith Hall and Sage Cottage, was built on the original site of the Sage. It was a picturesque old house, known to Appleton people, who spent several months building it.

Phi Kaps and Sigmas Still Lead Greeks

The Phi Kaps and Sigmas still re- tain their position at the top of the list and are ahead of any other group of coeds this year. The Sigmas have a very strong team, and the Phi Kaps have both skill and spirit. They will be competing against all other fraternities and sororities in the University, in all sports and games.

For the next week, the program was expected to be the same as the previous week, with a change of only a few members.

THAT STUDENT CONFERENCE

In an editorial headed "Down With Everything" the Daily Kansan dei es for an International Student Conference as a means to foster the following:

- That the church emphasizes war, opposing it.
- That students in schools and colleges internationalize.
- That there are no better trained men than those who have been trained in Latin.
- That students become more sensitive to the needs of the community.
- That the students lack the necessary knowledge of birth control.
- That the students are not interested in such attractive residents as they appear.

This same proposition is popular, to come back to our original subject. We think that the simple way would be to change the school colors. Now red and white, for instance—"The Plopping Tomato"—sounds less suggestive than "Big Blue." But since that seems to be impossible, we'll have to get along as best we can. We have more important things to do.

The Kansan—"we eat 'em alive."... But, you know, the name is popular.

WHAT SAY, MAN?

"How dear to my heart are the women of my childhood." Oh, to be a freshman one age! When I stood at Booker, we didn't have such attractive residents as they apparently have now.

Filibert.

And a new folk told us that if it's known that there were such attractive maids at Booker, he'd have stayed there, too.

We understand that our debates were a must in a group training in their way to debate in Cooper Union.

Secrets of an Unnamed Shivering Freshman falls around us.

An intensity we shudder to know.

Along a street that winds toward a grizzly knoll.

He tells us he loves me,

She says "you're just a puppy.

He says that he will be mine—

If I'll allow him to be the property of a young man or woman's rightful interest. On the day that the young prince receives a scroll of paper engraved in Latin

And so for getting further and satisfactory weight—the size of the conference was documented. And when a hundred students representing 159 colleges and 20 organizations were present, the "Kansan" writer as "the best in everything"—does not the leading party carry some weight with people who are writing the beginnings of public thought movements?

... THE LAWRENTIAN...

Tuxedos are much more commonly worn than formerly. It is practical for a great many men to own them, because the men and women you play around with—dancing, at clubs, in clubs and restaurants—pay attention to clothes and find that this adds to their own satisfaction, to the pleasure of their womenkind and to the respect of the people you meet.

Men used to think that they must pay a fancy price for formal wear. In Styleplus Tuxedos you get for a very modest price a garment that fits, enforces appearance, wearing quality, fit and finish, answers every purpose.

Bigger Generators—Cheaper Electricity

A 70,000 horsepower hydro-electric unit recently installed at Niagara Falls utilizes the same amount of water as seven former 5,000-horsepower units, yet does the work of fourteen such units. It saves 700,000 tons of coal yearly for the nation.

As more and more uses are found for electricity, larger and more economical generators are installed. At the power plant, as well as at the consumer's end, important changes and starting developments have steadily reduced the cost of electricity for light, power, and heat.

And wherever electricity has blazed its trail—in towns, cities, industrial centers, and rural communities—comfort and progress have come to stay.

Generating and distributing electricity concern the technical student. But electricity's application in the betterment of industrial centers, and rural communities—comfort and progress have come to stay.
