Dr. W. A. McConagha
Will Fill Position Left by
Retirement of Dr. Klummen

The appointment of Dr. W. A. McConagha to fill the vacancy in the department of Economics created by the retirement of Professor B. S. Klummen, became effective May 8. Dr. McConagha has been connected with the faculty of the University of Wisconsin for a number of years. For the present Dr. McConagha has been teaching in the College of Engineering, but he is expected to specialize in the study of labor problems.

Another appointment in the same department is to be made in the near future.

Miss Lynton Returns From Speaking Trip

Miss Twila Lynton, devoe of women, returned from her visit to the Philippines where she gave a number of addresses. Her engagements included a talk at the annual meeting of the College Club, on rich, Saturday afternoon, and an appearance at the Upper Iowa College, Ottumwa, on May 12.

In giving talks to girls, Miss Lynton conducted discussion groups with them, and upon returning to Appleton, accompanied by her daughter, Mary, spent the afternoon giving talks to girls in the public schools.

Next week-end Miss Lynton and Miss Ellen Taylor will address a conference on Student Student at the University of Wisconsin in Madison. This conference is under the joint sponsorship of the Wisconsin Students Federation, the American Council on Education, and the National Research Council on Personnel Administration, and is for men and women who are interested in student adjustment in school or college work to future careers.

Dr. Sheldon, 33, Osaka, spent the week-end in Appleton, in connection with his trip to Japan and the Philippines.

Serenade

I'll sing beneath your window
'Till the break of dawn.

To be with you always
A single heart has grown.

Lyman T. Amo

And speaking of serenades, we should take official notice of the fact that the Boro have annexed their campus and their annual spring serenade is on.

Love, said the sages, is like a game of bridge. It's not gamble if the stakes are high. Like bridge, it's a game that requires strategy. The avengers are never always true—in this case, your right cards often. And you can't find anyone whose opinion would favor your right cards often. And you can't find a partner whose opinion is as you have the jack. The partner holding the best cards usually wins, but you may be able to be a good bluff—play 'em as though you had too. Always. But if your suit is weak, you can't hope to win.

We want to correct an error in the last issue. A news story reports that F. W. Gipson, who returned to his home Tuesday night after spending a full eight months abroad, had read a story that read "serving a day."

Papa: "Young man, I'll teach you to be an industrious youth."

Student: "I wish I could, Oxford."

New York: "We know why golf was invented."

The door boys had had some form of culture to offer them. "Have you heard the report that I had a successful weekend?" "Oh, yes, but I don't think there's anything in it, myself."

And that's that until we get back again. We wish you...LUKE WARM.

On The Screen

In addition to family and disaster, the two recurrent essentials, Douglas Fairbanks insisted that the leading items in "That's My Baby" have the most perfect of ankles to be found in the film capital. The cheater family fell in Margaret Morris. In "That's My Baby," now playing at Phebe's Appleton Theatre, she portrays the girl whom MacLean is forced to find and identify by her perfect ankles. That the comedienne succeeds is a foregone conclusion but how he does it and the complications that he becomes involved in when he is made the central focus of a strange comedy while trying to win the favor of the shopkeeper, are the scenes with a partially fixed comedy.

"Riki" is the story of a Paris street gang who aspire to fame on the stage and the luxurious life of a "great lady." Her adventures during the making of the highly amusing yet domestic plot reveal a new Norma Talmadge—a comedienne. The picture is directed by Clarence Brown. Ronald Colman is Norma's new leading man.

The French Department has treated itself to a number of new books. Among these are two volumes by Professor B. G. Muller of the University of Wisconsin, one of which is a complete translation of the works of the great French painter, Bouguereau. This volume, entitled ‘Bouguereau, Art of Bouguereau’, is illustrated with over one hundred and fifty full-page illustrations. It is the latest and most complete of the works of this great artist, and is intended to be a complete guide to his works. The other volume is a collection of essays on French art, written by various French scholars, including one by the distinguished art critic, Paul Cézanne. The book is devoted to the study of French art and is intended to be a comprehensive guide to the development of French art in the latter part of the 19th century.
