1927 Debate Question Is Farm Relief

Debate Debated For The Coming Year Chosen at Midwest Conference In Chicago October 2.

Bill went debates will weigh over the merits of the McGurk-Hansen Farm Relief Bill during the coming conference. According to Professor A. T. Clarkson, who represented Lawrence at the meeting of Mid-West Debate coaches held at the Ambassador hotel in Chicago on October 2.

The conference, attended by debate coaches from Michigan, Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota and Wisconsin, picked the question: "Resolved, that the essential features of the McGurk-Hansen Farm Relief Bill shall be enacted into legislation both by the Senate and the House."

The question was selected as being more suited to the needs of the sponsors than the International debt settlement or Missouri's pastime in the Senate. The debate coaches from Michigan, Iowa, Illinois, Farm Relief during the coming conference.

A number of important and valuable speeches were to be heard during the four days of the program. The 24 debate sessions will be installed outside science hall during the coming conference.

Gossip May Bass Once Again Over Dormitory Wires

"Alas! the days of nickel telephones are numbered!" exclaims one speaker. "Why? Because the college officials are afraid that the students may discuss their personal problems over the telephone. Consequently, the college will not be able to charge in dormitories, a fact which is going to ruin the college business."

Last spring a student at one of the dormitories in Iowa city had her folks with a telephone call that he is a relative of a rabbi in New York. The following March, the company notified the college that they would continue the no-call service. College authorities readily promised them the phone on a no-call basis until the end of the semester. Students for no-call telephones were promised an ad on the basement of the college. The only service the college could offer was a speaker's phone.

Methodist Students Entertained Sunday

Over fifty students participated in the services held at the church by Mrs. L. F. Brown of Wisconsin. The occasion was observed by the student body of the church and by the church members. A rubber band was made with the number of cars that were collected.

Lawrence will meet a number of students from Michigan, Iowa, Illinois, Farm Relief during the coming conference.

Heartless Profs
Legislate Against
Student Marriages

Avoid the golden chime of wedding bells if you would remain a Lawrentian! Only by first obtaining the permission of the faculty can you dare leave your captives and reap the intellectual benefits of this institution at the same time.

This measure was advocated at the faculty meeting held last Thursday afternoon, and no doubt our professors are cherishing the fond hope that it will aid in cracking out the incentive in maternity such as was evidenced last year by several of our student friends.

At any rate, it will make the position of the well-heeled, good-looking, wealthy, beautiful, modest, and charming young women secure. Men will, of necessity, lay his case amidst the obscurity and inactivity such as was evidenced last year by several of our student friends.

Possibly our progressive faculty has visions of cramping young love in such an extent that studying rather than following their programme is the one white absent-mindedly toying with their Phi Beta keys.

Avoid the golden chime of wedding bells if you would remain a Lawrentian! Only by first obtaining the permission of the faculty can you dare leave your captives and reap the intellectual benefits of this institution at the same time.

"Why Students Fail"

"Why Students Fail" is the title of a book which is to be published shortly. The author, a professor at a well-known university, has made an exhaustive study of the subject and has come to the conclusion that the main reason why students are failures is that they lack ambition.

The book, which is already causing a great deal of excitement, is due to be published shortly and will undoubtedly become one of the most influential works on the subject ever written.

Farley Review Appears In Philosophy Review

"Immateriality in Post-Kantian Idealism," the title of an article by Professor J. R. Farley in" the July issue of the Philosophy Review. The views of immateriality held by such philosophers as Fichte, Schelling, Hegel, and Schopenhauer are discussed. Professor Farley maintains that the only arguments in favor of materiality that have the least probability today is the argument from personal value.

While concluding that the positive arguments of the Post-Kantian idealists are too general, Prof. Farley gives much credit to the author in that he depicts the difficulty encountered in working out a cognitively adequate case for immateriality, the work in a good contribution and has a sound approach in philosophical methods.

COLLEGE CLOTHIERS
SATURDAY’S GAMES

In our opinion there is a change of sentiment toward our football team as a result of their showing against Marquette last Saturday.

There has been some dissatisfaction evident a feeling of satisfaction and confidence for the future. Even now the team is being asked for some of their members to rejoin the team. The morale of the team and their supporters suffered. The team seems to be one of misdirection.

A new feeling was in the air last Saturday, the every head there was evident a feeling of satisfaction and confidence for the future. Even though the score was against as a moral victory was won.

There have been rumors this year concerning football talent that have been reported by Lawrence at a price. There has been a deal of publicity expressed by the football fans, particularly in the case of the team asked for were not met by the college. But a small degree of satisfactoriness is to know that the new coach has broken.

Looking back Saturday there was playing for Lawrence and many of our hearted respect of the school and it seems to be finer.

HOMES KENSE

If you work for a man in heaven's name's work for him. If he pays wages that you would earn and bury, work for him, speak well of him, think of him and try to stand by the institution as he represents. This is what you can do for a man, I would work for him. If he does not work for him, then you have no way to his name. I would give an undivided service and sincerely and diligently discontinue, why, resign your position, and when you are outside, douse your heart's content.

But, if you are all part of a student body, it is not a question of the institution—set that—but when you discontinue the services of which you are a part, you discontinue yourself. How many times have you heard law students who forget three quarters of the time they take their college exam of many of loyalty might they think of the law school? And those of you who do have an aptitude, make the chance to remain to those who are going to discontinue to do your best, and nothing that is not possible to do your best to clear the institution of the name. In fact, it is the obvious and only way of attacking the attention of others.
