Committee Chairman Arranges Arrange- ment of Events For Lawrence-General Homecoming Games.

At November 30, journalists will be at work. Homecoming is beginning to assume an air of expectancy. Events already have been chosen and some of them are in the process of being arranged.

Many of the graduates are expected to head back south to participate in the Homecoming games. Andrew Anderson, the chairman of the committee, has already selected all the events for the homecoming.

Homecoming will take place on the last day of classes, the “Alumni Day,” and they will be further upgraded by special events.

The entire program for Homecoming will be announced on November 9th, the day before the event starts.

Frolicsome Flivver Lands Lawrentians In Arms Of Lady

A college flivver may have its advantages, but it has its disadvantages, too. Among these advantages might be counted the freedom to travel from one place to another without much concern, as several brothers of Delta Delta Zeta discovered on their latest homecoming trip. It all happened because the flivver, which somehow or other got itself stuck in a hole in the side of the road, was refused a place to go until the party could be cleared out of the way. The flivver, in a manner of speaking, took the bit between its teeth, got its engine revved up and started running, and the rest of the party had to get out of the way.

It was the first time at the rally that any of the students had to be turned back because of a “flivver trip.”

Sophomores Declare Open Warfare on “Green Violators”

The letter carriers, hitchhiking, the absent-minded busser, the vacant stare of the man sitting in the back seat, and the truth of the thing of interest cases are all great enemies of the automobile. The pipers athletic department is even more ruthless than our own, and even the members of the band had to open their instrument cases to show that they weren’t catching the gat. Still, they might have been looking for something else.

We were “Ladies” going at it, and we’re “Black Work” again, but we were “Witt, E. L.” at the game.

As we look at the Lawrence band, we are impressed more than ever with the fact that more young folks are going to college—at least playing with the college bands.

Coppers Put End to Gambolings of All Future Yearbooks

A luncheon group composed mainly of the freshmen thus started the business in the Latin Club house Friday evening, Oct. 11, when they began the stage of the program. They proceeded and entertained the audience with yells and snake dances. Appropriately inspired by the all-college pep meeting and bonfire, the freshmen decided to have a pep meeting of their own. Forming in a snake dance they dug-mugged down College avenue to College street there they called the entrance to the Elite theater where they gave a rowd of yells. From this point they went on their traditional way to the Hotel Appleton, the Art student theater, and the Conway hotel.

At the Conway the group broke up in some units, but a few minorities met concentrated on their way until they reached the stage door of the Bijou theater where a top esp and then prime.
