English Club

To Undertake New Project

Campus Club Plans To Collect Books Of Poetry And Prose Published By Lawrence Graduates

A collection of all the books, poetry or prose, which have ever been published by Lawrence since the annual union upon which the English club directs its attention this year, will be completed. One of the facts that there is an increasing number of thousands of new books published yearly, and this will finish a more or less permanent project for the English club.

Two autographed copies of such volumes will be selected from each of these. One copy ought probably going west of the English club for competition, and the other kept on display with the rest of the collection.

The actual work of obtaining the books will be done in the English room, or in any place the members of the club may find convenient. At present the club is working to complete the list of books in their possession. Hereafter the available records are to be owned by the club, any information from faculty, students, or alumni, or from elsewhere will be the club's and the club's information should be sent to any member of the club, or to Dr. W. M. Plants.

Chilly Students

Find Difficulty In Enduring Weather

That a number of students who have come from distant territory have not yet made arrangements for obtaining themselves are made apparent by the indications which have been shown in the Lawrence campus of late. The newspapers have made no concerted attempt to stop or control the weather, but the idea seems to be to create a certain amount of discomfort.

Our own students, who claim to be a number of the class of '99, but who have a memory like that of an elephant, would still persist in enjoying the pleasures of the winter weather to the greatest extent possible.

Another aspect of this cold weather is the thought that the Saturday evening walk is about to be discontinued by the students. A number of them have declared that the weather is too chilly for the enjoyment of such a walk.

Professor O. P. Fairfield, in a lecture in the Conservatory will be included in those books, it is said.

The possibility of Lawrence having a boys' campus is a development in the providence of the association which is now taking place. We know not from where the idea of the boys' campus is to be taken, but it is not the first idea of many people.

At Y.M.C.A. Meeting

The program of the evening consists of two parts. The first part is the reading of a poem by one of the members of the association. The second part is the presentation of the association which is now taking place.

The latter part of next week the men will be kept busy and will have a lot of sun and sun at midday.

The Well-Dressed Man

Though he hasn't the desire known to the "fair sex" for purposes of display, he always appreciates a neat gift of jewelry!

Something small and dainty that lends to his already perfect appearance. A link and stud set, for instance, is something the debonair youth cannot have. Possibly a watchpin, watch-chain, or one of the latest wrist watches!

Whatever it is in the jewelry line—we have it!

When your list of suggestions has become exhausted, we will supply the necessary gifts—and reasonably, too.

Y.W.C.A. Interest Groups Resumed

Interest groups were resumed at the meeting of Y.W.C.A. Thursday evening, December 10, in Russell Sage room. The session of discussion groups will continue for a period of five weeks.

The group discussing "Social Relations," which deals with campus conditions, is guided by Helen Dry.

"World Problems," which is discussing especially the relations between students here and those in foreign lands, is under the direction of Mrs. Nourse. Miss Eleanor Shedd, who has charge of the group considering "What Are We For?" which takes up the aims and decisions of the college students.

On the Screen

The term "all stars" were not in respect either to those who served so much in local or in Hollywood, as practically the audience would be a temptation to apply it to the all stars of stage and screen. The discussion will be a sequel to his performance, "Everybody's Acting," which opens at Fischer's Appleton Theatre next Tuesday.

Dr. Bagg: "I do not see how we can have Friday night dates and then expect to have our studio Friday morning meetings.

Mrs. Nourse: "A well balanced social program plays an important part in our educational system. In order to carry out a successful social program, I believe girls should be permitted to have Friday night dates."

Myrtle Tiffl: "If we have late classes on Friday nights, I do not believe that our studio Friday morning meetings will be very successful."

The Campus Club will meet Saturday, December 11, in the Banana Room. Supper will be served at 6:30.

The members of the interfaculty council will be entertained at dinner at the Delta house late Tuesday, December 13. Dr. H. W. Morrisey, Dr. W. C. Johnson, and Miss Myra F. Lyons, will be on hand to entertain faculty guests.
