"SHIPS"—the anthology of verse compiled by Theta Sigma Phi, which will appear on the campus now is a book, for which the Theta Sigma Phi deserves much credit. The publication is the first of its kind on the campus, and will perhaps be the forerunner of a larger and more complete volume. The booklet contains representative poems of fifteen Lawrence students and graduates. The greater part of the contribution which are on the campus now have had poems published in former Theta Sigma Phi literary works. As for the graduates whose poems appear in the anthology—it is time we were awakening to the fact that Lawrence has some alumni who are on the road to literary fame.

1927 Speculator Cup
Is Now On Display

"To the best all-around man in the winter class" is the inscription borne by the 1927 Speculator cup, which was put on display in the trophy case at the college office early this week. The cup, which was awarded to the class of '27 on account of this body's blinding that fall, is time we were asking for a longer vacation. Surely we cannot be justified in expecting this time to be lengthened. Surely, we cannot be justified in trying to "hurry" the Christmas vacation. A lengthening of the Christmas holidays we believe that a strike would hurt Lawrence, and for no other reason. The student body would be perfectly justified, said that we would wait a few days, and then go home and enjoy a long, two weeks' Christmas vacation. Since the Christmas holidays have already been accounted for, to the student body would be perfectly justified in expecting this time to be lengthened. Surely, we cannot be justified in trying to "hurry" the Christmas vacation.

The booklet will be very attractive and inexpensive—just the kind of a Christmas gift for the person who falls somewhere between the Lawrence and the Sunday school class. UP-TO-THE-MINUTE BLANG

Two coeds met the other day in the corridor of one of the college buildings and in six minutes one of them had answered the questions or remarks of the other by "I'll say so," eleven times, and with four variations, as such as "I'll say she'll" or "I'll say she should..."

It is truly remarkable the variations and definite shades of meaning that can be expressed by "I'll say so" when used by an expert. It is impossible that any one who has seen the use of the phrase mentioned, has been on the account list for years, and throughout the entire book emphasis will be placed on the decoration and spirit of the play after which this book was issued. The personal speech of the Board of Directors would be set forth in the lawrence year book, which, extended with the adjacent descriptive notice for the book's pages. Small work will also be done on a much more extensive & departmental pages will bear Shakespearean pictures.
