THE LAWRENTIAN

Our Social Existence

Poise and a working knowledge of social etiquette are the right of every man and woman who has earned a college degree. These things are the right of all Lawrence graduates. Whether or not we get them depends entirely upon us.

Some students have declared that it is impossible to acquire social poise through the facilities offered on this campus. It must be admitted that in some respects our social program is woefully deficient, but this, we think, is our own problem, and not an unsolvable one.

Take note for a moment of the huge steps for the improvement of social life which have taken place in the last two years—All-college dances, Hamur home, a social center which has filled a long-felt need; the W. A. A. frolics—we don't know who conceived the idea of the Friday night dances, but more power to that person, for the next time it may be an idea for the campus at large.
