The fate of the Y.M.

Thirty-five boys, leaders in various fields, met last night with the president of the Y.M.C.A. and several faculty members to decide the fate of the Y.M.C.A. on this campus. The summary of the meeting had this to say: "For several years the interest in this organ­ization has waned until at present it is almost negligible. What is the reason? Do we need a Y.M.C.A. on this campus? If so, what should it be work of? If we do not need one, what should we do with the present organization?"

After reviewing these situations, the president did not dare to say anything definite as to the future of the Y.M.C.A. on this campus, but at least the conclusion reached was, There was divided opinion on the question of whether or not the Y.M.C.A. has a reason for existing on this campus; some students voiced the opinion that the Y.M.C.A. is no longer a necessary channel for the expression of spiritual feeling, others insisting that there is a definite need for the Y.M.C.A.

There is a vital question here, a fundamental problem. Many of our greatest educators and religious men have tried to put a finger on the pulse of the American youth, with little success. If we do not take steps to solve this problem, we may not leave the Y.M.C.A. for the last time. If we do not do this, the Y.M.C.A. will die out, and in its place we must find a new purpose to be? And therein lies an even more fundamental question. What is the reason? Do we need a Y.M.C.A. on this campus? If we do, what should we do with the present organization?"

The annual Colonial banquet is permeated with that spirit of loyalty to Lawrence and its ideals. Many of the speakers spoke of the fine traditions of Lawrence, and it would be a pity to lose that spirit. The spirit of loyalty and the traditions of Lawrence are customarily found in all colleges. If we are to lose that, what will be the result? Would it not be better to keep the Y.M.C.A. and try to improve it? We will not presume to reach a solution, but we do hope that the Y.M.C.A. will continue to exist on this campus.

The Colonial Banquet is a traditional event at Lawrence College, held to celebrate the school's traditions. The banquet is a formal event where students, faculty, and guests gather to enjoy a meal and engage in conversations about the school's history and traditions.

Well, Coe College is going to be in tomorrow night. They beat us 28-20 on their own floor, scoring just one more basket than we did and made it at a 15 point victory by means of free throws. Watch Captain Tullis who scored 10 points in the first game to the same individual who lost us in football two years ago by an unsual 90 yard run. Tomorrow slight Lawrence is going to get revenge for the 43-30 basketball defeat by the same team on their home floor. Let's help our men by turning out in force.

Best One

Who's got the best team in the Wisconsin Intercollegiate? We say Lawrence because the Fighting Irish have defeated Lake Forest; Lake Forest has defeated Milwaukee; Milwaukee has defeated Ripon. Now Lake Forest boasts of a 22-10 record. Carroll says they defeated Lawrence 72-63. That is pleasing.

Conwell

In a fast game featured by fast scoring by both teams, Lawrence was defeated by the big Conwell team last Monday night 43-31 at Mount Vernon, Iowa. The loss dropped the Blues to eighth place in the conference standings just behind St. John. Conwell maintained its conference leadership with two straight victories and no losses. The Conwell team had a two to one advantage in men over the Blues on the latter's home floor last night. With roots in the gallery, Conwell turned the game into a basketball contest and beat up the Blues for a 16 point victory.
