Carleton's plan is being watched by many colleges in the United States, and is expected to be adopted in other colleges. And when Carleton has made the necessary changes, it is likely that other colleges will follow.

THE ANNUAL SLUMP

The spectacle of several hundred supposedly healthy people, all of whom are entirely capable of motion and an amount of reasonable activity, sitting in comparative silence for the space of an hour and a half, produced its effect Saturday afternoon when the Lawrence Blue and White team, minus the blue and showing no semblance of white, accepted a trimming from a team which was certainly not in the high class with Marquette of Milwaukee.

The old plea for school spirit must again be made. Chapel talks, pep talks, and noon meetings have not produced the desired effect, and last year's type of student cooperation, which was culminated in a 35 to 0 defeat at Coe, has apparently been duplicated. Without school spirit of the right type, no football team can give its best, and although the unbounded superiority of the experienced Carleton team was not questioned, a better showing might have been made Saturday.

Every student present at the game knew, or certainly should have known, every yell and cheer that was given, and yet the only signs of interest and activity came from the players' bench. The crowd appeared dead—at least vocally—and the mute reception given the team was reflected, partially at least, in the final score.

Last year, after the Coe disaster, school spirit made an about face. Morale rose to its highest pitch, and the team finished up a 35 to 0 defeat at Coe, has apparently been duplicated. Without school spirit, no football team can give its best, and although the undoubted superiority of the experienced Carleton team was not questioned, a better showing might have been made Saturday.

SCOTCHMEN will understand this

And the chances are that you will too, good reader. For haven't you too, on paying for a number of fair sized purchase, uttered great silent groans just at the thought of paying out that much money—all at once?

Don't deny it. You have; all of us have, many times.

So you see, you are already a convert to the Ten Pay Budget Plan. By this plan, instead of up setting your entire budget each time you buy a suit; you make only a small initial payment, and pay the balance weekly. In the meantime you have the use of the money that's still unpaid. And yet the total cost is the same as that of a cash purchase. It's a real convenience—even a Scotchman would agree!
The Lawrence cross country team opened the 1927 season with a victory over the Milwaukee normal runners Saturday morning at Whitig field. The score was 25 to 30 in favor of the Blue and White, although Normal runners strained first and second successive.

Buts, Milwaukee Normal, negotiated the three and one-half mile course in 16:04 to lead the pack, and was followed by his teammate, Guskow. Muller, Jesse, Menning, Wolf, and Fishkorn, all of Lawrence, trailed in the order named, which was enough to say the event.
