The Lawrence College band, under the direction of E. C. Moore, played the entire day's program unembarrassed by the fact that the entire staff of Epworth was on strike, in almost every part of the city. The band can offer to the student, and the aim of which is to give the English people a real taste of the American school life.

Ellen Tutton Writes Of Classes

School life in Oxford is much as I expected it to be from what I had heard about it. I am very much interested in the American universities, and the Oxford University, particularly in its colleges, are of especial interest to me.

Gradual Extension of Student Government

THE RESULT

"The tumult and the shouting dies;"

And with the fading of the last lost of the campaign, the all-college elections are over for another year, the student body has grown back to sleep, and the campus is again at peace. There is little to be said as an aftermath. The Lawrenceian hopes there is no doubt as to its stand on the organization and the candidates, and that the elections have stumbled aside the normal era. The campaign has been conducted in a proper manner. The students are again at peace, and the institution which had the advantage of the campaign...
