INFORMAL STUDY COURSES

Chi Phi fraternity at the University of Wisconsin is experimenting this year with a plan that should be of interest to students at Law­rence. A member from Chi Phi is living in the house with frater­nity members, and once a week he meets with the group for an hour or two, at which time various current economic problems are discussed. The discussions are held in the chapter house in a spirit of informality and ac­cording to the best how information, they have become very popular with all who attend. The meetings are compulsory for all members who are able to arrange their programs to meet the occasion.

No textbooks are used in the course. All of the problems that are talked up are from current magazines or newspapers. Oftentimes the subject de­cisions are held in the chapter house in a spirit of informality and ac­cording to the best how information, they have become very popular with all who attend. The meetings are compulsory for all members who are able to arrange their programs to meet the occasion.

Furthermore, members of this discussion group will receive credit toward graduation by passing an especially prepared exam at the end of the year. The plan is an experimental one in the realm of informal study but it is one that might be considered and watched by faculty and students of Lawrence college.

ALL'S QUIET NOW

Lawrence is now in the midst of one of the quiet periods of the year. From a period of great activity, which culminated with the dedication of the new gymnasium, the ending of the football season and homecoming, the col­lege has suddenly entered a "state of calm." Football has ended, basketball has not yet begun, most of the parties are scheduled for a later date—in fact there isn't much to do. It's a good time to study. It's quiet now, but it won't be long until another busy period begins. Basketball, formats and all. It will be harder to study then.

Undefeated Theta Phi And Sig Ep Netmen Meet Tonight

For the first time in the history of field hockey at Lawrence, the freshmen women won the championship, defeating the seniors last Thursday, 3 to 2. The seniors had previously played at 4 to 1.

The freshmen record for the tournament includes three games won and one tied; the juniors won two, lost one, and lost one; the sophomores lost two and won one, while the seniors are at the bottom of the list with three losses.

A Class Game

The championship game was closely played throughout, the scores at the end of the first half being 2 to 2. The seniors made the first goal, the freshmen scored two in quick succession, and the class of '31 managed to put in another just before the close of the period. The entertainment made their winning goal early in the second half, and the juniors, though getting well down the field several times, were unable to bring home the bacon. What hopes nevertheless, and in both instances it

A powerful Theta Phi squad of volleyball athletes fought just a little harder in the pinches than did the men from the D.I. house last Thursday, but the Theta Phis won two sets to one and the D.L.'s slipped to the bottom rung of the ladder—a notch below the Phi Chi.

With the count 14 to 13 in favor of the Theta Phis, the Democrats stopped the three successive counters on Schellberg's serve to crack the D.I. defense wide open and win one of the fastest games of volleyball old Alexander gymnasium has seen. Fighting with their backs to the wall and with their Darwin test, the D.I. squad built up a 9 to 6 lead at one time, only to see a garnet smashing against a shaming spike at the net that gave the Theta Phi the final tilt, 15 to 12.

Pilchuck Win

The other two games on the evening's card, overshadowed somewhat by the meeting of the two leaders, were thrillers from start to finish, nevertheless, and in both instances it took the winners three games to bring home the bacon. What hopes had the Phi Taus of winning their game of the season were given a rather rude jolt by the Phi Chi troopers, who rallied the game from the first to the last, and at the close of the last 15-15, 15-15, 15-15, the Phi Chi boys came out the winners of the game. The Phi Taus had lost four of their last five games, and the Phi Chi team had been the winners in all four games.
