Thirty-eighth Chapter

Thirty-eighth Chapter of Eta Sigma Phi installed at Lawrence tonight. The other 37 chapters are located chiefly in the Middle West and East. The first chapter was founded in 1905 at the University of Wisconsin, and the original three-eighths State were granted the first two additional chapters.

The main purpose of the fraternity is to propagate a higher learning, and its primary objective is the validation of the success lies in America's willingness to surrender of sovereignty for common purposes. The conference is entirely different than those of the World War. "America took the lead in the London conference only because the United States was still carrying on her economic policy with the rest of the World. "America took refuge in her power to rule the seas. We were in a position to maintain our rights, and England so vigorous in protecting her borders that relations between the countries were strained to the breaking point. America had to assert herself to avoid neutrality."

After the World War America realized that she could not remain neutral in another war. It was decided to pursue a policy of armed neutrality. But rather than recognize the United States, it was decided to renounce the world and obtain a viceroyalty of sovereignty for commercial benefits. "It is a gigantic enterprise."

The policies of America and Great Britain became impossible. The speaker said. England depends upon trade and will be a belligerent, America would be neutral in another war. It was decided to renounce the world and maintain a viceroyalty of sovereignty for commercial benefits. "It is a gigantic enterprise."

Lucnkner Thrills Large Crowd With Tales Of World War

Giving his story in its full dramatic value, and holding his audience by the tale of shrewd ingenuity that enabled him to pass through the British blockade of the Black Sea in 1917. All, to help keep the German off the sea, the British had extensive forts, one of them in the north of the Sea, and another on the south of it. The story of his escape through the British blockade is one of the most dramatic and amusing accounts of his life and has been a great hit with his audience.

During the whole of his stay in the British blockade, he was in constant danger of capture. The British were determined to stop all traffic through the Black Sea.

In the spring of 1918, Count Lunczner was sent to the United States to negotiate a peace settlement with the United States. He was sent to Europe by the British government to try to end the war.

Count Lunczner was awarded the Grand Cross of the Order of the World War for his services.

BRAIN power, not horsepower, is the chief operating requirement of the electrical industry.

This requirement must be continuously anticipated to provide leaders for the future. Accordingly, each year, more than 400 picked college graduates come to the General Electric Company for a post-graduate course in electrical science.

With a faculty including inventors and engineers of international distinction, something more than electrical knowledge is imparted to these young men. Here they also find inspiration which will stand them in good stead throughout their careers.

With all our athletic heroes and all our scholastic and forensic brilliants, there still are as always, a great body of men in the ranks of our undergraduate chapters who do not shine in any line, who are not the ordinary boys in the chapter house, even the brilliants, there still are as always, a great body of men in the ranks of our undergraduate chapters who do not shine in any line, who are not the ordinary boys in the chapter house, even the brilliants.

RICKY BLEACHERS

The rickety bleachers of bygone days were replaced by boards less suggestive of slivers; the dusty walls of the armory had given way to the shiny appointments of a fireproof gymnasium, and the dark and gloomy atmosphere of the College ave. basketball court had given way to the lofty corridors of the new Alexander gymnasium.

Ring in the New Year

The ghost of an old, dust-filled armory was witnessed to the first basketball game played in the new Alexander gymnasium, a game in which the Vikings of Lawrence displayed the same vicious attack which characterized the work of the teams in past years. The crowd was about the same—an assemblage of college students, faculty members, townsmen, and the younger social set of the fourth ward—all out to see Lawrence victorious in its first basketball game of the 1929-30 season.

The choir will be assisted by the church quartette consisting of Miss Gertrude Farwell, Miss Dora Ellis, Earl Miller, and George Pine, all of the conservatory. La Vail Marshall will present organ verses on the organ and P. W. Webb will conduct the choir.

An Alumni Book of Verse — "Ships," is nearing port, and will arrive on campus Monday. Two French provincial provinces, Bourgogne and Provence, were subjects of student papers at the Wednesday evening meeting of the French club held at Hamar house. The history of the two provinces was given by Dorothy Walters, '31, the geography, by Patricia Goodman, '30, and the products, by Ellore Chapman, '32. The "Character, Costumes, and Language of the People of Provence," was the topic of the paper by Carol Apter, '31; "Elizabeth Meating, '30, presented the "Literature, Art, and Music of Provence."

Chester Huke, instructor in French, talked on "Christmas in Provence." The speaker brought out the differences between the American and the French celebration of this day. "In Provence gifts are not exchanged as they are in this country," said Mr. Hume. "Everyone attends the church masses, which however, are followed by "la revolte" — festivities resembling our Thanksgiving dinners."

Just a few Minutes from Home —by Telephone

No matter if the campus is miles from home — with the telephone it is only a matter of minutes and a small amount of money.

Many students arrange a "telephone date" to talk to the folks at home on a certain day at a certain hour, every week of their college life. Not a bad idea, either — a mighty good one, you will agree, if you try it once or twice.

A chat with the folks at home will make you feel a hundred per cent better, and it will give you renewed vigor to tackle the pile of books that always seem to be waiting for attention on your table.
