VISIT THE MUSEUM!

In commemoration of the birthdays of Abraham Lincoln and George Washington, probably the two greatest figures in our national history, the Lawrence College American history museum has, within the last two weeks, offered splendid exhibitions of pictures and relics depicting the lives of the two famous Americans.

Both of these displays have been made possible through the untiring efforts of Dr. J. B. MacHarg, who has worked many hours collecting the materials and arranging them in a chronological order of events.

Last week while the Lincoln exhibit was being shown about 200 students and faculty members visited the Lincoln room. About a half of this number were Dr. MacHarg's history students, there is every reason to believe that the project is being received in the manner it deserves.

If you have not yet visited the museum—go there now—and see the 190 pieces displayed on the site of President Washington's home. This is a project you will be glad to spend leisure time among the many objects of interest will be well spent, and your visitation will afford Dr. MacHarg some means of knowing that his splendid work is appreciated.

THE GRAND FINALE

Every one of the available 100 seats at the New Alexander gymnasium should be filled tonight when the Lawrence Vikings and a successful home season against the strong Marquette five.

Tonight's game will mark the final appearance of at least four Lawrence players. What could be a greater climax to a characteristic fighting career than a win over Marquette? And if determination means anything Coach
