SMOKING ON THE CAMPUS

The above topic was one discussed at a meeting of the fraternity presidents Wednesday evening. There is no rule against an occasional cigar or pipeful while on the campus, but there is an unwritten law, a tradition, that frowns on this practice. This tradition is as old as the College, and in past years was rigorously enforced.

A not very old alumnus relates a story, telling how he was fined $25 for disobeying this tradition. Fortunately for him, he kept the receipt and was allowed to go gratis.

The present administration seems to have broached the idea of students into observing this tradition. It is not one which should require coercion as a means of enforcement. What price another 100 feet before the first day?

THE STAFF ELECTED

In this issue the 1930-31 Lawrentian staff is announced. Those who have survived the tryouts are to be congratulated, because they have successfully survived a group of more than 75 candidates. The fact that the editorial staff of the paper now consists of 80 old building journalists, only five of which are seniors, speaks well for the future of the Lawrentian.

The large number of staff candidates this year tends to prove a new recognition of the valuable experience offered by work on the Lawrentian. It is valuable, and that goes for Mr. Beckley's staff also; only perhaps a little more so.

BIG NEWS

Big news items from the College office have supplied the Lawrentian headline writer with several opportunities for originality. First, a release tells of burglars burglarizing the College treasurer's office, only to discover that the College had no money—in that office at least.

Then, through the inevitable pipe line, comes the information that a dead squirrel was found in President Winston's private office. These two stories brought forth a number of interesting heads, including one which might be called the last word in what headlines in this newspaper should not be.

You will notice that this headline did not appear above the story, which proves that editors are good for SOMETHING.

KEEP OFF THE GRASS

The College has spent much money in constructing sidewalks throughout and about the campus. The two-pachers across the greenward leading from the library to Main Hall are sure fire testimony to the fact that these sidewalks are not to be used as much as they should be. It is not known whether or not Prexy still eats a jelly bean each time he sees a student walking across the grass on the campus, but it is hoped, for the sake of his digestion, that he is not. Keep off the grass!

HIGH IN STATE APITUDE TEST

High School Seniors Shave Test Each Year To Determine College Qualifications

Approximately 52% of Lawrence freshmen rank in the upper three-fourths of the 16,000 high school seniors who took the state college aptitude test, according to data released from the college. The state college aptitude test is given annually to all high school seniors in the state for the purpose of determining their aptitude for college work. The entire 16,000 were then ranked in order of their achievement as shown by the test. Students who matriculate at Lawrence from convalescent high schools took the same test after their return. It was these results that showed the relatively high ranking of Lawrence freshmen.

Lawrence Out Of Oratorical Meet

Intercollegiate Contest Not Worthwhile, Forensic Board Decides

Lawrence College will not be participant in the Wisconsin state intercollegiate oratorical contest this year, it was decided at a meeting of the forensic board Tuesday. Prof. A. L. Frandsen, debate and oratory coach, carried these instructions to the meeting of Wisconsin coaches in Milwaukee tomorrow.

Adoption of a substitute forensic activity was not decided by the board, but it agreed to take under advisement any substitute plan offered by coaches of the other colleges, Ripon, Beloit and Carroll.

Mr. Allender

"Lack of interest on the part of students and dissolution of energy and money in an activity which brought little return to the college students and dissipation of energy in the other activities was not decided by the board," according to Marshall Wiley, '33, Irma Molzow, '34, of the board are: Robert Law, '34, and Allan Arthur, '31.

Forgot by Coaches

"Several years it has been almost impossible to get students interested in writing an oration. Coaches are often almost frank in their admission that their college's presentation is their own work and not that of a student. "In recent years I have had to spend a great deal of time in persuading a possible Lawrence student to write an oration, and have usually been forced to spend many hours with the student in order to have the work completed for the contest," he said.

Professor Franzke, in commenting on the strides made, said, "For several years it has been almost impossible to get students interested in writing an oration.
