World News in Brief

While the committee to survey the constitution of a number of federal and other means of the government are working, a new report was created in the house, the reason of which is that the constitution deficit was being framed by the ways and means committee. The Democratic majority in the house was presided over by Edward Musgrave, and thus the Democratic party will likely write a tax as manufacturers sales designated to bring in $100000000. Another Democratic change will in all probability be the lowering of the income tax rate as to impose a maximum of 40% on all income over $1500000.

The 25,000 men which Japan is training on the line to face Russia in Wenzung and Shanghai evidently are not much interested in the amount fighting Chinese forces out of the Shanghai zone. The Japanese launched a surprise attack that night but even this was broken off by heavy railroad guns fire from the near start defenders. Heavy losses accompanied the last three days of fighting. Worthed by this lack of progress, the Japanese cabinet decided to double the troops, making total of 50,000 men.

The Japanese replied to the note from the League of Nations, which stated that although China has been considering new Chinese war measures, it is really in a state of class which decision on the terms to make there and therefore must be dealt with. The next meeting of the Forum will be held immediately before the program of "The Cause of War." Each discussion committee is to meet every two weeks to discuss, summarize, and evaluate the problems of their respective topics. Each meeting will be attended and discussed at the meetings of the forum so that every problem will be discussed from four angles. The next meeting of the Forum will be held Wednesday evening at 7:00. The place of the meeting will be announced later in The Lawrentian.

We are also informed that a professor of psychology at Colby college is preparing to take his students to Singapore where they might determine the most effective pitch for the aim of an alarm clock. You had always thought that there weren't many more profs like him.

At the University of Minnesota a freshman sophomore has threatened to have the school dormitory. He can't live in the student government. You see he doesn't want to do any of these things. He wonders if there is a way to get away with it.

Bethurum discusses Unions of Romance Realism in Comedy of Players.

The Union of Realism and Romance in Shakespeare's Comedy of Players was discussed by Miss Dorothy Bethurum, as part of her lecture on "Lawrence college faculty week." In explaining Shakespeare's originality and his achievements in comedies, Miss Bethurum said, "Though trying to follow a particular model in "Caucasian Latour," Shakespeare's union of realism and romance with highly romantic situations, depicts a style all his own." Realism and romance are terms of which critics cannot agree, therefore Miss Bethurum chose to describe, rather than define them. She explained, "The realistic uses scene and situations comparable to situations in daily life, while the champion of romance in writing, as the other hand, produces an action of characters removed from conditions removed from those to which we are accustomed.

"Shakespeare's Latour" is termed a realism because he does not take a romantic view.

"Shakespeare, Sheridan, and the Plays," is continued to Lewis, who proceeds down a romantic line and the scenes depict the thought and emotions in Paris and Italy, ladies of France are not yet differen from those right here in Appleton.

"The only moral which Shakespeare is to us, both realism and romance in the same play, his prints literary picture, his shipwrecked, mad dash man's active to work their fortunes in strange lands he uses their revenge from a world of artificial things, which were unexpectedly encountered their behavior and solve the problems of situation makes too complex. These characters until the adventures are too romantic. However, three of whom being entirely the earth, who have no right to fancy to the need most need "must needs.""

What was probably the most definite explanation of Shakespeare's style was perhaps in his life's personal struggle he was never successful. The rich qualities of Shakespeare's comedy are a reflection that people have not had an our, and that time and fate have not been human happiness to make more positive those rare events when it occurred."
