Winston Explains Organization of Pauer Institute

Discusses History of Chemical Group in Convoction

The story of the Instituto of Puau Institute was presented to the Lawrence student body by Dr. Winston at the chapel program Wednesday. The occasion was the fifth anniversary of the Instituto.

It arose from the desire to have a more realistic approach to Legal College and its evoluion, to be presented to the student body in a way that would be understandable and not very difcult to support an organization.

Diplomatic, literature, social services, education—just a few of the activities in which the Instituto has been active. Some have gained national recognition. Some have had a local base, and others have been the admiration and pride of their alma maters.

This week's look in at the life of a campus newspaper might be interesting in its activities. Also, a look at the way they are being put together. At first glance, it seems like a win. Quite a few are as a hand book to their staff, and every one is having a hand in it. And yet, it is a win. At the moment the Whacker Club is in full swing. Someone started the ball rolling until a group of fifty had pledged. It all concerns the football team, as the boys were having a hard time, and as a result a crowd turned up. Also, the desire to see the Legislature in Congress. Cars belong to its brain power around, as you know, because it would be a waste if they didn't. It is a hard task to Ripon on a truck, hired for the day. Also, the desire to see the Legis lature in Congress.

Portrait of Major Paine Hangs in Library
Art Exhibit

B Y M A R Y T H O M S O N

I'll start off very simply. This is a small studio of a portrait. Already I can see you turning the page. Who are you looking at? Some boring, uninteresting face? But then, if you are going to see it in this way, what pleasure will the interesting facts give you? So let's see what I can do with it.

Major Paine was a man who didn't want to make a face. He was a man who wanted to make history. And he made it, in a most remarkable way.

In 1862, during the Civil War, Major Paine was serving as a captain in the 8th Illinois Cavalry. The Union Army was facing a crucial battle at Antietam, and Paine was ordered to lead a charge through the Confederate lines.

The charge was a disaster. Paine was hit by a bullet in the head and died on the battlefield.

But his legacy lived on. After his death, his wife gave his portrait to the Lawrence College Library, where it hangs today.

You may think it's just a picture, but it's so much more. It's a reminder of the sacrifice and bravery of our ancestors, and of the importance of remembering our past.

So the next time you see this portrait, don't just look. Look hard. And think. Because it's not just a picture. It's a piece of history.

Do You Know That Roger Mills
Spent His Boyhood in China?

A forbidden Chinese palace and an Oriental boy-empire! The mystery and romance entwined with the boy-emperor are vividly described in a recently published book by a former Peking student—Roger "Doc" Mills, junior, who lived in China until he was thirteen. His father, a doctor, met the boy-emperor when he was ten and arranged for the photographer to photograph the forbidden palace. The book, a great interest to the public and the palace revealed to the reader the inner life of the boy-empire, shows the methods which were used to take pictures of the boy-empire. The author, who was ten when he first saw the boy-empire, then a little girl, has written the story of her adventures in the book.

The book, titled "The Boy-Emperor," is published by Thomas Y. Crowell Company and is available at all bookstores. Shawn Mem Sweep to 20-0 Victory Over Combine

The Brewhawk bull football championship was decided last Wednesday afternoon, October 24, when the Shawn men of second floor center, beat the boys for the combine team to the tune of 26-0. Jim Allen starred for the combiner with two touchdowns.

Starting with the first whistle of the game, the Shawn men swirled the Combine team down the field and passed their way over the goal for two touchdowns in the first half. After both scores the attempts for points after touchdowns were successful as a result of well timed, accurate passes. The ball touchdown by the second center man was realized when Allen bandle school a pass to run thirty yards for the score. The try for the extra point was not successful.

Members of the championship team were Allen, Brondstede, Wathall, and Grady. The team was only started by permanent Combine members. Until the recent arrival of Pete Sutterman, started for this last week. As a result of this game the combine team assumed second place in the competition and second floor north, was awarded third place.

Carleton Plays Breaks to Whip Fighting Vikes

Lawrence Locks Scoring Possession in Crucial Moments

Last Saturday afternoon Lawrence football fans saw a fighting Viking team go down to defeat before Carleton after they had given an exhibition of football such as has not been seen in Appleton for many years. The Viking defense held the Lawrence line back behind the determined rush of the invader, and where the offense opened the gaps in the enemy line to rattle the brains of the Viking defenders.

The first quarter saw Lawrence threatening the Carleton goal line. But as the Viking defense took control, the Carleton ten yard line was the line of scrimmage.

In the second quarter Lawrence failed to get up to the Carleton thirty yard line while Carleton intercepted a long pass on the 97 yard line and got down to the 18 yard line before the end of the second half.

In the third quarter Lawrence scored but failed to get within the Carleton 15 yard line where on the other hand the Law rence line held back for four downs.

In the fourth quarter Lawrence gained 18 yards and piled up 91 yards gained on running plays while Carleton gained 111 yards in the same way. 61 of those being on the run that Senior made to score the lone touchdown of the game. Lawrence made 15 first downs against Carleton 17.

A states window was announced in a sleepy voice, that although he had already dressed the Freshman uniform, "he did not choose to run." The Prophet and Russell Sage were visited with equal success, but with nothing but good wishes from the inmates.

After this a tired, voiceless, but happy rook headed for Brokaw—and much needed sleep.

Strengthen Student-Faculty Contacts

In any attempt to list the advantages of a college education, it is difficult to overlook the great amount of intellectual contacts that a student makes during his four years. These contacts are not merely one-time friendships but a continuous growth of genuine intellectual feeling which lies in this idea and "to have students and faculty members have a common interest in something" just what an Artist Series concert means.

Every year the Community Artist Series brings some of the world's most famous musicians, bands, and actors to our college. This year the Arts and Humanities Series is included in the students All College Club ticket. Among the artists appearing:

- Samuel Johnson,
- Marion Treadwell,
- Mary Catherin Stein

The Plain Truth of the Matter

The plain truth of the matter seems to be, that the long awaited greeting as we wend our weary

The first we discard as being too long.

"Hail, good morning." It sounds a bit affected.

Our opinion, despite the efforts of Mother Nature to dampen it, seems to be unanimous of the entire student body that the whole affair was a success. We have a feeling of deep love and sympathy for our fellow students. It is a relief to know morning greeting as we wend our weary way to classes on a dull October morning, even the most "hello" sound quaint anyway. After that they become a mechanical repetition each one with a little less enthusiasm. We try saying, "Good morning." It sounds a bit affected.

"Good morning"... it sounds quite joyful, spontaneous, and sincere until we've said it several dozens times. It's too long anyway. We'll just say "Hi" for the next few rounds. But that somehow doesn't seem to fit everyone. Some people just aren't up to it and don't like that.

We decide to reserve "Hi" for our very special friends. Good Morning only for professors, and Hells for people we don't know quite so informally. It's a good plan. We'll try it the next morning. And then again, naturally in deciding which people deserve the intimate "Hi." It was rather enerogenic changing the old habits mind well our "New Deal." To go further would bring doubts into the minds of the readers on the campus.

No definite key lines in the invariability is brought to the attention of the students and faculty members. Faculty members in fraternities and in undergraduate organizations have only their own narrow vision to obtaining this.

"In any event," as the Daily Cardinal stated in conclusion, "the students... have an invisible opportunity to gain valuable contacts. If they graduate with only a knowledge of a good personal contact and what must have been done at the Military Bats, it certainly should not be blamed on their school. And if professors are thoroughly satisfied, they have only their own narrow vision to obtaining this.
