Five Honored by Phi Beta Kappa at Fall Election

Cast, Freund, Karrow, Wiley, Zinger are New Members

Five seniors have recently been honored by election to the local chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. They are as follows: Ania Cast, Appleton, Marjorie Freyman, Seymour; Betty Jane Karrow; Rosemary Wiley, Sheboygan Falls; Edwin Zinger, Racine. They were elected on the recommendation of the faculty in recognition of their academic achievement.

The program was sponsored by the American Association of University Women and consisted of a recital of vocal music and a reading of a short story by Ania Cast. The recital was given by Miss Cast, who sang several songs in French, German, and English. The reading was given by Miss Zinger, who read a short story in English.

The program was well attended and was enjoyed by those present. The students were all dressed in their best clothes and the atmosphere was one of excitement and anticipation.

The ceremony concluded with the presentation of the Phi Beta Kappa pins to the new members. The pins were presented by the Phi Beta Kappa president, who spoke of the significance of the honor and the responsibilities that come with it.

The new members were then introduced to the faculty and the audience, and they each gave a brief speech expressing their gratitude for the honor and their dedication to continued academic excellence.

The ceremony concluded with the playing of the national anthem and the distribution of refreshments. The evening was a great success, and the new members were all very proud of their accomplishment.
Shawn to Appear Here Soon With Company of Men

Eamous Male Dancers to Show Here November 26

To Professor Clark, we ask a vote of thanks for making one of the greatest male dancers the world has ever seen. Shawn is to appear at the Chapel on November 26. Professor Clark and the Committee are to be congratulated for having had the opportunity to watch this geniunest of all Shawn, both in their formative stages and in the finial excellence. That Shawn has been here at least twenty times, and each time--they have grown more interpretative and impressive. Thank Shawn, himself, in international fame for his first farewell in the form of a farewell male dancer, and the greatest teacher of the dance. His greatest teacher of the dance, His very presence is an inspiration to this campus.

MALE DANCERS PERFORM

Front Seats in Chapel are Not Always so Good

Well... here we are... up in front again... but that's because our anthropomorphic monitor was insufficient enough to go after sitting dinosaurs on the nose under the pedantically pretentious phrase of some Adam (Whatman's) Asprey. Even in the glacial Neanderthals, this behavior of days this engineer was equivalent to the first letter of the common alphabet, chimeraph, I'm sure, and poor Adam had to sit at all the evenly spaced meetings--to any nothing of being unnecessarily elected to keep the din-ner's charge with nothing but an all group-meeting knit between her and a group-meeting sock between her and a foot--a genuine performance in a chopped-up platform.

The Men's club Sunday Morning Class of the Congregational Church will present a series of discussions on the subject, "What Shall We Do About the Depression? Race, hatred, and war." These discussions will be given once a month and several members of the faculty will be invited to discuss them. Dr. H. F. Burr, professor of economics, spoke last year on "Gold" and will discuss further developments in that same field. Dr. William Erce, professor of political science, will speak on "The Quest for Social Justice" and those who heard his reviews of the book "We Are Moving in New Directions" by Professor Overstreet will witness the opportunity to hear him again. Dr. Daire, new chemistry professor from Cornell University, will discuss "How the Chemical World Works." Mr. Fraza, professor of public speaking will take "The World's Greatest Waterfalls," illustrations of the natural colors. Mr. D. M. Bobier, professor of German, spoke last year on "Politics." Mr. Millis, professor of Latin, will take "The Greatest Teacher of the Dance." His presence is an inspiration to this campus.

Of the remaining cast Eric Valbert was the most adequate. John Leake the real performer, Val- beth (after Stockbridge—the school story) was his birthday. I was in that same room only fifty cents at the HOBBY HOUSE.

PREMEDICAL ATTITUDE

Tests to be Given Soon

The aptitude test of the American Association of Medical Colleges will be given in the Zoology Laboratories, Science Hall, on December 1, beginning at 3 o'clock. This test should be taken by all students who contemplate a future in the medical profession. Students must be prepared to take this test seriously as admission to medical school is contingent upon their success. The test will consist of questions covering all aspects of science, including mathematics, physics, and chemistry. The results will be sent to the medical schools to which the student has applied. The test will also be used to help select students for scholarships and other financial aid. The test is free and open to all students.

WINGARD SPEAKS

Emitta Winfrost, associate professor of psychology, gave the annual Senior Class luncheon Wednesday night, November 13. The students were很高兴 to be able to attend this event, which is a tradition at the school. The luncheon was held in the dining hall, and the students enjoyed a meal of sandwiches and drinks. The guest speaker for the evening was Dr. Robert Winfrost, a noted psychologist who has written extensively on the topic of intelligence. He discussed the latest research on the topic, and answered questions from the students. The luncheon was a great success, and the students are looking forward to attending next year's event.

Thiel Speaks on Teacher's Status

Discussion Legal Aspects of Teaching at Junior High School

Dr. R. R. Thiel, professor of psychology and education, discussed the legal aspects of teaching at the Junior High School. The discussion was held on November 8, with Dr. Thiel as the only speaker. The focus of the discussion was on the legal rights and responsibilities of teachers in the Junior High School. The discussion included topics such as the rights of students, the responsibilities of teachers, and the role of the school in ensuring a safe and respectful learning environment. The discussion was well-received by the audience, and Dr. Thiel was able to provide valuable insights into the complex legal issues faced by teachers in the Junior High School.

Nine Weeks' Exams Fail To Hal t Social Events

Although nine weeks exams are trying hard to do us in, we don't mind. There's far too much else to keep us occupied if we fancy it. Life is so about wasting worry small that we don't mind. Nor do the profs books—well, we say—tension is a fine thing 'n all that, but let your education interfere—over small things like grades. Never keep us happy and we figure that nerts! Life may begin at forty for all night, etc. etc. just to get the u-u-t when it comes to staying up. Life is too short to waste worrying about others. There's far too much else to entertain us.

Mr. Davis, the traveling secretary for the Phi Delta was a guest of honor at these events. He brought with him some new ideas about that much-talked-about subject—love. He suggested that there is no Muse of love but that there is a Muse of vanity. And the Greeks had names for the muses. That essay is due to be published in the fact that no poet lamented the loss of his muse. The five Muses of inspiration, that is to say, the Muses of lyric poetry, of sacred poetry, of tragedy, of comedy, of epic poetry; all five of these Muses inhabit her. That is, they are Colloque of epic poetry; Euterpe, of lyric poetry; Polymnia, of sacred poetry; Thalia, of comedy; and Terpsichore, of lyric poetry. But all five of these Muses inhabit her. The ultimate outcome of the muse's imagination, in verse, nothing definite will be decided. Until the next muse meeting which will be held in two weeks.

Vikes, Carroll Are Old Rivals

Each Team Has Won Three Games Since Meeting in 1929

During the years of competition between Lawrence and Carroll, vigorous, exciting, and close games have been played. The series is famous for its exciting and critical finishes.

Vikings rise to their feet

Scribler missed a goal from the field at the four-yard line and placed the ball on the 31-yard marker. His kick was wide and low.

The Vikings rolled up five first downs to Lawrence's three, and had three more opportunities to score points on their 4; and outgained the Vikings 249 to 201.

The game was played at Whiting field, and Carroll had never beaten a Lawrence team at Whiting field. The Lawrence team on this occasion showed a mean defense. Otherwise, the Vikings are nice.

By the third quarter, the Vikings had to depend on the defense of their team. Their team was able to contain the Lawrence team and force a turnover. The Vikings pressed the Lawrence team throughout the game and were able to maintain their lead.

The Lawrence team had placed the ball on the 71 yard line. Jabson then went over the goal line for a touchdown. His kick was wide and low. The Vikings had to depend on the defense of their team in the third quarter of the game.

THE LAWRENCE
We feel that practically every student has enough time to prepare his class assignments thoroughly, and to enjoy himself after such preparation is finished. It can not be denied that students waste an inordinate amount of time. Games, ping-pong, card games, and "ball sessions" are even more common than all-night study sessions. People can easily be seen at the restaurants where they are there for the sole purpose of seeing who else is there.

In a twenty-four hours in every day, and only eight (to make the estimate liberal) devoted to sleep, it would seem that each student could spend three hours in classes, two hours at meals, four hours in study, two or three hours in extra-curricular activities or in study, and four hours in recreation of one kind or another. And then, he would still have two hours left to read the papers or practice at the piano!

It is reasonably deplorable when some outstanding program is presented and students are sent out from attending, an accumulation of intellectual tasks. Such programs as the Artist Series and All-college plays are educational and entertaining, and it is a great loss to miss them.

How most of us are quite careful of the way in which we spend our money within our means by keeping an accurate budget. With just a little effort, why couldn't we control our expenditure of time with the same concern?

Let's Balance Our Time Budget, Too

To see a student nodding away during a class is common enough. One need not look long to discover students, pursuing their text books or hurr­ily adding a few lines to a paper dur­ing the convictions programs. And passing any of the dormitories or fraternity houses in the late (or early) hours, one can observe the inmates actually learning the well-known "midnight oil." From time to time, under the constant surveillance, the conclusion might easily be drawn that Lawrence students are over­worked, that they are asked to do more than a reasonable expenditure of time will permit. Or one might surmise that students are completely enveloped in their school work. We believe neither of these conclusions is justified.

When a student is asked to do more, he probably is too busy, that he already has too much work. If these facts are true, if the students of Lawrence are burdened with such assignments that they must forgo meals and sleep in order to pre­pare them adequately, then is our college doing anything serious in our educati­onal program. An atmosphere of hurry and forced activity is most certainly not conducive to the best kind of scholar­ship. And complete immersion in aca­demie subjects must necessarily mean so that the student loses much of that as time.
