Du Shane Depicts Views on European Situation in Talk

Presents German, English, American Attitudes At Strife

At convocation on Tuesday, D. M. Doellehale, dean of men, gave what was by common consent the most stimulating talk in Europe. He divided his talk into two parts: first, an analysis of how the Allied war against the Central powers was going; and second, a discussion of the question of peace. The first part of the talk was devoted to the Allied war effort. He said that the Allies were currently sending more and more supplies to the war effort, and that the Central powers were becoming increasingly depleted. He also warned that the Allies must be prepared for a long war.

The second part of the talk was devoted to the question of peace. Doellehale said that the Allies must be firm in their demands and that they must not be afraid to use force if necessary. He also said that the Allies must be ready to negotiate and that they must be willing to make concessions in order to achieve a just peace. He concluded his talk by saying that the Allies must be united and that they must be prepared to fight for their freedom.

NEW WOMEN'S RULES

At convocation on Tuesday, A. C. Smith, chairman of the L.W.A., announced the new women's rules for the dormitories. The new rules are designed to promote a more orderly and respectful environment in the dormitories. Among the new rules are:

- All students must be in their rooms by 10 p.m. each night.
- No smoking is allowed in the dormitories.
- No loud music or noise is allowed after 11 p.m.
- Visitors must be escorted by a dormitory staff member.

The new rules were met with mixed reactions from the students. Some students praised the new rules as a necessary step to improve the dormitory environment, while others expressed concern that the rules were too strict.

The Alumni Visit Familiar Scenes on and About Campus

Lawrentians are not turning in their middy blue shirts (we hope), yet former Lawrentians are returning to their old alma mater. It's the beginning of the fall quarter, so at least it begins that way. And it's really more fun to keep the former students in mind. The whole world that we look at it there are a few familiar accents here. They are the faces of those that have been here before.

Lawrentians, when they arrive, are usually accompanied by their uppers. It seems as if the uppers are still the same. Bill Schaeffer is still the president of the German Club. The Choral Society is still in session. Mrs. Schenkel is still the piano teacher. Dr. Parton is still the math professor. The rest of the evening will be given over to the A c o n t e m b e r 20th.

On Monday evening, October 9, several of the Phi Tau pledges chose as their vice president, N. V. M. A. Goerner, treasurer, C. C. N. W. M. H. H. M. B. T. I. and E. H. S. M. B. T. as secretary. They will be in session on Homecoming weekend. The German Club cordially invites everyone to attend the meeting. The club is looking forward to the coming year.

Lawrence Club Holds First Meeting Sunday, October 15

This was the club's first meeting of the fall quarter. The meeting was held in the first floor of the Administration Building. The meeting was called to order by President Paul Wood, who is the president of the Phi Tau pledge group. The club is looking forward to the coming year.

Four Broke Residents Appointed to Decorate Hall for Homecoming

A special committee of non-pledge boys was chosen to take charge of dormitory hall for the annual Homecoming Decorations contest. The members of the committee are Jim Orowitz and Omar Oborgue with their committee of Leonard Liss, Theodore Harden, Gordon Drake, and James Moody. The Broke councillors at a recent meeting elected their committee for the coming year. Dick Raney chose as secretary. The club is looking forward to the coming year.

Open House and Last Night of the Dormitory Bazaar

After a "get acquainted" session around the piano, students will be served soft drinks. Following supper, a short welcome ceremony will be conducted. The meeting of the evening will be given over to the election of officers and new students. At the end of the evening, students will be given a warm welcome by the officers of the Phi Tau pledge group.

Greek Club Plans Music, Speech for Meeting on Oct. 17

Music and song will provide the entertainment for the first meeting of the Phi Delta Lambda club, held on Tuesday, October 17, at 7 p.m., at the Phi Delta Lambda office.

Fine Arts Group Will Take First Fall Tour Wednesday Afternoon

The first fall tour of the Fine Arts group will take place next Wednesday afternoon, October 18. The group will visit the Lake Shore building of the Kimberly-Clark Co. Due to limited transportation facilities only the first ten to sign the list that shall be posted on the bulletin board in Main Hall will be taken.

The expedition leaves the steps of the library at one sharp. This trip should prove very interesting. The Lake Shore plant is not only a beautiful mill but its processes and products are some of the most modern in the nation. Furthermore, it is one of the best examples of art in industry to be found in the valley.

What We Need Is A Bell

HAROLD W. DOOD, president of Princeton University, last week addressed his students in the Matriculation day exercises on the part university plays in these times of crisis. We reprint portions of that address from an account in the New York Times in the hope that Lawrenians will share it with Princeton men. It is directly concerned with our work here, and is on a subject which must be of vital interest to every student everywhere.

Dr. Dodds reminds us that all students that their efforts are not wasted and that in these times the need for careful thinking is enormous. In opening Princeton university, he said:

"The world opens with the world in upheaval before our eyes, and with possibilities that no one can predict. There is no need to elaborate them here. While I have been speaking, you may have thought that only that tranquil clutched walls remote from realities would one dare to talk at this moment about trivialities such as education. It is no time, you may say, to be tranquil, for the future has been made by either one of us. Is no time for the clarification of world events. There is no reason to doubt that the way we present the world to the next generation, which is the hope of the race, is by the right, or by the wrong, the development of increased knowledge and you are here to master it both.

Dr. Dodds pointed out the particular value of clear and powerful thought in combating the new technology and new techniques and new propaganda.

"Keeping the wonders of the modern world are the new techniques of propaganda, common in Europe but still in their infancy here, to which you will be exposed in exposing measure. You have need in this year to be prepared for the public through the public through the pronouncements of learned academic institutions that the alternative, a free and a secure society, is the only way to achieve science and learning, and I see it to be so.

Homecoming

Friday, October 12, 1939

THE LAWRENTIAN

HOMECOMING! That's the day when all of the old grads come back to the familiar haunts of their school days and tell about the days when "I was in college." There will be something about Lawrence back to the campus this week-end. The major feature of the whole week-end is our game with Carleton Saturday afternoon. Those Carleton days are going to come down to Appleton fresh from two victories, both of which they won in the under-date. Lawrence has already learned that they are going to have to look the all - around strong Griffin team for two weeks, but when Carleton takes the measure of Griffin they have already learned that they are going to have some time in the backfield. That tends to make them stronger on paper. But don't forget, a team has never won a game yet purely on its standing on paper. Carleton and Griffin are going to fight and fight pretty to get whatever they happen to get to.

The boys are preparing for the Homecoming Day by getting some of their old clothes. That is some old years. Lawrence has never been able to take a Homecoming victory. Last year's freshmen have an attitude that they would never have experienced in old times. Lawrence never entered this Homecoming Day. We're going to be unlike this year. In that after the game on Saturday, we all are going to have a Homecoming Dance, fresh from the first victory in 12 years at Homecoming.

The boys are gathering at the game—the coaches—are all—will be back—and the students will also be gathering toward a new tradition—our duties at Homecoming. Is it up to the students to stay behind the coaches and follow—keep them kept. Sit in the ring in the bull and tell 'em we were behind us. Let's get a story for the Roman.

DISHING IT

We had heard idle rumors in the fact that JACK WHITE was hard up for dirt writing, so when we read last week's column, which corroborated the statement, we have decided to come in review with our disapproval. We know that Jack and you have always cherished a suppressed desire for filling our strong stomachs behind their backs. We are going to slip this under the door so that Jack in the Lawrence office while he is looking the other way, would be surprised if this should find its way into print. But if it does, we can console ourselves with the thought that WHITE doesn't know his yellow journalism. In fact, none of us is really making his presence felt in the ROUNDS here at Lawrence. It seems that BUD is really making a tre to show the student activities! Doesn't know his yellow journalism, either.

This fall it resumes its function with a broader and more comprehensive program. One of the chief aims of the organization is the promotion of interest in all phases of the fine arts. Pep Meeting, Grid Battle and Parade Are Planned Here

The A.M.B. will be meeting, Grid turn, ending up at the Appleton stage until things have quieted down, and the group will be surprised if this should find its way into the "necessaries" for the evening. Although the group has not yet been organized, it seems that BUD is really making a tre to show the student activities! Doesn't know his yellow journalism, either.

FELLOWSHIP

The Tuesday meeting of the Camera club was taken over by Mr. Swift of the Chemistry department. Mr. Swift gave a demonstration of his process, or taking an outdoor picture. It developed, and after a few moments, showed the finished product. He believed to be a very interesting and instructive procedure. The next meeting of the club will be conducted by Mr. Gilbert. Mr. Gilbert will give a demonstration of camera equipment. All members attending are asked to bring their cameras. Notices of meetings and field trips are kept posted on Main hall bulletin board.

Thiesmeyer Talks On 'Aneledotes and Stones' in Chapel
Says Value Is in Time
Needed to Form

"Aneledotes and Stones" brought Lincoln A. Thiesmeyer, associate professor of geology, to his "new plaything" as he called it. He was quite "tick happy" about the material which he received in spite of the fact that the famous specimen had been detained because of the war conditions.

These "lithologic miscellanea" were fascinating to him, but he was also concerned about the conditions.

As for humor he was sure that "Playmints and Boast Benohre were not born under the same star."

For the information of the audience he explained that the rocks before him were not merely stones. They were his "comforting spectacles" and painted at times would be an inspiration. The audience learned soon that they were to be used for demonstration purposes. The proof that "rock materials are not always what they seem" was proved in the professor assuredly by bending an apparently sturdy and firm strip of sandstone which was regarded as useless and cast aside. But the prehistoric process of cementing the small particles had not been completed, leaving it elastic.

The professor claims that "The great value to the geology student comes in the appreciation of the time needed to form the specimens." One example of nature's long time operation was a round stone which had been turned into an angular rock by the action of time. Another was a base harder than steel and yet its smooth surface was deeply grooved from the constant worm of a recognition of the long history of the earth.
