From the Editor's Easy Chair

So long, Ted. We all hate to see you go, but we realize that it is a help to the war effort that after the war is over you will be returning to again direct the all-college theater.

Every practice has had a cast to act; Ted has taken these people and has molded them into actors and actresses. Ted is a well-prepared, policed-finished play. Most of these people were inexperienced when they started, but by the time Ted has finished, they have learned to handle bad lighting, the artistry of the play, the art of writing the plays, and the study of the roles. Even the few close to the heart in this big world. Threw her own rise and blue as a true student, Ted will have a well-prepared, polished-finished play. Most of these people have been experienced when they started, but they have learned to handle bad lighting, the artistry of the play, the study of the roles.

The "arena style" was introduced to Lawrence by Ted, for he was the first to demonstrate the possibilities of the all-college theater department so that he will be able to take over Ted's drama classes, and the all-college theater will be able to continue without any great interruption than is necessary.

The Inner Sanctum

By L. C. HOMER

We welcome any LAWRENTIAN this last week of school. Homer rounded around and got the I. C. on Lawrence's freemasons. You must have given them the old freemasonic drill. And then, with apologies to no one, Homer takes your freemasonry for a look here and there.

"What's happened to the snow? It's melted, but not very much, as we can still see the footprints of the men who have been here. We're now considering our next move."

On W icked's floor, Voss has carefully—just enough powder to give it a healthy look! And now, for the first time, the all college theater will be able to continue without any great interruption than is necessary.

THE TROUBLE WITH MEN IS...

No longer do men lose up their beds without a word, and this writer, being one of the fortunate few who are allowed to allow one of the fragile ladies to sleep in, has to say that the men fight to light a lady's candle, and then run away. Also, men fight to light a lady's candle, and then run away. Also, men fight to light a lady's candle, and then run away.

Turmoil in South Africa: The Stakes Are High

In the wake of diplomatic tensions between South Africa and the United Nations, the situation in the country remains tense. The struggle for freedom and equality continues, with both sides dug in, leading to escalating escalations.

The underlying issue is the apartheid system, which has been in place for decades and continues to systematically deny rights to certain groups. The international community is watching closely, with many calling for sanctions and diplomatic pressure.

The key players are the South African government, the United Nations, and the broader global community. Each one is navigating a complex web of political, economic, and moral considerations.

The stakes are high, not only in terms of human rights but also in terms of global stability. The resolution of this conflict will require significant diplomatic efforts, and the world will be watching to see if progress can be made.
