Irish Laddies in Serenade

Perhaps the title of this article has led some of you to look for some historical course in previous semesters which has never been given. Well, something new has been added. Something new has been added. If you had any experience of this kind of course, I'm sure you would agree that this is a very good idea, as it would be a very good social experiment. I'm sure you probably have a pretty good idea as to what it was.

I'm referring to the three little lads which were present at the Thursday evening meeting held at the Irish Hall. This was the first meeting of the Irish Hall, and it was attended by a small group of students. It was a very pleasant evening, and it was enjoyed by all who were present.

The first part of the meeting was devoted to the presentation of a play written by one of the students. This play was entitled "The Irish Laddies in Serenade." It was a very well-written play, and it was acted very well by the three students who played the roles of the Irish laddies. The play was very entertaining, and it was enjoyed by all who were present.

The second part of the meeting was devoted to the presentation of a song. This song was written by one of the students, and it was very well-written and sung. The song was entitled "Irish Laddies in Serenade." It was very well-received, and it was enjoyed by all who were present.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the students presented a song and dance, which was very well-received. It was a very enjoyable evening, and I am sure that it will be repeated in the future.

Feminine Moral Builder Visits Lawrence Campus

Our campus was invaded last night by a woman. Not that we think there is anything high on a list of the moral builders, but she was invited. One of the reasons that this visit was so important was that it was arranged in connection with the student fee. It was an excellent opportunity to make some points in the student fee, and it was an excellent opportunity to make some points in the student fee.

The woman was a very charming lady, and she was very well-received by all who were present. She was a very charming lady, and she was very well-received by all who were present.

During her visit, she made some interesting speeches on topics such as the importance of the student fee, and the need for a better sense of responsibility on the part of the students. NAVY COMES THROUGH AGAIN

It's your column, and you should all have a say in it. All contributions will be published. Well, some new things have been added. Well, some new things have been added.

I'm sure no one could have commented on the things that I've mentioned, but I'm sure no one could have commented on the things that I've mentioned.

It so happened that at the time I was being interviewed, the boys after the interview asked me what I thought of the things that I had mentioned. I think of an easy way of a trial proceeding easily on earth. If this were a woman's paradise—and if we must be one in Ararat's.

Sack Hounds Face Problem

BY LARRY MACDONALD

It was the first night that there was any hair, but then again may be that they are just ingenious in their methods. It was expected that beginning on Monday, the average evening spent in a Brookside bedroom would rise to about room temperature. Around five in the morning, a wind began to blow in the bowl and blow the room thermometers begin to drop and drop. Second by second the men increase their restlessness. First one extra blanket is drawn over the sack, then another and still the chill increases.

Then the question is supposed to be: "Who is going to close the window?" There seems to be no difference in the air, and the brave adventure out of his sack over the window and back would end the lecture of the hour. But who will answer the challenge? The thing that will really happen, of course, maybe Paul Tomlinson is the right

Other than that, it's too early to argue about it and I'm going to order the COLLEGE. With a leap and a dash, a catch of the window and a dive back into the window the mission is accomplished. It's too much excitement to be able to think about anything else as you work your way into the bed. And the next morning the wind begins to drop. Second by second the men increase their restlessness. First one extra blanket is drawn over the sack, then another and still the chill increases.

Another Monday the Thermas pulled through with a 6-6 victory over the Phi Pi Club. Also the APDEs were defeated by the DCHs by a score of 26 to 22. The highlight of these games was the audience which amused themselves by making up new cheers.

Tuesday night games were fought the all-time great in the Phi Pi Club. The Thermas winning by 28 to 6 and the APDEs and Phi Delt Club played out the rest of the year. One of the spectacles of the games was the amazing skill of the APDEs. They are indeed a very formidable team. They are the best team in the world, and added to this is their spirit. They are such other clubs or plans of life. A visit to a Japanese home is a lengthy affair. "An individual is so immersed in a study of Japanese culture that it becomes difficult to express what he has done. His work in the United States is not complete until he has lived in Japan." The better class of families usually refuses to play checkers.

The evening, for there is no such thing as a short visit.

The Japanese home is usually of the western type, but he is the only house that has been in the Japanese house. It is a common procedure for the people to invite him to a house and sometimes the family will invite him to a house. They can take a bath and change into a clean dress and the Japanese are very well seen with some friends in the Japanese house. There is a common procedure for the family to invite him to a house in order to leave at the end of the evening, but there is nothing as a short visit.
