New Students are Informed
Of Location of Classrooms

After the hubbub and confusion of the last few days is over, everyone will take a long, last gaze at freedom and then settle down to a year of hard grinding.

Main Hall, as usual, will be the center of activity, for it is there that most of the liberal arts classes are held. The basement is complete with book stores, Ariel and Lawrence offices, in addition to the towns girl's room. The first floor hallway is the great meeting place on campus, and it is here the student body can chat with their classmates, or with any of the professors in the building. If scholarly and respectful action are not the student's code then he will find a first class room, but the most important thing of this story is the accessibility of the students to the professors.
