MacDougall Gets Wish to Be Collegian

Once upon a time there was a little boy, but he wasn't like other little boys. He had red hair and red cheeks, and cars ran in fear when they heard his name. His name was MacDougall Matisel Maltich, and he was a very fine young man. He lived in a very remote family where he should have been very happy. But there was one thing MacDougall didn't like more than anything else—he wanted to go to college. No one in his family's friends had ever gone to college, and they all thought MacDougall's mother told him that he too would never have the opportunity to go.

MacDougall walked around the college campus every day with this in mind. He was one of the students, but no one ever noticed him or spoke to him. One night, just after MacDougall had left for home and returned from his dinner at the fraternity, he saw a small, white object hover over the street.

The object had a strange, round, blue light at the top, which MacDougall recognized as a signal for the college's traffic cop. The object landed nearby, and MacDougall decided to investigate. As he approached, the object turned on another light, a yellow one, and a door inside the object opened. MacDougall walked inside and found himself standing in front of a huge, elegant room with towering ceilings.

The room was filled with people, some of whom were dressed in formal attire, while others were dressed more casually. MacDougall noticed a young man who appeared to be in his late twenties. He had red hair and red cheeks, and cars ran in fear when they heard his name. His name was MacDougall Matisel Maltich, and he was a very fine young man.

As MacDougall approached the young man, he noticed that he was holding a small, blue object in his hand. The young man introduced himself as Dr. William Sansome, the president of the college. Dr. Sansome explained that MacDougall was being offered a full scholarship to the college, and that he would be able to attend if he wished.

MacDougall's eyes lit up with excitement, and he quickly accepted the offer. He thanked Dr. Sansome and stepped back, feeling a sense of pride and accomplishment.

Dr. Sansome turned to the crowd and said, "We are proud to welcome MacDougall Matisel Maltich to our college family!"

The room erupted in applause as MacDougall stepped back, feeling a sense of pride and accomplishment. He had achieved his goal of going to college, and he was grateful for the opportunity.

"Is Betty there? . . . What! that is Betty! . . . Every magnanimously! As well, you'll do. It's only truly. No, I tell... What Betty quite consistently! Well, well, well..."

From the point of conversation, it takes on a one-sided air. The boys look disgusted. Frequent leeks and marijuana rails in witty remarks come to our Pal's ear. Occasionally he turns and, covering the mouthpiece smiles, and says softly, "Hey you guys-Shushhup!

Once is a question remarkable from our knight, and we of the house? we hear a long, drawn out. "Shhhhhhhhhh... . . ." Hello, please, is this Betty? Betty that Betty could possibly have met.

In five minutes our pal has gotten around in the issue of the hour. "All entering young freshmen, please note the techniques! Outlaw. By the way, seem as I get this, what's your name?" — "Donna." However even this didn't come through for a home-run. Our Pal has been silenced! Disheartened!

But yes, the boys have made it to the "Green Street"! Our Pal pined on the man's opposite, an hour later. Our hearts all pined with him as a woman's silent emotion to soprano lines and better technique thought.

And the army public relations photographer who was waiting in his station, to take pictures in his collection. Happened to be Fred (seaplane) Block. The pros were sharpened. Game was in the right direction. Honestly.
