Policies of Russia and Unions are Paralleled

BY NANCY BRANDEWIE

The Associated Press

It is almost a perfect situation. Where are the unions? Only to the obvious newspaperman. The era of the union leader and the state of the world is now almost identical. Both, it seems, have exactly the same aims. The union leaders can give the same speech as the President, and their leaders can also say, "We will bring this country to its knees."

Arthur Krock, New York Times: "The union leaders can bring this country to its knees."

As Krock pointed out, there is no assurance that the work enrichment is the remedy for inflation. But the union leaders are also saying that the unions are willing to rid the country of its economic problems. In fact, the union leaders are saying that they will bring the country to its knees if the government does not act quickly.

Krock wrote that the union leaders have given the nation a "golden opportunity." He said that the union leaders are saying that they will bring the country to its knees if the government does not act quickly.

Mrs. Robert Brent, present business manager, stated that she would be without her assistant at the meeting. She said that "marriage is a working relationship between two persons. A spousal relationship is one in which both parties have the same goals and are working towards the same end. The speaker warned against marrying on a basis of escape or change, for "marriage is not an answer for personal unhappiness." In order to be a successful marriage, a person must have the capacity of love, which is deep and enduring. The speaker also emphasized the need for understanding and trust in a marriage relationship. He stated that knowing your future mate for six months before becoming engaged and time to emerge from six months is a year is the best insurance of a happy marriage.
