Beck's New Book Promised Soon

Edition to Contain Best Short Stories

Warren Beck, professor of English Lawrence college, will have in fourth book off the presses in November. The book will be titled

"Out of Line" from the Yale Review, in 1944.

Other magazines in which the stories originally appeared were the

Yale Review, two from the Virginia

Quarterly Review, two from Story, and one from the Virginia Review, in 1946.

"Out of Line" and "Pause Under the Sky." The novels have been published in both England and America.

Other magazines in which the stories appeared include the

Yale Review, two from Story,

and others.

Beck's other books have been the

Two books about China. Of his free work, he was educated, you can find complete control over the brush. The touch of a brush on paper must become as familiar to that individual as does a drawing pencil. The Western schools

Museum of calligraphy gives one equal amount of color, but if you look closely at the branches of the trees of Kingman's work, really very messy. It is the artist's way of painting he uses a wet wash on his sky. His watercolors may be seen in many museums, Museum of modern art, Art institute of Chicago, and San Francisco, Metropolitan, Boston, and DeYoung.

iest Oriental Touch

are the Chinese letters, which is done with dry brush. Yet at the same time he uses a wet wash on his sky, mountain, and ground area. This also requires adroitness in the control of color with a brush on a larger portion of the paper.

Most notably Oriental are the tree and the flying monkey. The long arm, short legs, and large ears will call to mind a Chinese monkey. Even the rinse of the eye, the steps of a bison in the winter is the same. It is a work of art. But to the Westerner it is a former part of the white areas of the picture. But Kingman has let a surprising amount of the white envelope on the white areas, which is really very true. It is effective in showing contrast and emphasis. Furthermore, it makes the picture broader in the sense of the dimension. The Chinese American artist, Dong Kingman, is the Lawrence college library, by the late Dr. M. Gottsch, in tribute to him. The twenty-five picture figures are equally divided between urban and rural subjects. Since 1939 he has lived in Japan, until moving to Columbia university last year to teach watercolor painting. Before that he taught in art schools in San Diego and San Francisco and at the University of Wyoming. In 1942 he was the recipient of a Guggenheim fellowship, which was renewed for two years.

Most recently his watercolors received the Gold Medal of Honor at the 1948 Audubon artists exhibition.

His watercolors may be seen in many public and private collections, among them the Metropolitan, Brooklyn, Boston, and DeYoung museum, Museum of modern art, the Art institute of Chicago, and other art institutes.

Kingman has also painted murals and illustrated books about China. Of his few west painting he says, "Nature is really very many. It is the artists job to straighten it out." Mr. Kingman is now at Columbia university as an instructor. It will be interesting to watch his future work. The September 1947 issue of the American Artist displays a two month's work at the Art institute. It also contains an artistic technique with water color. "The Art News Magazine" in the library will also carry a article on his progress in the East.

New Members For Sunset

The members of Sunset, all of the faculty, are Miss Charlotte Waller, Mr. Howard, Mr. John Page, Mr. Robert, Miss, Mr. H. E. Recently, the 1948-49 society was presented and commissioned large scale pictures of the same kind. Sunset invited them to membership because of their activity in drama and the theater. The small group of them having made important contributions either at Lawrence or elsewhere.

New Piano Teacher To Present Recital

Clyde Duncan, this year's addition to the piano faculty of the Conservatory, is to be heard in a recital at 8:30 p.m. on Sunday evening, November 8 in Pabst Hall in the Conservatory.

Mr. Duncan earned his master's degree from the American Conservatory in Chicago where he studied with Renée Lefebre and Ely Frear and composition with Leon Botstein.

Before coming to Lawrence, he was on the faculty at Wisconsin-Stevens Point.

Mr. Duncan's program includes a group by Bach and Cesar Franck, a modern group by impressionist Delius and Ravel, and two poems which will be introduced by faculty members who will sing the poems.

All students are invited to attend this recital which is the second in the series of faculty performances.

French Heads I.R.C.

After Elections

Robert French is to be the new vice president and Elizabeth Merrens, treasurer, of the International Relations Club after the recent elections. The club met in room 11, Main building, last week.

Officers for the coming year were elected at its last meeting. Robert French was unanimously elected president. Megan Vasa was elected vice president and Elizabeth Merrens, secretary-treasurer. The cabinet will be filled out by three members of the club.

After the elections, Robert French gave a talk on the Marshall plan and other current issues.

Faculty Forum

Importance Stressed

Editor's note:

This is the third in a discussions by faculty administration members of interest to the faculty. The theme this week is the funds required for the operation of the institutional, administration, plan, and income from endowment, gifts from friends of the institution, the gifts for this purpose, and the endowment. The Funds from these sources are allocated to the following purposes:

1. The Board of Trustees, alumni and friends of the college have assumed the responsibility for the primary responsibilities of the college. The costs for which these funds have been given are the enlargement of athletic field, the Alumni building on East South River, the purchase of land and buildings for the new library, the purchase of land and buildings for the new athletic field, the purchase of land and buildings for the new athletic field, and the purchase of land and buildings for the new athletic field.

2. Gifts for the permanent endowment of the college in the amount of $250,000 have been given for student scholarships.

3. The total received for current expenses, student improvements, and the like has been $60,000.

4. The endowment fund, from which is used for the support of the college, is approximately $1,500,000.

5. The dormitories and dining halls are self-supporting, being paid for by charges made for board. For the financial year 1929, the income from these funds was $640,000 and will be used for the purpose of erecting and equipping new buildings, the construction of a new library, and the purchase of land and buildings for the new athletic field.

Carroll was the winning team in the game. Carroll took to the air in a distinctive attempt to cover the Viking's ball. With Patrick pitching it, Carroll went to the back of the Lawrence 12 before Jack Nubbe stepped on a pass from the end and ending the game.

The defensive side of the story was handled by Bob Moody, Donny Sey- nior, Paul Harker, Jim Politek and Chuck Williams, prevent- ing Carroll's "T" formation from getting anywhere.

SHOE DEPARTMENT

THE DEPARTMENT STORE NEAR THE CAMPUS
We wonder if the "good old days" at Lawrence were really as good and as old as the alumni who are coming back would have us believe.

We are surveying our academic community, as always. After trying for ten years to get the money and bankrolling our activities, we found ourselves with a bare bank balance and no more than a whisper of action potential.
