Sing Hallelujah! "The Messiah"
Launches Christmas Season

BY MARGARETTE SCHRAMM

If there is a newly generated Yuletide fervor around Appleton—that is not at all related to the shortest number of shopping days—until Christmas— it might be at the announcement of Lawrence college presentation of Handel's "The Messiah."

Right now it is considered clue in pseudo-sophisticated musical circles to lock down collective, note at anything as unique and harmonically "true" as "The Messiah."
But it will take more than such ill-considered mentions to dispositively magic which has been loved for 205 years since its world première in 1741.
It is a soprano, but because it contains a highowered distribution of the Christian singer.

Director Carl J. Waterman is

By "Crossfire" Sunday—Thursday

With Christmas only a few weeks off, people talking about bringing in the new year with good cheer by saying "Peace on earth, good will toward men," it seems almost that "Crossfire" should not come to our city. "Crossfire" is not just another mystery, because it goes on a step further than simple suspense. "Crossfire" will give you a jolt before you know it. "Crossfire" will wake up your conscience. "Crossfire" will make you feel as though you are guilty of something, as though there is a murder on your conscience.

Because of this, he tried to make them feel guilty. He truly had no enemies and was really a very likeable fellow. G.I.'s come to our city, "Crossfire" met some G.I.'s in a bar and then goes on a step further than simple entertainment. "Crossfire" illustrates so clearly that a little hate can be a dangerous thing. Furthermore, the film, think not only of the victim as a Jew, but of yourself as a Christian and whether you are guilty of simple prejudice, or dislike, or hate of another group. Not only is a Jew murdered, but also a Jew is the murderer. The murder is a Jew, but it is the hands of a mob simply because he is a Jew. The movie is the story of a man and the talk and the slice-of-life who establishes the needed alibi, do consummate the murder and the heavy gun who shows up. Robert Mitchum as the man who is used as the straw witness, the fellow who actually commits the murder and the police who are clueless. This is the film, think not only of the victim as a Jew, but of yourself as a Christian, Scientist, a Protestant or a Rabbi, it tries to make them feel. They never have been a more pointed story on the screen which illustrates in clearly that a little hate can be a dangerous thing.

Also of note to you fight fans will be the pictures of the recent Louis Costello, which will be shown bright and Saturday.

"Crossfire" will give you a jolt before you know it. "Crossfire" will wake up your conscience. "Crossfire" will make you feel as though you are guilty of something, as though there is a murder on your conscience.

Newmanites to be Guests at Party

Greed, intolerance and the inclination to hurt are the three basic faults in modern social intercourse according to Gustave Keller who spoke to the breakfasting Newman club after its communion Sunday, December 7 at St. Joseph's church. Realistic viewpoints, action, acquisition of facts and belief in God are the remedies he cited to correct these evils.

Meeting again that afternoon in Mam hall, the club members heard Father Claude of St. Joseph's parish and then joined in an open discussion of the Malthusian theory. Planned for this Sunday is a joint Christmas party with the Oshkosh State Teachers college Newman group at St. Peter's school hall in Oshkosh. Mary Meier, Brokaw, should be contacted by all local members who desire to attend; transportation will be furnished but additional automobiles volunteered are welcome. The party is scheduled for seven o'clock.

The Ghosts of Smith House Move To Make Room for New Building

Almost immediately upon its erection, Smith house became the social hub of the Appleton end of the valley. Smith, who was land fired commissioner of the Fox and Wisconsin River company, continued with river improvement work; but in 1864 his sons left home to enter the army. In 1867 regent of the University of Wisconsin, in 1870 president and founder of the First National Bank, in 1875 first president of the Appleton chamber of commerce, in 1898 built the first Appleton pool in office. In between he found time to be a member of the board of trustees at Lawrence and his alma mater, Wesleyan. And although the Wesleyan trustee meetings were held in Connecticut, his absence was rare. He also had a hand in the Appleton Public Library association, the first organization in the world to distribute power commercially, and he helped plan Appleton's electric street car line, also the first in the world. Mrs. Smith, of an aristocratic Newport, N. Y., family, took eagerly to her role as social leader of the Fox River Valley. Her entertainments were sumptuous, although not large, and only the choicest of the elite were on her guest list. Even though the "best families" attended her parties and dinners, the sitter problem was present then as now. Babies were brought about and put to bed in one of the servants' bedrooms. One of the few carriages in town was the "tuff car" of Smith's, and there were, according to the Family Guide, "the finest views which the Fox River Valley presents. stassen's campaign method is the "new look" in U.S. politics

BY BOB BROWN

Friends of favorite political experts believe that Harold Stassen's presidential nomination is certain. A glance at the map of the nation will reveal that he is the only candidate who is a genuine rival to Thomas Dewey. By the end of last week, he was more than 500,000 votes ahead of the next leading candidate, Senator Robert Wagner, and it is unlikely that his position will be bettered.

Stassen's campaign method is the "new look" in U.S. politics. He has been criticized for his lack of a clear-cut program, but this is not so. His campaign is based on the principles of neutrality and non-partisanship. He believes in the separation of church and state, and he is opposed to the use of the military in domestic affairs. His platform is simple and direct, and he has been able to communicate it effectively to the voters.

In contrast to the other candidates, Stassen has not made use of elaborate political machines. He has relied on his own personal popularity and the support of a small group of advisors. This has enabled him to keep his campaign simple and direct, and to avoid the pitfalls of the political machine.

Stassen's campaign method is the "new look" in U.S. politics, and it is certain to be successful. He has demonstrated his ability to communicate his ideas to the voters, and he has shown that he is a man of integrity and honesty. With his "new look" campaign, he is certain to win the presidency.

The turn of the new century has seen the rise of fascist movements throughout the world. Spain has been one of the countries most affected by this phenomenon. The rise of fascism in Spain is a result of the failure of democratic institutions and the spread of economic uncertainty.

The Spanish fascist movement has been led by General Francisco Franco, who took power in 1939 after a civil war. Franco has ruled with an iron hand, suppressing all political opposition and suppressing all free speech. The fascist regime has been marked by brutality, oppression, and terrorism.

In addition to the fascist regime, there has been a rise of religious extremism in Spain. The Catholic Church has become increasingly influential, and there has been a rise of conservative political movements.

The combination of these factors has led to a rise of fascist movements in Spain. The fascist regime has been marked by brutality, oppression, and terrorism.

The key to the cold war in France. That fact was being made increasingly clear last week as the Russian and American governments continued to engage in a heated debate over the future of the European nation. The Russian government has made it clear that it will not accept any Western effort to restore democratic institutions in Europe.

The Russian government has been particularly critical of the American government's policies in Europe. The Russian government has called for the withdrawal of American forces from Europe, and it has called for the establishment of a new European order based on the principles of democracy and equality.

The American government has responded by acknowledging the seriousness of the situation. The American government has called for a new European order based on the principles of democracy and equality.
