A festival with folk dancers from five different countries was presented by Lawrence college seniors at 12:30 last evening in the campus gymnasium. Each of the six participating societies and the one independent group drew lots for dances to be performed, and the following were demonstrated: the English dances "Gathering Peascods" and "Country Dances", an Italian Tarantella, Mexican "La Jarabe Tapadera" and a Swedish Folk. The Junior Fraternity Step and the Russian Kolomeyka.

Women were seated in various seats in front of stage. Judges were Mrs. John S. Smith, Mrs. John McMahon and Miss Charlotte Wellanger. They scored the contestants on skill of execution, spirit of the dance, and costumes.

The Interfraternity Folk Dance's Interfraternity Folk Dance was sponsored by the Interfraternity council, in order that the women who participate in the Interfraternity Folk Dance may be included in the Interfraternity Council and Sanderson Ballroom.

"Tremendous" is with the most doubt the star of the local constabulary (just a bit of a lighter, brighter moment). We have known that we can see no sense in "dist minister and a missionary in Germany" during the last War was roaming, singing and having a good time. We have emphasized that the student should rather say that, specifically, the three basic causes of intolerance are (1) fear, (2) the mistakes idea that what is good for us is good for all, and (3) the compensation which intolerance provides by giving men a feeling of security. Mary Ellen analyzed the problem from the standpoint of the anthropologist and explained that there is no scientific evidence that superior mental or moral attributes depend upon racial heritage. She said, "It may be well if we examined each and every one of our prejudices and intolerances in an effort to discover whether we hold them because they are scientifically based, or because we have become habitual.

Mary Ellen dramatized the cruel and irrational attitude from which intolerance and prejudice springs. Concluding the panel, he stated, "One has in live tolerance, there is nothing like an innocent bystander when it comes to intolerance. The one thing that the tolerant person should be intolerant of is intolerance.

Erwin W. Schechter, associate professor of speech, counseled this group which is an organization in establishment of a bureau of student speakers.

We would like to leave you with one thought before you finish this convocation committee calls for complaints

For the past few years the main topic of discussion or should we say "back" has been the convocation programs presented each Thursday at 11 a.m. The student body is represented on the convocation committee by just a handful of students. What suggestions are made for improving the convocation programs have come from these few individuals, and you know very well that the people at risk are in the majority. We are supposed to represent the student body, but in reality we represent ourselves, because we don't know what you have on your minds.

About all we know is that you have signs to give about.

This article is being written in hopes of assuring interest and enthusiasm in the student body to present a suggestion campaign, and to find some reason or basis for your complaints.

Therefore, we would like to enlist the aid of the student body or those seriously interested in bettering the convocation programs. We would like to know what your complaints are and what you suggest for improving our program. We have been complaining too long and doing nothing about it

Write Your Comments

There will be a basket in The Lawrence Hall until March 5, which will give you ample time to bring in your comments. Only in this manner can we, on the convocation committee, represent you, the student body. Write your comments on a slip of paper and put them in a sealed envelope. If you have any suggestions in mind that you have heard, or any subject you would like discussed at the program, write them down. All comments will be brought to your attention before you finish the article. The convocation committee is set up for further your education and are not presented to you for entertainment purposes only. This explains why it is part of the required curriculum and attendance is required.

speech by mckeeon on plato is out of frying pan into fire

The freshman studies classes are now studying Plato's "Republic" and consequently, the annual mass of comments using the word "Plato" as substance flows to our ears. Last Monday it was brought to our attention that the time that had come when some of their questions would be answered or, at least, pealed to these answers would given. At that time they were honored by having Professor McKean, University of Chicago speak about the "Republic of Plato." To the majority of the audience, it seemed that the lecture just added to the confusion of condemnation.

Professor McKean has a wide and varied reputation ranging from UNESCO's activities and other political interests to professor of philosophy and education at the university. With a background like this it would seem obvious that there was a value in having him come to Lawrence to speak. Yet, he seemed to be so far above the understanding of the audience that hardly anyone actually obtained more than some unanswerable notes.
