Goshal States Europeans Must Reorganize Economy

By ANITA HIGGINS

Asserting that his belief that the United States has a grave moral and economic interest in the way Europe is reorganized after World War II, the English author, John Hope, delivered an address in the newly completed American Embassy in Rome. "The United States wishes to see a Europe that will be a bulwark against the spread of Communism," Hope stated in his opening remarks. "We are not interested in the internal politics of Europe, but we are interested in the stability of Europe as a whole." Hope emphasized the importance of economic cooperation among European nations and the need for the United States to invest in European recovery. He called for the establishment of a European Economic Community to promote trade and economic growth.

Gimbels Art Exhibit Reveals A True Picture of Milwaukee

BY PAT BLCM

The Gimbels Centennial Art collection, now on display in Room 4 at the Gimbels downtown Milwaukee store, is a unique collection of paintings by foreign and American artists. It is the most ambitious group the company has ever put on display, with a notable presence from the works of some of the best-known artists of our time.

In any case, they are not the only ones; there is also a notable presence of the works of some of our greatest living artists, as well as those from the 19th and 20th centuries. The collection ranges from the works of early American artists to the modern masters, and includes works by some of the most well-known artists of our time.

One of the highlights of the collection is the work of the American artist Jasper Johns, known for his use of the US flag as a subject in his work. The collection also includes works by other well-known artists, such as Andy Warhol and Salvador Dali.

The exhibit is open to the public and is a great opportunity to see some of the best art of our time, all in one place. It is not just a collection of paintings, but a true picture of Milwaukee, as it is represented by its art.

Ormsby-Brookw Exchange Dinners Rated Successful

By Dave Blackcomb

The normally sedate atmosphere of Sunday dinner at Brookw hall's bachelor dorm, was disrupted by an invasion of pretty, well-dressed female guests. Oddly enough, the same thing happened at Ormsby, the freshman men's dormitory.

This was all brought about by the concerted efforts of Don Brown and Maurice Brown and the operators under them, in a forthcoming effort to aid the freshman class financially. The program will be continued next Sunday so that all of the freshman men will have eaten at least one meal at Brookw and Vice versa for the ormsby men.

I'm done with arguments, and here is the story:

He was so full of hope and dedication that he was almost sick with the roar of a parachute. For a few seconds he was a firework, he was a spark, he was a scene. It was a beautiful, white, cold snow day. For a few seconds he was on the edge of the cliff, on the edge of the unknown, on the edge of the sky. He was lost in the clouds, flying for dear life. "Impulsive, I call him," said one of the elderly men. "But what we should do is trust him, because he is a true friend." To the others he looked down, but to them he held his head high. He stood, not as a man, but as a hero. He stood as a hero to the others. He stood as a hero to the family. He stood as a hero to the world.

When the sun rose, the morning was clear. He stood on the edge of the cliff, with his arms spread wide. "Wings," he said, "you must fly." "Wings," he said, "you must take flight." "Wings," he said, "you must soar." "Wings," he said, "you must be free." "Wings," he said, "you must fly."

The morning was clear. The sun rose, and the morning was clear. He stood on the edge of the cliff, with his arms spread wide. He stood as a hero to the others. He stood as a hero to the family. He stood as a hero to the world.

The basketball season ended last Saturday night when the Lawrence Backs couldn’t pull out of their own zone-throw which began late in the game after they scored a point. It was their worst defeat of the season with a seven game losing streak, and the boys wound up the season with a total of ten wins and eight losses. Their conference record was 8 and 6 for fifth place. This record is less than one of the teams who had early season success. They won their first game and a total game record going into the Cornell game. For eight season things would have turned out differently. A good showing in the conference was unexpected. Who happened? Maybe, we’re playing it out last year we finished in seventh place. The Carroll tassel was the last.
