Goldberg Proves Superb In First Chopin Concert

BY KEITH RYER

A concert review that is sure to appear a week after a performance has an advantage over a review which must meet a deadline. This is particularly true when the concert is such as the Raymond Goldberg recital at Memorial chapel on Wednesday, December 5. The audience was treated to a program of music temporal but of substance which may last and become a part of the listener's musical life. The concert reflected the quality of the musicians and the conductor. They matched tone with a clear yet tasteful music. Although the concert was at times overpowered by the general volume of the program, the audience heard what they wanted heard. The majestic style of the symphony permitted a wide variety of music, rather than maintaining a consistently serious program.

The performance reflected the quality of the musicians and the conductor. They were sensitive to the type of music being performed, allowing the music and the conductor to direct the work. Brokaw counselors formulate plans for better scholarship

Realizing that a large number of residents are on probation, Bro- kaw counselors are formulating plans by which study habits of new- men might be improved. George Walter, resident advisor and dean of men, revealed this work.

Study suggestions and aids for improvement of scholarship will be included in a handbook which will be presented to all incoming men in October. The handbook will also be presented for study the year Monday night under the leadership of Kenneth Byler, dean of the college. The organization has made great pro- gress in its development, according to Byler's guidance and in- tensive nature of the yearbook.

Walter hopes that the handbook will help the freshmen in understanding school work. The program opens with Cere- activities and classes but among them may be taken a first concert of the orchestra with its talented music director Kenneth Byler.

This week, the orchestra opened their season with a concert at Lawrence. At the opening concert, the orchestra opened their season with a concert at Lawrence. At the opening concert, the orchestra performed a selection of the work of Tchaikovsky, and an excerpt of the work of Fritz Loegering. The orchestra also presented a selection of the work of Beethoven and Mozart.

The lyrical and contem- porary qualities were very well brought out and the ground bass in the last variation was particularly in- teresting.

The program in K Fl M by Stadtehut was charming and dia- monial in mood; the orchestra created some very good effects.

The musical qualities were brought out to perfection and to Lawrence in a magnificent perfor- mance.

The Greek column. It is written by Greeks to be read by Greeks. This is sure. Most Greeks are not keeping track of what they are doing. Apparently they wouldn't know otherwise.

We regret to inform you that there is no romance at Lawrence at least not this week. It must be the cold weather, we wouldn't know otherwise.

Phi Delta Theta
At last the holiday season arrived. Christmas party was held last Sunday night. The pledges had something to do with it. In fact it was held so long that the halls of Phi Delta Theta were echoing with loud music.

We went. An original thing to do, according to the arrangers of the event. We opened doors. There were those who say that Jack Wilcox, Ken Anderson and Bill Miller had something to do with it. It was enough to make one pensive.

MRS. R. K. BIRD

The chapter hopes for their generosity which made it possible for our party to run so smoothly.

We wish to thank the Sig Eps for their warmth and kindness, especially the Kappa Alpha Thetas, for their generosity which made it possible for our party to run so smoothly.

We all enjoyed meeting and talking with our new Province President.

Phi Kappa Tau
Kappa Delta did a real thing by helping us with our Christmas party.

Kappa Delta Phi
Alpha Sorority, president of Kappa Delta, wrote her article this week talking about the existence of Lawrence sororities.

Among other things, she said: "... Jilah Adams deserves credit for the lovely tea given in the room of her last name. She did not give us her real name!"

Christmas spirit is what everyone was supposed to have after we got together for our annual Christmas party. Monday night Burgundy, roses, presents for all, DXOs that is. In this world of even and even Christmas spirit before, we made your corporate spirit attend in CARE packages to the needy of the nation, all of which is still going on.

We were using some of it here in the donation of the children's ward in the hospital.

Contrary to reports in this column last week that Beverly Kevel was the last member of the pledges to arrive, she was first. Phi Phi chair was able to participate in the USO benefit show this year.

We had coffee and donuts at 2pm, providing suspense until that hour. At 2:30 Theta Chi Thompson and one of his members were down from the North Pole. He was last heard saying everything was as good as he said it would be. No one, of course, had even heard of it.

Festivities will last through the night. We wish to thank the Sigma Chi brothers for their part in this the Lawrence United Charities.

East Central College
Holds Study Panel
Pittsburgh, Pa. (P.) — S. U. Study
techniques was the topic of a town meeting of Pennsylvania college for Women freshmen recently, and the first year women managed to line a barrage of questions on the subject to a faculty panel.

Among questions of particular interest to the students were these:
1. Where is English am, I going to be taught to take notes?
2. I never look a note in high school and now I hear every day that good notes are important. Staff members answered that there is freedom that they can be taking notes especially those which are the better method.
3. How can I work out a system that will make it possible for me to use assigned reference books when there are only 15 required for 10 students? (Note: This meeting group has been set to make the available reference editions of reference books for student comparison of the course and compare the importance between important and unimportant features)
4. Where staff members ask of our "customs" do they really worth what we think or do we receive a higher grade if we repeat what the faculty members think?
5. How can I learn to work every exercise as fast as possible?
6. What staff members ask of objective examination in the high school.

A Faculty Check

The field of extra-curricular activities is currently being studied by a sub-group of the faculty committee of administration. The sub-committee may surprise many of us and come out with some startling proposals.

Subsiding Winds

Despite a 52 per cent rise in tuition rates over 1941-42, at least one-fifth of all private colleges and universities in the United States will operate with a deficit this year, a government survey shows.

Last June, President Nathan Pusey declared before the Lawrence board of trustees: "Many people look to the federal government to bail them out of the situation. My own feeling is that this is a mistake and that each institution must solve the problem for itself."

In Chicago last month, several leading educators, including university presidents, defended themselves in favor of significant financial aid to improve the quality and quantity of higher educational facilities as to eliminate economic barriers facing many students and to provide a professional school education.

The Chicago meeting was a conference sponsored by the American Council on Education. The purpose of the meeting was to stimulate discussion of the particular subject of federal aid to higher education and it was headed by President Byron S. Holmstedt of Northwestern University, who was elected to take the main responsibility for financing an system of grants-in-aid for tuition and subsistence to students who have both need and ability.

Meanwhile, Earl McGrath, federal commissioner of education, urged the federal government to establish yearly scholarship worth about $350,000, in addition to a program of student loans and aid to two million students who are now defrayed by the federal money. John M. Fothergill, who was elected to take the main responsibility for financing an system of grants-in-aid for tuition and subsistence to students who have both need and ability.

Greek Aims: Sororities

BY ALICE RAY BECKER

Sororities, imperfect though they may be, are a tangible asset in the Lawrence college. They fulfill several definite needs of the campus, and although these needs could be met in other ways, the existence of such organizations provides the most remission with Lawrence women than the investment means of "accomplishing" it. The "gay nineties," or the forties, they will say the last time that we undertook to "be an Englishman." From the time that a major, blundering effort, I am sure, is a tangible asset to the campus.
