'Contributor' Deadline Set For April 15

Prize Manuscripts To Be Published

In Spring issue

"The deadline for second semester Contributor manuscript has been extended to April 15. John Arickelshick, editor, announced Tuesday. Students are urged to complete their creative work and submit it by this time. He added that short stories, poetry and articles may be submitted for the spring issue. Submissions are due at the Lawrenceian office, in sealed envelopes.

It is traditional that work received after this date will not be considered for publication. "It is impossible," Mr. Arickelshick explained, "to edit and produce a book in time for the beginning of May."

Submissions will be returned from the contributors with the Editor's芽 note. This is because he believes the work is not of sufficient merit to be published. Publication date for the spring issue has been set for May 15.

AF Deputy Arrives to Discuss ROTC

Mr. Chester D. Schenck, deputy chairman, U. S. Air Force will be on the campus Thursday, April 7, to discuss the ROTC unit with Dr. Grover Sabestruct and will meet with representatives of management, HCWC and student government. He has served as president of the University of Wisconsin, Rupon, Beloit, Carroll, and Davenport colleges.

The film, released in 1948, stars Judith Anderson, Michael Chekhov, "You surely don't want to go out­side in this weather, do you? After all, we're going to stop having coffee hours, but you can still get coffee."

Beverly Buchman (left) and Diane Mann, juniors at the Lawrence Conservatory, will bring a novel program before Lawrence recital-goers when they present their two-piano recital at Peabody Hall tonight. Two-piano programs fall into the category of the unusual, since students do not often attempt them.

Manny, Buchman Give Piano Recital Tonight in Peabody Hall

BY STEVE BUSH

This evening at eight o'clock in Peabody hall, Beverly Buchman and Diane Mann will perform a double piano recital. Both are juniors and are students of Mr. Timothy Miller.

This is the first of two such recitals which will be presented from Mr. Miller's studio. However, it is the only one to include a two piano work: Stravinsky's Sonata for Two Pianos.

 Igor Stravinsky finished this sonata in 1946. It was the result of his desire to see more of two piano compositions in concert literature. He began his own career as a concert pianist.

In thematic content, the Sonata for Two Pianos has both conventional playing different melodies at the same time; and player has the principal theme while the other has the subordinate. Not until recent years has the two piano medium become very popular with composers. A list of those would include Mr. Rachmaninoff, Vaughn Williams, and Prokofiev. This is the first performance of the Stravinsky sonata at Lawrence college.

The rest of their recital will be

Existingistial Hits Lawrence;  "No Exit," by Sartrre, Next Tues.

BY DICK PETERSON

On Tuesday, the 15th of March, at 7:30 o'clock at the Memorial Union— a play will be presented. It is a good play with good action, but there is much more to it than that. The play is "No Exit," and its author is a French writer, who has started a literary and philosophical fire which, in certain parts of the world, is spreading into a revolution. It is true that he lit it with a burning stick from a fire that was already there; but, nevertheless, it is in many respects distinctly his own. His name is Jean-Paul Sartre.

Many of you have heard of this man and his work and are interested in learning more about him. Many more of you have not heard of him and are not interested in learning anything about him.

There is very little that can be said to these two groups because the farmer will go to the play; the later will stay away. There is, however, a third group, these people who are interested in comedy and literature and would, if given the chance, enjoy this play. We urge you to attend it.

A little introduction to Sartre and his play is in order here. Sartre is the leading proponent of a philosophical doctrine which can be termed existentialism. There are two separate levels in the expression of his thought. One is a strictly philosophical and is very difficult to understand. The other level is literary and is an offshoot of the philosophical. Sartre's plays, like his novels, are of this level and, of course, do not contain the deep philosophical meaning that is often read into them.

"No Exit!" however, it is possible to glimpse many ideas, although complete understanding of them is quite another matter. The play is mainly concerned with three people in hell. This hell is clearly different from that envisioned by the living: here there are three, Garcin, Ines, and Estelle, who are condemned to each others company forever. They are different in all but one respect — each committed some act which was the culmination and defining point of their lives. Therefore the relationship of earthly values, which changes in that sense they "choose their hell."

The greater part of the play is a matter of each one's stripping bare his life. Estelle and Garcin attempt to change this, but Ines is the voice of theatre in the sense that she states the basic existential theme of the play: "You are — your life, and nothing else."

The Madrigal Singers are being held every Wednesday at 7:30 o'clock at the Memorial Union, in the Alexander gymnasium. Marilyn Donahue announced that if 12 o'clock hours will be given to all women March 21 the night before Spring vacation. This will not be the regular procedure before all vacations, but it is granted now because of the all-college mixer to be held on that night.

May Day festivities are being planned for May 11, Mothers' Day. In case of bad weather, the chapel will be held at the Alexander gymnasium. A tea will be held at the union following the activities. Joan English and Marybeth Kerner are new organizing committees to help with this tradition.

Realization of this by the others is the final step and the play comes in to a close on a note of recognition as dramatic as life itself. The play is directed by Jack Segunet, and the parts of Garcin, Ines, and Estelle are taken by Bob Skokowsky, Georgia Hunter, Carolyn Mayer and David Koplin, respectively.

Radio "Ham" Joe Schroeder, Delta Tau Delta, has set up a branch office in his dormitory room and continues to practice his international hobby on campus. So far he has contacted over 100 foreign countries. Rumor has it that he also has walkie-talkie communication with number-one-gal Jill Moore, who has been seen raising the antenna of Sago.

Dolf Joe Schroeder Never Waits To Use Telephone—He's a Ham!

"Come on, Harry, get off that phone!" One member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity who wouldn't have to go through the usual waiting for the phone is Joe Schroeder Jr., a junior from Wilmot, Illinois. He has his private "phone" and can reach such places as Tangier, Ibadan, New Guinea, and Malta, and it doesn't cost him a cent.

Joe is a radio "ham" who has his own short-wave radio installed in the Delta Tau Delta house. His actual station is set up in his home in Wilmot where Joe built it while he was in high school. Amateur stations can be set up for as low as $10, and a few sets have been on the air as much as $25,000. A good station can be built for about $200.

The "ham" usually buys the receiver and builds everything else. Joe's Wilmot call-letters are WJU with the addition "portable" for his Appleton call-letters.

Recently Joe was awarded membership in the DX Club, the exclusive society of amateur radio operators who have made two-way radio contacts with at least 100 of the more than 200 countries of the world. Schroeder's is the 143d amateur station to achieve the 100 contacts goal in 1951.

Actually Joe has made contact with 120 countries, but only 104 written confirmations have come through in the form of QSL (Acknowledgment) cards. This point is required by the rules of the Club. Certificates are given for each additional 10 country groups above 100.

There are five low frequency amateur bands available in the "ham" during the early stages, the entire short-wave spectrum was given to the amateurs, and only the higher frequency bands were given to the broadcasting stations; that section was reserved for church services, and short-wave was enjoyed for only a short time. There are also wave bands available which are of higher frequencies than the television frequencies.

The American Radio Relay League and foreign radio societies sponsor contests in which the object is to see how many contacts you can make in a limited amount of time. Joe has made as many as 4 contacts in 5 minutes. In direct contrast is a conversation which lasted 24 hours — try that in a public phone booth sometime.

Joe's most recent foreign contact was with a "ham" in Tangier, who works for the Voice of America there. And what do a "ham" in the United States and a "ham" in Tangier talk about? Yes, shop-talk. He has talked to Russians whose language was enjoyed for only a short time. He has talked to Russians whose conversation was in French Morocco, Germany, and Japan; in 1947 and 1948 he made many contacts with foreign persons who have the time and the money to make these hobbyists usually well educated.

A service that the "hams" provide is "phone-pitching," for instance, if a serviceman in Japan wanted to talk to his family in the United States, he would call "ham" in his home town who would connect his transmitter to the private phone. Radios "hams" are of varied values in war work. A friend of Joe's was snowbound in Northern Michigan on his honeymoon. With the set in his car attempted to have their "hams" find out about our equipment and to ask for radio parts to be sent so they could make copies of them.

Joe has not been successful in their attempts.

The "hams" group makes favorable impressions overseas. Almost all of Joe's foreign contacts have been English speaking countries, since foreign persons who have the time and the money to make these hobbyists usually well educated. Frosh, Sophs Capture School Wrestling Meet

In the all-college wrestling tournament held last weekend, underclassmen walked off with top honors. Only one junior and no seniors were in the finals, indicating that wrestling at L. W. is on the rise. The frosh take this year's championship with a total of 48 points. Carleton earned third place with a time of 80 seconds. Chicago's Dick Lougee's distance medley relay team won the high game for the week. Frosh Ken Hurlbut won the 177 pound title, besting Don Zinn, 7-0. Abe Olganian and Butch Matheus had trouble getting together due to other campus activities — their match was postponed for the week. Frosh Ken Morales won the 17 pound title, beating Don Zinn, 7-0. Preston 8-2 to cop heavyweight.

Basketball

In games last Saturday the Ithaca Bombers trounced the Phi Tau 70-54. The game was held at the Union. As the Phi Delta, Leroy Ciesielyck paced the Phi Taus in the match with 28 points, he would win the high game for the week, averaging 177. Meanwhile the Dels went half of a round back in their first game, but with a loss of 24 to 18.

At Square Dance Party Tomorrow afternoon the Phi Dels and Indies meet in a basket dance with the Phi Delts and Indies meeting in a basketball match in the student union at 8:00 pm when the Campus club will hold a square dance party. There will be a special feature of square dancing — slapping each other on the back with a baseball bat. Girls have picked partners for admission duties and will begin checking in at 8:00 pm. Pray will continue until the middle of April according to Barbara Spangler, admission manager.

Shopping Wins Bet

(APC) Two Harvard university students have won a shopping spree for recreation — shopping each other's wardrobes in the Student Union. They claimed at first that they were running a bet for a Russian record of 17,500 points, but later admitted they were trying to win a bet with the Beta Theta Pi fraternity. They said they were trying to win a bet with the Beta Theta Pi fraternity, and they were promised various items for the winner.

The Press Box

By Bill Conley

Although only the Lawrence wrestling team finished in the top three at the Midwest competition, the entire wrestling, swimming, and basketball teams are showing real improvement.

Swimming coach Ado Dillon will have conference champ Dick Longo back on his hand to defend his 30 and 25 yards and 50 and 100 back, along with this year's Co-Captain Tom Warren. Warren limited that a second winner in his specialty until he broke his foot a month ago. With these two men returning, Dillon can usually count on scoring the top four or first places a meeting depending on the competition.

Dillon will name Co-Captain Bob Fine in keeping Lawrence wrestling strong. A fee of 25 cents will be charged for performances to be held in each member to help pay for the square dance student.

Under your leadership, SEC this year has continued to increase in strength and scope. The Midway conference has grown in importance as an organization for understanding among colleges. It is something the student body constitutes as a whole. SEC committees on administration and instruction. And you have shown a particular consideration of student needs in areas such as athletics, service to basketball games and concerts.

Sincere thanks to all who showed confidence in me, and special appreciation to those who voted for me. My aim is to continue as one group, but for those who worked, a special appreciation of student government is due. Our concern is in the future for students. It is in participation; its guide is honest and open government.

Again, thanks to all of you.
