Mexico Comes to the Campus
In the Person of Maria Alarcon

BY HELEN CASPER

Maria Alarcon is enthusiasm personified. In her arms are a little Mexican girl and a little Mexican boy. She has just returned from a trip to Mexico, her country of origin.

Maria is a Lawrence alumna, and she has been teaching in Mexico for the past two months. She taught English to American students and learned more about her own culture in the process.

Maria is passionate about her country and its rich history. She is particularly fond of Mexico City, which she considers her home.

In between her courses of study, Maria enjoys spending time with her students. She is always ready to share her knowledge and experiences with them.

Maria is a natural leader and has a strong influence on the students she teaches. Her dedication to her work and her love for teaching inspire her students to work hard and achieve their goals.

Maria has been living in Mexico for the past two months, and she plans to return to the United States soon. She is looking forward to seeing her family and friends again.

Maria's love for Mexico is evident in her teaching. She is eager to share her culture and her language with her students, and she is always looking for opportunities to promote Mexican culture.

Maria's journey to Mexico was not easy, but she is grateful for the experience and the opportunity to learn more about her roots.

Maria's story is a testament to the power of education and the importance of cultural exchange. She is a shining example of what can be achieved through careful planning and dedication.

Maria is a true Mexican treasure, and her presence on the Lawrence campus is a reminder of the richness of Latin American culture and history.

Would have liked to have seen a little more interest in the houses Coe project — the team can use plenty of support for the all-important game tomorrow. Even more than another mediocre championship will look mighty good.

Co. Gree scientists on a fine new pledge class — now if they can all just make their grades they’ll be a good addition to the active Coe chapter.

Joh Stewart has had the blue-jumping mustard fixed up just in time for the big game.

Socially, the semester is getting into gear, while tomorrow night will find the Alpha Chi and Psi Kappa bullhorning with wine, rock and song, on the occasion of their combined pledge formals.

Somebody must have taken our advice on the column before they got to the printer last week. We hasten to assure our frustrated writers that, notwithstanding our persistent urging, we didn’t cut a word from the judging of the description from column last week, some of the excerpts were received from the shack of such casualness.

Cupid just reported a one-hundred per cent increase in romance over the week. Phi Phi, Donna MacDonald is perpetually Hank Spille’s doll, pin, while Alex Jones is wearing their deft Bob Moorer’s golden ring. Needn’t mention on-semester.

Della Tan Delta

Either this paper has become extremely hard up or whatever way you look at it, here’s no column for this week.

How can our sense of humor be appeased if none of us understand the jokes?

Phi Alpha is back. Hank Spille to Donna McDonald and Jean Douglas. Harry Patterson really started moving.

Hank Hallman is writing a new novel. When his wife, Shirley, doesn’t get a letter from Mort, she doesn’t know what to do. Can’t you see that Bachelor Bob is only doing your college a favor.

What is so rare as a day in November? — no work and a chance to loaf up a little. Yes, this is the way we feel after the High Oil and Dredging Tours.

It seems that our pledges are a little lax about the honor in the store. Charlie Sheroncove and Gail will not have a chance to man a joke in the store.

Our suggestions were just confin- ed Chuck Bucklin, one from the dorm, and three fourths from the dorms.

Hank Spille, who is here on a tour, had all the exhibition, and then he received a letter from his college.

Tim Tidman is all set for the season’s most important game; he can turn out in a new uniform.

And then there is our Phi Weber who spent all day studying the men’s room. Phi members are men and they are proud of it.

What Dell just about broke its heart. Dell was caught away from the men in blue Sunday night.

Phi Delta Theta

Since last year’s Private Eye, Phi Deltas. Bob Brandt is still on, Hunny “Meat Watcher” Bowser has over the reins of Captain of the Detectives and is now learning how to “make a light bulb work.” We suggested that “Dick Tracy” Brandt get the men in the union to discuss electrical problems in small room.

We suggest they make their run to the buildings of M M B.

Alpha Chi Omega

Heavy set at the Greek Court. A lot of the girls grilled on the line and their men have pretty busy. We suggest they try it at the next meeting.

The thing we are all interested in is the meeting with the Coe chapter of the Interfraternity Council. Good luck to the team, that one is a rough one, we think.

Hank Spille, who is here for an interview for this week’s column will surely be able to discuss that.

Our next meeting was spent serenading some of our pledges this Saturday with Jimmy Davis and Cap Mac. We must admit that the group of gals was not entirely conversant with the traditionally controversial pledge songs.

We’re on the way to a new chapter.

The purge is on. Either this paper is going to be cut or we’ll be cut.

Prediction. of Things to Come:

Don’t forget the book of thoughts of the way the election was held.

It’s a big success. Part of the evening was spent in a social Tight after a quiet weekend.
