Concert Choir Excels
In Campus Performance

BY DOROTHY DRAHEIM

Eighty singers and a handful of talented instrumentalists proved once again that the concerts given by the Lawrence college choir have a vitality and variety that change from year to year and yet retain the highest quality of musicalism.

LaVahn Maesch, in his third season as director, presented his ensemble at Memori al church, the day of Miss Isabelle Mc urnes" by Claude Debussy. The first part of "Nocturnes," entitled "Nuages," translated "Clouds," portends the unchangeable appearance of the sky, with the slow and solemn march of the clouds dissolving in the gray of the sky. "Feteux" or "Festivals," the middle movement of the composition, is characterized by movement and rhythm dancing in the atmosphere with bursts of brick light. The sea and its innumerable rhythms are heard in "Sirenes," the final movement.

The program is as follows: Concerto for Orchestra in D Major,...

Dormitory Decorations
Use Harmonized Pastels

Pastels in shades of green, yellow, rose, gray, and light blue will be used in the rooms of the new women's dormitory.

The rooms have been planned so that the plaster tile floors harmonize with the motif of each room and the drapes, which will be used in place of window shades, will be in various patterns to blend with the color scheme.

Easy chairs will have cushions to go with the color predominating each room.

The drapes will be provided in each room, and they will be in patterns with either yellow, deep blue, or pastel shades predominant. They will reach just below the windows.

Desk lamps are provided for each room. These will have two bulbs and will work either with a single or both bulbs, somewhat along the lines of a fluorescent light. The lamps will be of a modern style, with a satin chrome finish and white plastic shades.

The light fixture in each room will be a ceiling light which can be turned on with a wall switch.

Next week, samples of the drapery material and the wall and floor color schemes will be on display in the Deans' office.

Last week was indeed a too much to resist come next year.

The official voting in connection with the proposed point system is to take place today in the WRA meeting. The main change in this system consists of running so many sports on a supremacy award basis with the exclusion of all individual sports. Under the new system there will be point given for each prize of the four top spots in a non-junior sport not a point for each position which she participates.

Tennis Anyone?

The five number one through number five spots on the tennis team are very closely contested, giving the squad good depth. At the present time, Phil May holds down the number five spot, number one man, Dick Weber, number two, Dennis DeMets, number three and Kerry Ainsworth, number four. Rine and DeMets are the only two returning lettermen after losing Dick Gast and Junior O'Sull from last year's squad.

The number two and four men, Weber and Ainsworth, the start of practice two weeks ago, has begun to develop into a team with championship possibilities. According to Coach Chester Hill, the team has shown considerable improvement in just two short weeks of practice.

Fencing Born as Man Greets Neighbor in Friendly Gesture

BY MIKE CUSICK

Fencing, as ancient a sport as one will find, began when the first man picked up the first club and swung at his neighbour.

Today, all large colleges boast fencing, which has become a bit more refined through the ages, and which, according to Instructer Bernard Rasey de-opponent and breaking through his guard to "touch" him so felicitously as "deceiving without being deceived."

Foil fencing, which has been a sport at Lawrence for the past seven years and may be taught in the future, is not taken for gym credit, restricting student interest and backing.

Baseball would detract from the other spring sports, it is speculated, and the members of the athletic department would not block an England and Hungarian children affair usually dominate the tennis, or track would go out for it instead. I do not think so. Lawrence team if they felt that were taught to fence from the National Olympic games in that sport.

I firmly believe that a group the student body was sufficient to engage in the sport, and they themselves would probably be interested.

Lack of funds, the first consideration, is possibly the most important and the one on which several of the others hinge. Baseball is not nearly as expensive to conduct as football, the costs approximating those of basketball or track.

I do not at present propose a method for obtaining additional funds, but I am sure that if there was enough interest in the sport, a satisfactory solution would be forthcoming.

Lack of coaching personnel by a subsidiary objection, revolving about the necessity for adequate funds. The addition of baseball to the Lawrence sports picture would require a fourth man on the coaching staff. As Coach Anderson will no longer coach the swim squad next year, a fourth man is already needed and could serve in both capacities.

Weather complications, a minor consideration, have been solved by St. Olaf, Carleton, Ripon, and many of Wisconsin's northern high schools, and undoubtedly could be resolved by Lawrence.

As Whiting field does not present an adequate playing surface, a Vike baseball team would have to locate somewhere in town for a diamond. There are at least three fields in town, one of which could probably be rented.

Ripon, Oshkosh State, St. Olaf, Carleton, the Milwaukee schools and conference foes would provide adequate competition for any team Lawrence could field.

Lawrence should not have a manpower shortage in any sport, but unfortunately we do have several of the others hinge.

The most common way to earn points is by outfoxing an opponent and breaking through his guard to "touch" him so felicitously as "deceiving without being deceived."

The sport of fencing flourished on both sides of the Atlantic and Europe following the invention of the Atlantic although Americans have never equalled their European counterparts.

The countries in which fencing was once a life and death sport and fencing clubs sprang up everywhere. From 1903 on, the sport of fencing flourished on both sides of the Atlantic and Europe following the invention of the Atlantic although Americans have never equalled their European counterparts.

The Dean's Office has recently announced that four national fraternities have applied for establishment of chapters on campus. With this statement a situation has been brought to light that merits the attention of any person who has a concern for the culture and the maintenance of its strength in the educational world.

The selection at this time of any fraternity which embodies the character of the college is an affair of great importance. For this reason, the administration of the college has decided to establish an ad hoc committee to examine the qualifications of the fraternities and to make recommendations on their future affiliation with the college.

The committee should be composed of men who are familiar with the standards of the college and who have a desire to see that the college continues to maintain its standards in all areas of its curriculum. The committee should also include representatives from the faculty, the student body, and the alumni, in order to ensure a balanced representation of interests.

The committee should begin its work immediately and make its recommendations to the president within the next four weeks. The president will then make final decisions on the future affiliation of the fraternities with the college. It is hoped that these recommendations will be in the best interests of the college and the students.
