Lawrence college opened its development fund drive for three new buildings last Sunday evening with over half of its $940,000 goal reported. Guy E. McCorison, general chairman of the development fund for Greater Green Bay, announced at a théater-off meeting, held at the Memorial Union, that $490,000 of the $800,000 goal has been secured. This goal represents a total of a center-theater, a science dormitory, and a sixth quadrangle house.

President Douglas M. Knight, president of the College, spoke of the many reasons for a campaign such as this. He pointed out that it is a national reason for Lawrence to have large plans for itself, particularly in view of the growing population needs with which the tax supporting educational institutions all over the nation.

The theater-conservatory will not only be served not only the students at the college, but it will also serve anyone in the Fox River Valley who can benefit from a play or concert, every church will

Gives $50,000

For Colman

A $50,000 gift from the Kresge foundation of Detroit, to complete the financing of the new Lincoln Dining-colman hall on the Lawrence college campus, was announced by President Douglas M. Knight.

President Knight said: "We are grateful to the Kresge foundation for the additional $50,000 to help complete the building before December 31, 1955, and that conditions have altered enough to make the additional gift possible.

The building is named for Dr. George E. Colman, professor of English in 1960-1965 who was also interested in the arts and the drama and in student life. He was one of the principal architects of the formation of the Kresge foundation.

The gift was made as a provision to the provision of additional funds in the Memorial University, that $940,000 of $940,000 towards the goal of $1,900,000 will be made available to the college.

The theater-conservatory will not only be served not only the students at the college, but it will also serve anyone in the Fox River Valley who can benefit from a play or concert, every church will

What the Gods Hath Wrought!

(Mattie L. Price and the Ripon College Class of 1956)"...and  as the multitudes cried out among themselves, saying, 'Hold on, hold on!' and they marveled among themselves, saying, 'What is this which we have heard, and what is this which we have seen against?'... So the men arose and got them up out of their land and came into Ripon, and with them came a great multitude, bringing a brass hand, and very many manitou, and in the sound of the very great, and they cried aloud, saying, 'L...i...u...u...e',... which, being interpreted, means nothing but 'Sash!'... Then, appeared the Ripon band, and they were mighty and wonderously bared eight and two, very good to look upon. And upon and upon, the en-...
Bel Canto Trio Exhibit Poise, Fine Interpretation in Concert

BY GLYNN ROUND

The Bel Canto Trio, featured guests on the Artist Series Monday evening, were certainly artists in the true sense of the word. The trio singing by Pierette Alarie, soprano, Leopold Simoneau, tenor, and Theodore Uppman, baritone, were very enjoyable, with each voice blending pleasingly with the interpretation and coordination being above criticism. Each member of the trio proved to be a fine actor as well as a singer. However, it was difficult to understand the lyrics at times.

The enthusiasm of the audience was clearly evident in the generous applause, approving nods and reluctance to leave after only one encore. Miss Alarie was far more pleasing in the two arias she sang than in the duets and trios she shared in performing. Her voice was true and clear in the intricate trills. In his two arias, Leopold Simoneau displayed an outstanding gift for "spinning out" long tones. His control of pianissimo tones was excellent. Theodore Uppman, the baritone in the trio, possessed the most understandable diction of the three. His fine interpretation and resonant tones gave the audience some of the biggest thrills of the evening. All three performers appeared and sounded as fresh on the encore as on the first number of the evening.

Allen Rogers was a very competent and capable accompanist.

Colman Hall Receives Modern Furnishings

Newly-completed Colman lounge, with its modernistic aspect, has become one of the show places of the Lawrence campus this fall. The chairs, which are predominately in browns, orange and turquoise, are arranged in informal groupings and in one corner of the room is a card table with modern wooden chairs. One side of the room has a wall of windows overlooking the terrace. White fibre glass drapes with colored panels at both ends complete this. Opposite the windows is a brick fireplace and hearth. The wall around the fireplace is wood-pained. The grey rug with its deep pile provides a final touch and adds much extra warmth to the room.

King, Beranis
To Head Drive
For Campus

The appointment of two student co-chairmen for the Lawrence Development Fund for Greater Service were announced recently by Gay E. McCornian, general chairman of the campaign organization. They are Roberto King and Theodore Beranis.

Miss King is a senior and president of Delta Gamma sorority. She has participated in many activities, including Lawrence Theater, Sunset, Messiah, WRA, LUC, Student Handbook chairman and counseling.

Beranis is also a senior and co-social chairman of Sigma Phi Epsilon. He is a member of SAE, RLC, Contributor Editorial board and was New Student Week co-chairman.

In their dual capacity, Miss King and Beranis will be the liaison between the student body and the campaign organization. They will additionally have full responsibility for encouraging student participation in the campaign, whatever form this may take.

McCornian expressed pleasure that Lawrence students would be joining the campaign effort, noting that there are many ways in which students can actively participate as the campaign gains force.

The goal of the campaign is $18,000, which represents the total cost of a new Theater-Conservatory building, a new men's dormitory and a sixth quadrangle house.

International Club Elects

Cloak, Tsurutani Chairmen

Andy Lou Cloak and Takashi Tsurutani were named co-chairmen of the International club at a recent meeting of the group.

Dennis Oedekirk was elected secretary and Fred Sundin, treasurer. Manuel Arango is in charge of publicity and Carol Stephens and Ed Smith are co-chairmen of the entertainment committee.

The International club was formed for the purpose of encouraging and helping the students (both American and foreign) widen their horizon in interest, knowledge and understanding of the cultures and peoples of the nations outside the United States.

In the past, the club was thought to be only for foreign students, something which the present members hope to correct. Plans are underway for the second meeting of the club. It is scheduled for 8 o'clock Wed. night and will present a talk on his native country. All foreign students on campus will be invited to attend.

HANNEMANN'S GREENHOUSE
Seeking Homecoming Victory
Over Ripon in League Play

It's homecoming time again and football is king here at Lawrence. The Vikings will clash with Pete Kassen, former star at Clintonville High school.

The "Redmen" will have to treat it at their best to penetrate the tough front wall of the Vikings, with such stalwarts as Charlie Thompson, Jack Greer, Jim Reiskitz, and Bob Hallett.

If the Vikings can pull this game out of the fire, they will have won the state championship title with a 2-1-2 record.

The contest should be an exciting one to watch, matching two teams with approximately equal ability, and should prove for an interesting Homecoming.

Olaf Upset by Cornell; Knox Slays in First

The following week the men's intramural athletic teams turned their break into a constant threat to those teams. The Vikings began their season by tying Monmouth 30-6. St. Olaf was completely outplayed by Cornell, going down to business as they capitalized on Grinnell miscues to gain its second victory. Each took a first and ten-mile runner for the Betas with Neil Saunders, of Appleton, in the conference cross-country championship with a time of 16 minutes and nine seconds.

The Cheering Section

BY MAR & BOBBIE

WRA

If you've ambled by or into the conclave of late, you have doubtless found that Mrs. Bateman and our newest addition, Mrs. Seals, are in good voice and singing condition for the upcoming Maring sports season.

The WRA board treated the freshmen to an entertaining by putting the junior and sophomore DAMS in the role of singing "The Marriage of Figaro". COVERING THE ACTIVITY is tending to cover up the flimsy eleven last week. With Kathy Karst and Sue Ruehler capturing the freshman teams, the beanee wearers had a difficult season.

The sophomores also were prominent, for out of their ensemble they were unable to scrape up the motley eleven needed for play.

We imagine five courses are being swung these ladies and they are doubtless trying to achieve exceptionally high grade averages. The question is: are they a class or a group of individuals all headed in ten or twelve different directions?

The juniors played with their usual strong team but were hampered by tardiness and, thus, forfeits. The seniors, who showed a tremendous amount of stamina and pep, ran off with the honors in an undefeated season.

Greek Tilts

The Greek hockey harems promise a better season than ever before. The DGs, KDs and ADPs, who have always had strong teams, are running into strong opposition from revitalized Theta and AD Pi groups this fall.

The KDs started the season off by whipping the ADPi's Thursday afternoon. Friday the Thetas put up a remarkable effort only to be beaten by the Delta G's 3 to 2, while the highly inexperienced Chi Os eleven.

Seniors Win Hockey Title

We had our own action (Greek fashion) by covering the activity on the hockey field last week. With Kathy Karst and Sue Ruehler capturing the freshman teams, the beanee wearers had a difficult season. They fought hard but the confidence of the upperclassmen proved overwhelming.

The sophomores were especially prominent, for out of their ensemble they were unable to scrape up the motley eleven needed for play.

Senior Win Hockey Title

BY DAN PRADT

With the season only four weeks old in the Midwest conference, Knox seems to have run out of real competition for the 1956 grid title. When St. Olaf threw in the sponge last Saturday, it cleared the way for the Swedes' first grid title since 1940.

Carleton is now the only team to beat the Bucs in 1956, overall record. Knox holds a left with only one mark in the 24-27 advantage, with 9 ties, lost column. However, Knox, a gridiron feud that dates back to 1901.

I am glad to see that the Big Ten has recovered its winning ways in non-conference games. This is the case after a somewhat rocky experience last week. In its first week the Big Ten had a perfect eight for eight record, scoring one-sided victories over members of the weakened Pacific coast conference. But last week the road fell in, and the Fair West teams, had to play their revenge. However, Michigan's drubbing of Army, and Purdue's truncation of Notre Dame, show that the Big Ten has a still the most powerful conference in the country.
from the editorial board

mistakes granted

The first three issues of the Lawrence student newspaper have been subject to much adverse criticism. Comments have been made about small size, untimely news, poor coverage and make-up, and the mirth provoking typographical errors of our college paper.

The Editorial Board feels that these criticisms are for the most part justifiable. However, it cannot be forgotten that the Lawrencean is operated by a group of amateurs meeting by both time and ability.

Lacking the efficiency and experience of a professional staff, a college paper cannot help making mistakes. Mistakes are a part of our condition.

With this in mind, the Editorial Board will take the following steps in hope of improving the paper.

The president of the Editorial Board is limited to writing the editorials found under the heading "from the editorial board." As of this issue, the editorial board will increase the responsibility to include the general supervision of the quality and the make up policy of the paper. We will work directly with the editor-in-chief in producing as fine a paper as possible.

Directly in line with this, the Editorial Board will in the future direct the duties of the editor-in-chief and business manager of the paper subject to the final approval of the Lawrencean Board of Control.

The Board of Control is composed of six students and one faculty member and is responsible to the dean of women, the dean of men, Mr. Kirk, the editor-in-chief, and the business manager of the paper. The present making of the Editorial Board of Control does not lend itself to an active interest in the paper.

A Board of Control made up interested faculty who have experience as editors, teachers, or journalism would further the quality of the paper.

A Board of Control composed of two or three faculty members and a representative of the editorial board, the editor and business manager of the paper should have the ability and interest to offer sound and constructive advice for the management of the Lawrencean.

from your president

Many of us are presently being introduced to the Development Fund program, an organization dedicated to the building of a greater Lawrence University. Perhaps you have heard some gossip? Or maybe you were present at the Carleton Grinnell meeting last Sunday night?

Within a very short time I am sure most of the students will realize that such an organization is necessary. I am sure that no one would doubt that a great organization would be aware and interested in the Development program regardless of what school they may now attend. I only want to suggest that the Carleton-Grinnell meeting was a real open admission of the fact that Lawrence is not the only university to be faced with the financial problems.

Criticism is what keeps a paper functioning in good style. It will tend to be more, if we feel stereotyped and stale if we do not realize their value and influence on the young people of a worthwhile program. The Editorial Board does not stand for criticism, but it will come in the form of a constructive criticism.

Many complaints have been made about happening in the Lawrencean. The issues should be made up and put out by students. All work in doing this should be done by students.

The Lawrencean is a student newspaper, run, managed, and put out by students. All work in doing this should be done by students.

With this in mind, the Editorial Board will take the following steps in hope of improving the paper.

The students' responsibility concerning the LIC program of religious activity still begins. As a student president, as a student director, the students are responsible for considering this inactive organization and making any suggestions that they, as students, feel that this organization needs.
