Virtue, Morality Labeled as Chastity Queens Chosen

At a recent meeting of the Committee on Action, steps were taken to eliminate the present system of electing Beauty Queens and vote-in their ballots in the vestry of their own choosings. The slate was set for the election to be held on Friday, March 15, and the votes will be counted on the same basis as they have been in the past years. Only the criterion for election would be changed. Students would vote for five girls that best exemplified the qualities of virtue and general morality. This will be held in high esteem," explained the bulletin.

The idea was approved and put into practice at the Friday evening meeting, and Sunday morning Lawrence students voted on their ballots in the vestry of the Congregational church. Committee members counted the votes that same afternoon, and by Monday morning the results were released to the campus newspaper.

As of this announcement, five Lawrence women reign as Chastity Queens. They are Enid Baxter, M. Schlunck, Amy Schlunck, Rose Neeman and Bertha Groshaus.

Miss Baxter was a member of the Religious in Life Steering Board in 1954 through 1956. She was also on the Phebe Mort Board 1950-56 and was student representative to the Association for Lutherans. Mamie Schlunck is a member of the Student Christian Association, 1955-57, the Union committee and is on the board of the National Council of Girl Reserves of America (Illinois Representative).

Miss Schlunck is a member of Delta Phi Epsilon, an active member of Sigma Xi, a member of Sigma Delta (Wisconsin representative) and Appleton Y.M.C.A. of which she is a member.

Rose Neeman has been a LUC representative from 1954 to 1956 and Standards President for the Zeta Zeta Standards Board-Ornament Hall 1954 and Standards Board-Sage Hall 1955-56.

Miss Groshaus has participated in too kind of activity. The committee stated that the result of this enthusiasm is with which this idea was greeted. The program included a panel discussion of patterns of Lawrence college. Past student body president Rolf Dehmel introduced the speakers of this evening in saying, "The Student Executive council is a place of high esteem, and we would like to have the same esteem after the student responsibility applied to this area of campus activity."

No Activities were on the faculty agenda Thursday after spring vacation week. The students have been sent home newspapers to the Appleton Post-Crescent, and as a result of the committee, a PLATO magazine for future students will be sent home to the students. The four women were selected by last year's student body president, Rose Neeman, and the student body president for this year, Rose Neeman. This year's student body president, Rose Neeman, will be selected by last year's student body president, Rose Neeman, and the student body president for this year, Rose Neeman.

New Look Is Given Sage

In recent months the recreation room at Russell Sage hall has received some vast improvements and more are still to come.

Mrs. Myrtle Webb reports that all the dark, marred furniture in the fourth floor room has been sanded and refinished in blond and the chair seats have been painted black and fitted with rose-tinted slipcovers.

A new Singer electric sewing machine has been received and plans are for a work table and extra lighting in the area.

The alcove in one corner of the room has been partitioned off and clothes racks have been installed for the storage of furs. On the way to completion is the new sewing center.

A wall length bench will be built in under the row of windows facing the front of the building. This is to serve not only as seating but also as a place to stand when girls wish to look out the windows and watch outside activity. The entire room will be lighted with more lamps and ceiling light receptacles. All the windows will be decked with new drapes and the rug renovated. The painting and refinishing was handled by the college painters and the new slipcovers were made by the dormitory's maids.

Other parts of the dorm have also been improved. The dormitory laundry room has been given a new automatic washer and dryer and ironer. In addition, all the washrooms in the dorm have been remodeled.
Bunnies Hop
At Frat Party

Live bunnies will be hopping at the Sig Ep House tonight between nine and twelve o'clock to the music of Jimmy James.

Everyone is invited to this year's Bunny Hop which will be held in the basement of the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity house.

'Sing Sing Wing Ding' Criminals to Appear

'Sing Sing Wing Ding' will be the theme of the Phi Delta Theta party tonight from 9:00-12:00. The house will have the effect of a jail with bars, stone walls plus an actual jail for the "criminals". Handcuffed, the "criminals" will dance to Chet Mauthe's combo.

According to the "criminals" the music will be loud and the drinks will be free.

The appropriate dress for the 'Sing Sing Wing Ding' theme is casual, but no stretch suits.

Two Fined for Tipsy Driving

James O. Purdy, former assistant professor of Spanish at Lawrence College, is the author of a short story titled "You Reach For Your Wraps" in the March issue of Mademoiselle magazine.

Purdy resigned from the college in September, 1955, after a year's leave of absence during which he took to begin serious work in writing. His work was recently "discovered" by Dame Edith Sitwell. His first collection of short stories was brought out last fall in a posh-bound edition by the Academ Foundation, and this coming May another collection will appear in London. New Directions will publish the latter this country next fall. The book's title in America will be "All the Dream Palace."
It was time. Now or never. No use putting it off any longer.

The dial tone of the intracollege phone system buzzed in his ear like an angry hornet. With forced calm he dialed the two numbers. How exactly. How damn easy. That's what they all say. And yet... The short ringing began.

Mamie Schlunck, please!... Thinsoup Hall if you dial Thinsoup Hall, he muttered to himself.

It rang for some time. Then he realized what was going on.

"Thinsoup Hall"... But before he could summon breath to say it, the answer came: "Who is calling?" He could imagine the perplexed desk lady patiently pushing button after button, questingly repeating. "Thinsoup Hall?"

He dialed nine, was about to dial ten, when she inquired: "Are you still there?"

The words of the song faded out as he hung up. Try again. He dialed nine, was about to dial ten, when she inquired: "Are you still there?"

He dialed nine, was about to dial ten, when she inquired: "Are you still there?"

It was just as well that he hadn't said it out loud: the pleasant sounds of the lobby of Thinsoup Hall were cut off. . . .

He slammed the contraption and the pleasant sounds of the lobby of Thinsoup Hall were cut off. . . .

"Now is the time, now is the time..."

The additional hint of his voice once more saying "Thinsoup Hall"... But before he could summon breath to say it, the answer came: "Who is calling?"

The desk lady broke up in his teneness. He had made it! He was heard. And so soon, too. Almost triumphantly he blurted out, "Mamie Schlunck, please!"

Full of shame and remorse, he slammed the door. Within 5 minutes he was in front of Thinsoup Hall, forgetting that you can't speak with your hands raised. It was just as well that he hadn't said it out loud: the pleasant sounds of the lobby of Thinsoup Hall were cut off. . . .

With growing abasement, he walked up to the vacant mouthpiece, until she seemed to question her own reality.

"Thinsoup Hall," she said, as though uncertain of the request. "Who is calling?"

In Poetry Reading Session

"Poetry and Why": was the theme for the Snow Day Poetry Reading Session. Several poems were read from the book "The Three of Us" by Edward Brooks. Brooks was the guest poet for the evening. The poems were well-received by the audience, and the evening was considered a success.

Other Poems Read:
- "The Chieftain" by Edward Brooks
- "Song for the Last Act" by Edward Weekes
- "Spring and Fall" by W.B. Yeats
- "Burnt Norton" by T.S. Eliot

The evening ended with a reading of "The Waste Land" by T.S. Eliot, which was well-received by the audience.

The committee then concluded the session by thanking the audience for their participation and looking forward to the next poetry reading session.

Womens Investigated

A committee was set up to investigate women. The following is the opening paragraph of their eighty-seven page report on Lawrence females.

"The three of us each took one of the dorm rooms. Then we turned on some light and had a look around. The committee felt it necessary to investigate the presence of Phil Kapu Tau that is in style with the times, functionally appropriate, but perhaps misleading in purpose. It was felt by the members of the fraternity that the furniture was well in accord with the desires of the chapter. Following an intriguing lead, the committee then proceeded to the river bank. It had happened that submarine races were being staged that night and activity was at its max-

Announce Many Summer Job Chances for Student Service

More than 1000 students will join projects of the American Friends Service Committee this summer Lewis Haskin, Executive Secretary, announced today. Service projects will be held in mental hospitals, correctional schools, settlement houses, factories, and depressed urban and rural communities. In addition the AFSC will sponsor a variety of study projects centering on current political and social issues.

The projects will be located across the country. All will be interfaith and interracial; many will be international. Participants will live together in groups of about 15. They will draw upon community resources for recreational and educational programs.

Work Camps in the states of New York, Washington and Texas will give young people the opportunity to do manual labor on projects of long-range value. Campers will gain insight into the problems of migrant laborers, Americans Indian and Latin Americans in this country. There are also limited openings for overseas service.

Students will get factory jobs in Internes-in-Industry projects to learn the problems of an industrialized society. Some evenings they will meet with leaders of labor, management and social science. Projects will take place in Chicago, Denver, Louisville, Lynn, Mass., and Pittsburgh.

Summer and year-round Internes-in-Community Service projects will give a practical introduction to urban problems. Working out of settlement houses in Chicago, Louisville and Oakland, volunteers will help integrate ethnic and racial minorities into city life.

First-hand experience with the treatment of problems of mental health and juvenile delinquency will be provided in Institutional Service Unites. Volunteers will work as attendants in mental hospitals, schools for the retarded and correctional institutions. There will be Unites in Arizona, Delaware, Indiana, Maine, New Mexico, New York, Ohio and Oregon.

Community Service Units in Mexico and El Salvador will offer summer or year-round service in Latin American Villages. Volunteers will help in programs of health, education, agriculture, construction and recreation.

Study Programs

In addition to these work programs, there will be a number of study programs.

Peace Caravans will travel among communities in the Middle Atlantic states. Participants will work with churches, service clubs and other groups to stimulate public interest in international problems.

A week-long Institute in Washington, D. C. will examine changing patterns of race relations in America. Participants will visit government and private agencies at the Capital, and make field trips to cities both north and south of Washington.

Projects of the AFSC, an independent organization founded by Quakers, include young men and women of every creed. Application forms or information may be obtained by writing AFSC, 59 E. Madison St., Chicago 1, Illinois.

a profound crisis

The Editorial Board of the Lawrence has been increasingly disturbed at a growing tendency on the part of the Administration. Our awakening awareness concerns the Administration's profoundly distrustful attitude toward the "sexual" activities of the Lawrence student body. We must speak frankly. It has become apparent that the Administration is taking concrete measures in an attempt to curb and channel the students' sexual drives.

The Administration is making a concerted effort to drive the sexual creativity into barren and sterile fields. The profound emphasis placed on activities such as Fraternity Forums, Student Government, Conversations, Artist Series, Films, and Athletics besides the alarmingly important athletic contests and required class attendance is an indication of the de-emphasis on sex at Lawrence.

The Editorial Board feels these frustrating attempts of the Administration must stop! It is of profound concern that corrective measures be taken to regenerate a healthy and vital interest in sex, to insure the development of Lawrence for greater service.

Vanishing Lawrence Scene?

It is Presumably Against such aspects of life at Lawrence as this one pictured above, that the recent and momentous action of the Administration is directed. The Lawrence here reproduces this scene as in the spirit of historical commemoration.

HOW TO GET A "C" IN A COURSE

For those who are trying to bring a 3 point average up to a 4, or to bring an acceptably level, and for those who are any time to remain all times. The most necessary time discounting Saturday, is more than adequate.

NOTE-TAKING: In addition to the possession of a book it is necessary to have a thumbed notebook with you at all times. Writing down notes cannot be underestimated - this is the core of every sincere student's learning. So much for the incoherent mind of every student C student. In this sense of the word, every C student is afraid of underestimating. Therefore, the utmost necessity to keep in contact with your instructor is to have his notes ready for you when he may call on you. and to be familiar with the material. The purpose of these well-timed conferences is to establish a more understanding rapport between yourself and him. Always apologize humble to your previous class absences and express a sincere desire to catch up with the work missed.

TESTS: It is preassumed and undeniably valid knowledge that tests must never be cut. The only preparation necessary for the emotionally disturbing events in a brief survey or your class notes. Read them thoroughly. You must remember that you are to correlate all remaining data. As college professors are inordinately fond of asking one or two questions, the student must have the credit for his flight into the unknown.

FINAL EXAMINATIONS: Approximately the same preparation is employed as is cited above. With the exception that the student should be prepared to be more fixed in the expression of these same embarrassing themes. This may be accomplished by the use of reciting, repressing, rearranging, and undeniably valid knowledge.
