International Club Makes Foreign Students Welcome

International Club would like to begin another season of welcoming a new group of five foreign students on campus. These students will spend a year in the foreign language departments and, in addition to their regular coursework, will engage in extracurricular activities, such as social gatherings and events. They are from various countries and are eager to immerse themselves in American culture and ways of life.

Turid Langeland attended the "gymnasium" in Kristiansand, Norway. Saul Buelvas of Barranquilla, Colombia, is mostly concerned with film classics. Marie-Paule attended the University "gymnasium" in Kristianland, Norway; Saul Buelvas of Barranquilla, Colombia; Paolo Grandi of Italy; and Wolfgang Thiery from Paris, France. Turid Langeland is also interested in economics and linguistics or various foreign customs.

The Conservatory will be Turid Langeland's realm of study as she wishes to pursue a career in economics and to become familiar with the cultural life of the foreign students. The program of study will consist of a cultural orientation which facilitates the exchange of cultural ideas, and have a good command of English.

It was a wet, rainy Saturday, but the Lawrence Vikings routed all the loyal rotters that hoped to pull the elements on September 26, as they routed Grinnell 34 to 12.

Jimmy Schulze, Appleton junior, led the Vikes in their rout since 1957 when they routed Knox 46 to 0.

Lawrence Defeats Runners; Pinks is Winner In 15:50

Grinnell uses their depth to good advantage. However the Beloit game was the first of the season for Monmouth, and perhaps they weren’t quite ready. Their loss to Beloit does not speak much in their favor, however, as Beloit was soundly beaten by St. Olaf three years ago 28 to 15.

In their game with Grinnell, the Scots gained a total of 255 pounds while the Vikes gained 150. Last week they lost an average of 50 yards, dropped seven passes, and was counted on heavily by Coach Bernie Hellson.

As for picking a winner, judging on past record, Lawrence is favored to even up their won-lost record at 1 - 1. Lawrence is favored to win.

Let’s Have Another One; Just Like the Other One

Tomorrow the Vikes face their first away-from-home foe as they journey to Monmouth, Illinois, to face the Scots. The Scots’ record equals Lawrence’s as each has won one and lost one. Monmouth won their opening game by sliding past Grinnell 8 to 5. Last week they lost an equally even contest to Beloit, 9 to 8.

Lawrence’s chance at upending the defending champions. Ron Simon was able to finish sixth, and was steered on to peak condition as yet because of a leg injury suffered by sliding past Grinnell 8 to 6. Last week they lost an average of 50 yards, dropped seven passes, and was counted on heavily by Coach Bernie Hellson.

As for picking a winner, judging on past record, Lawrence is favored to win. Lawrence should win.

A rare opportunity is in store for Lawrenceans on October 18 when Dr. Thomas A. Dooley, who is what one could call an independent medical missionary to the communist-threatened land of Laos, will speak at Lawrence’s Memorial Chapel at 8:30 that evening. Dr. Dooley, who became interested in the Southeast Asian countries while the conflict with the Navy in the South Pacific, has written two best-selling books; the royalties going to MEDICO, a non-profit organization created to set up hospitals in remote areas. The subject for his talk will be taken from his experiences throughout the jungles of Laos. Tickets will be on sale for a dollar in the dormitories, the faculty office of Main Hall and in the Deans’ offices.

My thanks for the words of the author of a second anonymous editorial which appeared the other day in the girls’ dormitories. The excellent answer to the mind-slinging of the original anonymous student saved me the trouble of writing a scathing editorial which merely, would have said, “Why is the anonymous author of the critical paper afraid to be known.” The answer it seems would be quite obvious if this name were known; the bitterness of this question states that no upperclassmen were associated with freshmen during rush week. It should be obvious that the rule was purposely written so as to prevent the independents and in no way governs them, any assumption that we must abide by these rules is completely false. It is perfectly permissible for any independent to talk with, eat with, and fraternize with freshmen.

This misunderstanding reflects a general lack of thought on the part of upperclass men. It is disheartening to think that these individuals have so clouded their conception of social life that they do not see the distinction between the sphere of the social and the greater sphere of campus life as a whole. The fault lies just as much with independents who have not taken enough interest in campus society to define their own rights. Since they do not have a pus society to define their own responsibilities for them, it is all the more important for them to define their own rights and responsibilities individually.

MAESCH IS AUTHOR

Maesch is national president of the Music Teachers National Association, and so much was asked to write a president’s article for the magazine. During the coming year, Maesch will conduct concerts throughout the United States and Canada, and in the calendar at present are gallery concerts in Ann Arbor, Mich.; Louisville, Ky.; Watertown, Minn.; and Eugene, Ore.

TO THE EDITORS:

There seems to be a general misunderstanding here. Independents are subject to Panhellenic jurisdication. The problem is simply one of interpretation of rules. The independents and in no way governs them, any assumption that we must abide by these rules is completely false. It is perfectly permissible for any independent to talk with, eat with, and fraternize with freshmen.

"Taste: sensations... excited... by the... action of the gustatory nerves...

Dear Editor:

Thursday morning, in connection with an out-of-town engagement, I found myself involved in a conversation with a friend of mine. As we discussed the question of why we have religious convocations, this queer plea lared, the first time in all my experience that the question came to my mind. I thought that the better the answer, the better the question. It seemed to me that if I were able to learn the purpose of those convocations, I would be able to appreciate them more.
