Overwhelming Acceptance
Of Open Dorm Suggestion

Majority Favor Policy in Both Men’s and Women’s Dormitories

A large majority of the campus feels that there is a lack of privacy at Lawrence College. It was found by a student research worker, Ninety-nine per cent of the 405 students who returned the questionnaires indicated that there is not enough privacy. Even all but 2 of those feel that an open dorm policy would be best to open the women’s dorms only, 210 thought that the men’s dorms should be opened, and 213 felt that it would be best to hold open dorms only for the men’s and women’s living quarters. Those opposed to the open dorm policy were polled by the counseling group of the 15 issue of the Lawrenceian.

Many students commented on the dorm policy in their questionnaires and proposed their solutions. The statement that parents should give their permission. A total of 113 indicated that they thought that the open dorm policy should be extended to every night of the week, and 252 held the opposite viewpoint. Considering the short period of time during which the questionnaires were distributed and all of the special activities of this past weekend, the number of returned questionnaires indicated that there is a real concern among the students for the dorm policy.

X. J. Kennedy, Famed Poet, To Visit Campus

X. J. Kennedy, prize-winning poet and instructor in English at Bowdoin College, will give a reading of his poems at 8:00 p.m. Monday, May 21, in the Silverstrom lounge of the Union.

A graduate of Beloit Hall, Danielson, and the Commonwealth, Kennedy received the 1961 Lenox Award of the Academy of American Poets for his book of poems, Node Descending a Staircase, published by Doubleday, Inc. He was also awarded the Beak Bokin prize of Poetry magazine last year.

Kennedy’s poetry has appeared in several of the most outstanding literary magazines in this country, such as the Paris Review, Poetry, the Hudson Review and The New Yorker.

In addition to teaching and writing poetry, Kennedy recently received a fellowship for a year long residence at Yaddo, the celebrated artists community in upstate New York.

This year Kennedy has read his own work over the B.B.C. Third programme as well as at a great many colleges throughout the country.

Orpheus Descends
In Color Spectacle

By PHIL KOHLBREN

Many of the scenes in “Black Orpheus” are as well done as the actual Orpheus, who has an all-too-rare understanding of color photography; for the Orpheus is far too busy with the stock-in-trade of his profession to set them apart from the ritual which surrounds them. He has created two enormously exciting color scenes, making faces and shapes appear and disappear in the jungle or in the red and yellow lights of a streetcar barn. This thin legend is explored, over the twenty-second day it is due, a second notice will be sent out. A flat charge of fifty cents will be imposed for any overdue book until the book is returned.

Orpheus’ guitar is his ability to seduce any female. By attempting to adapt the Orpheus legend to a modem setting, it is clear that he has hit all of the right notes. The Orpheus who inspired R. Laforge has become a world-famous guitarist, as is his famous guitar. Orpheus’ guitar is his ability to seduce any female. College to Enforce New Fines
In Enlarged Library Next Year

Mr. Brubaker, college librarian, has drawn up new rules which will be in effect at the enlarged library. The object of the new regulations is not to curb the students’ desire for the use of the library, but to protect the majoritly of the users of the library against the inconsiderate or careless borrowers.

The object of the new regulations is not to curb the students’ desire for the use of the library, but to protect the majority of the users of the library against the inconsiderate or careless borrowers.
Despite the numerous suggestions regarding possibilities for increased flexibility in social regulations, the strength of sentiment on a girls’ Honors Dorm is apparently nonexistent for the school year of 1962-63. In spite of an extension of the deadline for petitions, only 12 women, petitioned for quarters in a women’s Honors Dorm. Thus, as dormitories must be filled to capacity to house the increasingly large number of coeds who prefer Lawrence to transferring, the suggested Honors Dorm will not exist next year.

The situation is rather a reflection upon the character of Lawrence women. Is it possible that but three upcoming senior coeds would forsake the warmth of the society of Colman for intellectual stimulation conceivably as beneficial as that currently existing in North House? Is it possible that only seven upcoming junior women are willing to brave the alleged rigors of a residential hall that is no less comfortable than North House? Is it possible that all but a dozen women at Lawrence are unwilling to switch rooms or desired living quarters on short notice even for residence in an Honors Dorm? Tut, tut . . . it appears that the natty old world is likely to be a little rough for some upon graduation.

This recent aggregate decision of Lawrence women also raises some doubts regarding the contemporary professor dreams of Lawrenceians. That is, the proposed Honors Dorm would have provided numerous intellectual advantages. At the same time, social regulations would have been more flexible. The existence of these two factors in an interrelationship should be natural at a school such as Lawrence. However, the verbal adulation of this interrelationship by students is far different than the acceptance of the involved responsibilities.

Until students male and female, are ready to actually accept the burdened and extra-curricular responsibilities in a living situation, one wonders at the direction of the student body.

To the Editor:

Mr. Bruce Dickson, in an article in The Dialogue, has among other things voiced the opinion that the problem of segregation in the South is none of our business.

Mr. Dickson seems unaware that the United States is one nation, that, when freedom of some Americans is restricted, the freedom of all Americans is imperiled; that it is the right and duty of all Americans to fight the restriction of freedom anywhere in one’s country with deeds as well as with words.

Mr. Dickson is also unaware that, in the North, steps are being taken to correct local segregation problems; the wade-ins in Chicago and the discussion on school integration in New York are examples of this. Furthermore, events in the South have a great influence on the North. Unless the pace of non-violent integration is quickened, numerous groups throughout the country may resort to truly militant methods of achieving social “harmony” — methods which, far from unifying our country, may create bitterness more enduring than that caused by the war which Mr. Dickson so rightly deprecates.

Mr. Dickson has suggested the possibility of a valid opinion on the question which differs from that voiced by the SEC. We fear that Mr. Dickson’s quest for an alternate proposal will be held up by his conception of the United States as a group of isolated regions, with no common concerns. If, however, he can offer such a proposal to state it publicly.

TOMAS S. CROGBY

PHIL KOHLRUBERG

To the Senior Class:

On behalf of the entire staff of the foreign language departments and also on behalf of many generations of future Lawrence students, we wish to thank you all for your generous gift to the language laboratory.

With the growing classes, many splendid recordings are now available in all languages. Thanks to you, we shall be able to start a good library of these works. We are particularly grateful to you for helping us provide materials for the use of the laboratory by upper-classmen. During this first year we have neglected them, we know, for the beginners, but it has always been our hope to use the laboratory as much as possible on all levels.

Since almost all of you have passed through our hands during your years here, I take this opportunity to tell you a departmental farewell: best wishes go with you. Come back to see us often.

ANNE P. JONES

To the Editor:

Recently there has been a greater demand for more adult freedoms here at Lawrence. I believe that liquor on campus might offer a refreshing change and as many students would most likely accept it, I submit that at least a part of the Freshmen dorm has demonstrated what right it has to these privileges by their behavior at the Point Beach picnic.

D. R. PARRISON, JR.

To Lawrenceans:

It has been asserted many times in the last few months that college regulations have too much control over our social lives at Lawrence and that perhaps this is true in some degree. It seems ironic, however, that side by side with these many declarations of social independence are found such sentiments as the following, which appeared in the May issue of The Dialogue: “Several of the students observed that the most successful parties are those where beer is served, and that this was the major reason why Greek Groups held off-campus social events.”

But beer, an campus might offer a refreshing change to the typical Lawrence dance and as many stated, the students would have more fun and be more prone to let themselves go for an evening.”

Are we really this socially dependent on a substance which for many has not meant social growth, fulfillment but loss and material, financial, physical, and moral harm? The answer is yes, then let us consider the possibility that changes are due in our own lives rather than in the life of Lawrence College.

Respectfully,

Professor Than Explains Problems of Modern Burma

By RUSS RUTTER

"Burma: Her problems and Prospects" was the top- line of a lecture given by Dr. Aung Than in the Memorial Union Tuesday, May 15 at 8 p.m. Dr. Than is a visiting professor of religion and philosophy at Lawrence this semester.

Dr. Than began by pointing out that Burma is not merely another China but rather has been steadily modified the Indian religion into a religion in itself.

Burma, Dr. Than stated, has had little increase in population during the past twenty years. This has caused a shortage of manpower, at the same time sparing Burma the food shortage which is prevalent in many parts of Asia.

Following years of British colonial rule, Burma was "liberated" by the Japanese armies. The liberation, Dr. Than asserted, was actually a mere servitude to Japan. By the end of World War II, Burma's resources had been used up and her means of producing more bombed out.

Dr. Than asserted, A non-partisan government is needed desperately, and for this reason, Dr. Than felt that the government of the better educated and a far more impartial military might not be a bad idea. It is to the advantage of all, Dr. Than stated, that Burma be built up, strengthened economically, and made to progress along a path of inner stability and international neutrality.

Boyamen End Season 2-9; Beat Olies 5-4, Lose 5-3

By DICK PICKARD

In their final two games of the 1962 season, the Lawrence baseball squad proved again that in the clutch, they are unpredictable. The Vikings lost the first game of a doubleheader against St. Olaf last Friday, but came back to take the second game in a cliff-hanger finish.

The Boyamen lost the first game of a doubleheader against Bob Mueller, who came on in the fifth at reliever and starter. Steve Gilboy, Mueller struck out the first four batters he faced. But the score was 1-0, and they would come back to tie the game in the top of the ninth on a Bob Dude single to left and Hangman hit a double to center. With the winning runs on third and fourth, Steve Gilboy fanned out.

Tom Barton has been named business manager of the Arb for this coming year; he will be assisted by Peter Barie.

Golfers Lose to Oshkosh;
Host Conference Meet Today

The Lawrence golfers ended their match play season on a dismal note. Last week, Oshkosh pinned a 12-6 victory on the Vikings in a bid to end the Midwest Conference meet this weekend.

Dave Graska and Tom Hege, the No. one and two men respectively for Oshkosh, held down all three points from their Lawrence opponents. Graska, who earned medalist honors with a 78, stayed ahead of Lawrence’s Dan Gilmore by at least three strokes on each nine-hole round. Gilmore shot an 88 hole total of 176. Meanwhile, Larry Weiker skyrocketed to 206, which easily gave him his second three-man point. The only man on whom Weiker was able to gain four points on was Lawrence’s No. four, five and six golfers.

Gals’ 3 Victory
Bill Lennon gained a 2-1 victory in points over Tony Gall of Oshkosh with two nine-hole totals of 42 for an 84. The most pleasant surprise of the meet for Lawrence was the excellent shooting of Clrn Barcena. Herected, going in the No. five position, shot 82 with a 27 on the back nine. He easily topped Dick Weigman for all three points.

Oshkosh racked up their final three points over Wall Isaac of Mass. Salemman shot an 87 to beat Isaac by 19 strokes.

For the Conference meet this weekend, the Vikings will need better performances from their top three golfers, Dan Gilmore, Herb Weber and Carey Wicklond. John Allen is the one strong spot in the Viking lineup. Carlston appears to be the favorite for the tournament, but Ripon also bring a strong team to Lawrence, which will be host

Conference Track Meet Finals Tomorrow at Ripon

Tomorrow at 2:00 p.m. the Viking trackmen will compete in the finals of the conference meet. The Vikings’ 75% record, so far over Ripon last Friday gave them a 3-2 conference record and an overall record of 4-4 in dual meets. Despite four losses with the Badgers, the Vikings were left to a show ahead of the Green Bay with 65 points.

The Benchwarmer

By Jack Woodyatt

It has come to the attention of this columnist from a reliable source, my eyes, that one of our esteemed freshman basketball stars, who was put on probation at the end of last semester, failed to attend class in at least one course for a period of eleven weeks this semester. This 20 WP performer was given the class notes and printed the night before the mid-term exam by members of his social group. The "all-star" got a B on the test,

The Phi Deltas took first place in the interfraternity baseball race with a 7-0 record. They demolished the Phi Taus 21-2 and 16-5 in their two meetings early this week. The Phi Deltas gained two more games over the Phi Taus.

The Phi Taus finished second, two games off the pace with a 5-2 mark. Wayne Scott pitched a no-hitter in the season’s finale as the Betas received to show up. The term’s tournament has been progressing very slowly. At the present time, the Phi Deltas have three finalists and the Phi Taus have none. The other two semi-finalists haven’t yet been played or reported. Homemakers is leading in the stack, but Losers have more ties from the standpoint of the benefit of the participants. Non-conference scheduling and the overwhelming problem it has been played up to be, enables the squad to face a greater variety of styles of play and partially eliminates the weekly Friday-Saturday grind.

The Lawrence golfers ended their match play season on a dismal note. Last week, Oshkosh pinned a 12-6 victory on the Vikings in a bid to end the Midwest Conference meet this weekend.

Dave Graska and Tom Hege, the No. one and two men respectively for Oshkosh, held down all three points from their Lawrence opponents. Graska, who earned medalist honors with a 78, stayed ahead of Lawrence’s Dan Gilmore by at least three strokes on each nine-hole round. Gilmore shot an 88 hole total of 176. Meanwhile, Larry Weiker skyrocketed to 206, which easily gave him his second three-man point. The only man on whom Weiker was able to gain four points on was Lawrence’s No. four, five and six golfers.

Gals’ 3 Victory
Bill Lennon gained a 2-1 victory in points over Tony Gall of Oshkosh with two nine-hole totals of 42 for an 84. The most pleasant surprise of the meet for Lawrence was the excellent shooting of Clrn Barcena. Herected, going in the No. five position, shot 82 with a 27 on the back nine. He easily topped Dick Weigman for all three points.

Oshkosh racked up their final three points over Wall Isaac of Mass. Salemman shot an 87 to beat Isaac by 19 strokes.

For the Conference meet this weekend, the Vikings will need better performances from their top three golfers, Dan Gilmore, Herb Weber and Carey Wicklond. John Allen is the one strong spot in the Viking lineup. Carlston appears to be the favorite for the tournament, but Ripon also bring a strong team to Lawrence, which will be host
